*I dream things
That never were
And say Why not?"*

Caught within the vortex
Of a whirlwind society,
Time for thinking.

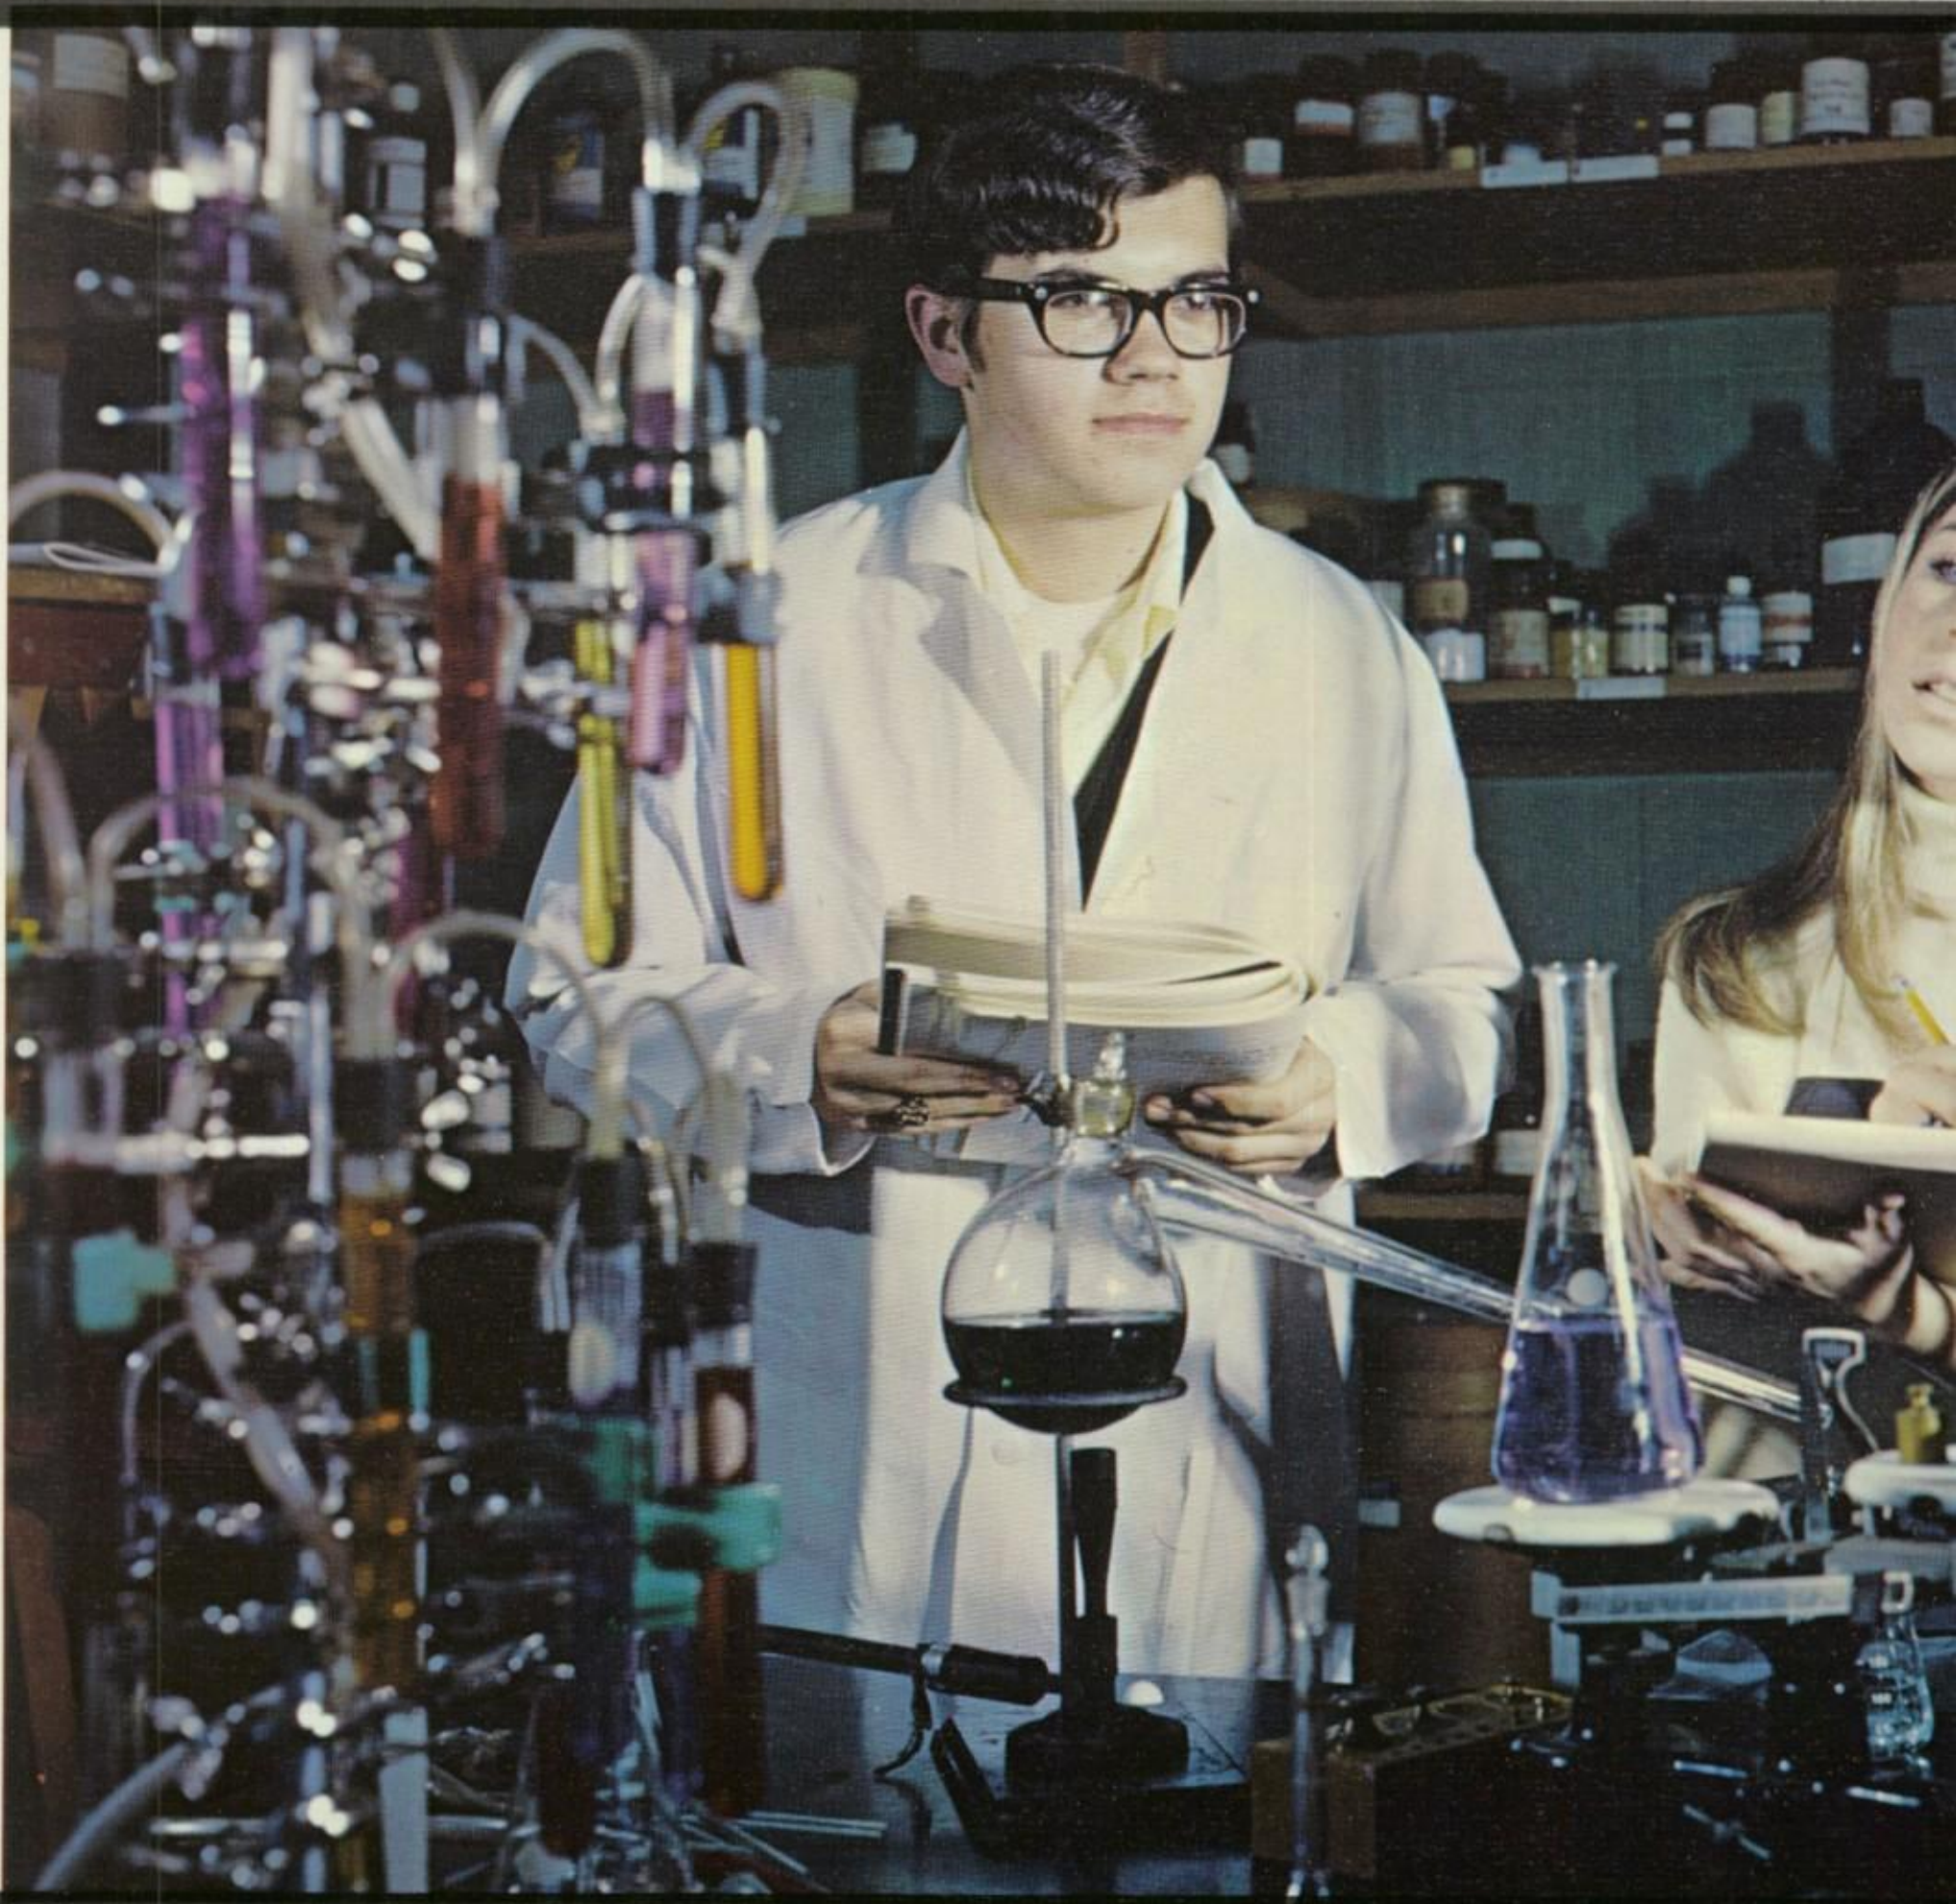

Our hours are spent
Working alone
And with others,

United by Common goals.

*Every day
Confronts us
With new and greater challenges.*

Each one conquered
 Moves us
 One step closer
 To the fulfillment
 Of our own
 Impossible dream.

Board's Sound Business Management Stands Behind School Operations

"Luck is made." This is the motto of Berkley's superintendent of schools Dr. Donald Roe. For example Berkley is lucky to escape the recent rash of teacher strikes, thanks greatly to the excellent work of Mr. Don Sheldon, assistant superintendent in the area of personnel. In spite of the voters rejection of millage proposals, the Berkley school district has been lucky enough to carry on in its high scholastic tradition, largely because of the efforts of Mr. Robert Hurley, assistant superintendent in charge of finance. The Berkley Schools have also been lucky to maintain their standard of excellence because of the diligence and dedication of the School Board functioning under the leadership of Dr. Roe. It is not through pure luck that the Berkley School District is among the best in the state, but rather due to the sound business management contributed by these devoted people for the benefit of the schools.

Industrious Staff Insures B.H.S. Excellence

Each fall Mr. Loren Disbrow, reigning monarch of Berkley High, delivers his customary stirring speech at the opening assembly. At that time he asserts his position of leadership and his ability to manage the increasingly complex high school. The role of principal of a progressive and independent student body of 2200 and a faculty of over 100 modern, forward-thinking teachers is not an easy role to play. Nevertheless, Mr. Disbrow guides the school forward with never ending skill and tact.

Assisting Mr. Disbrow in his duties are our three assistant principals. The guidance department and new faculty orientation are areas under the jurisdiction of Mrs. Lucille Morrison. Mr. Lloyd Irving is in charge of disciplinary problems and also serves as advisor to the Association of Student Organizations. Mr. David Blomfield, in addition to his duties with attendance, confronts truancy and drop-out problems.

Striving to lessen the work load of the students and faculty as well as the principals is the large bustling secretarial staff. With duties ranging from those of personal secretaries to the principals to receptionists, the secretaries contribute greatly to the continued smooth-running efficiency of the office, the school, and the staff.

Counselors Steer Students Through Three Hectic Years

As Berkley students rush through their busy three years in high school they make frequent use of our resident staff of six "Dear Abbys" known as guidance counselors. Into these understanding ears are poured all problems ranging from personality conflicts to college choosing with an extremely wide number of perplexities between.

In a school with a student population of approximately 2200 it is difficult to resist the tendency to regard students as punch-card numbers. However it is in the category of personal attention that our counselors excel. To them and in part because of them Berkley High is populated with individuals instead of numbers.

Our counselors, headed by assistant principal Mrs. Lucille Morrison, are not ones to bury themselves beneath records and transcripts. During off-school hours they administer tests and examine colleges to further help their students.

Background Efforts Lend Efficiency to Berkley High

A lunch bell sounds to end morning classes, and hundreds of hungry students arrive at the cafeteria for the noon meal. Not noticing the capable hands at work in the mid-morning bustle of the school kitchen, the students and faculty see only the service side of our cafeteria staff. From the framework of Mrs. Margaret Malburg's menus to the prepared hot lunch and beyond to both meal service and clean-up, the staff employs a team effort to make nourishing lunches and lunch supplements available.

Another facet of the bustling efficiency of Berkley High School is the work of the custodial staff. Dirty floors and blackboards, burned-out light bulbs and broken windows are only a few of the myriad of tasks confronting Mr. Jim Dewey and the custodians in his department. Aside from their various assigned duties in building and grounds maintenance, our custodians are always found ready to help students and faculty in any one of their many fields of special skill. In these countless areas of quiet background service the high standards of the staff are achieved, maintained and displayed.

Workers doing their jobs efficiently outside of the classroom make possible a major part of Berkley High's primary educational objectives.

TOP: Mrs. Malburg checks over her grocery list in making up the weekly lunch menu, always keeping in mind nutrition and variety. ABOVE: Tackling one of the many duties accorded daily to a head custodian, Mr. Jim Dewey cleans an office copying machine. RIGHT: Enjoying one of their own lunches is our kitchen staff: LEFT TO RIGHT: Mesdames Case, Long, Vickory, Matyka, Prescott, Blazy, E. Sano, F. Sano and McCreddie. NOT PICTURED: Mrs. Kucsulain.

Groups Encourage

Research papers, book reports, college and career information for planning futures, or a quiet place to pass a free hour are only a few of the multitudinous uses which the students find for the BHS library. In charge of the library and its more than 20,000 volumes are Miss Marilyn Sarver and Mr. Barry Lepler, our librarians. Mr. Lepler assumed the role of librarian after Mrs. Ann Beuerle, who had served in the position in the opening weeks of school, retired. Aside from the duties of routine library work and helping students with current library needs, the librarians strive to teach the valuable principles of research methods.

Understanding is the objective of the PTSA of the high school. Promoting this understanding between the parents, teachers and students of the association, the group aims to bridge the generation gap by presenting programs such as the Sophomore and Junior-Senior Open Houses and the spring "Talk-In". Mr. Jack Schram, the 1968-69 president of PTSA, guides the officers and members in their programs and their support of the school through their membership.

Encouraging initiative in the field of sports for BHS is the Bear Booster's Club. Under the leadership of President Fred Redpath, its members sponsor annual banquets to end the sports seasons thus furthering the spirit of the school.

Academics

Underclassmen Pursue New Knowledge in Grammar and

World literature and its creative authors combine with a study of our country's literary background to form the basis for underclass English. Many novel devices, such as movies, field trips, plays and recordings, liven up and add the necessary interest to the classroom atmosphere, which makes it more exciting for the students.

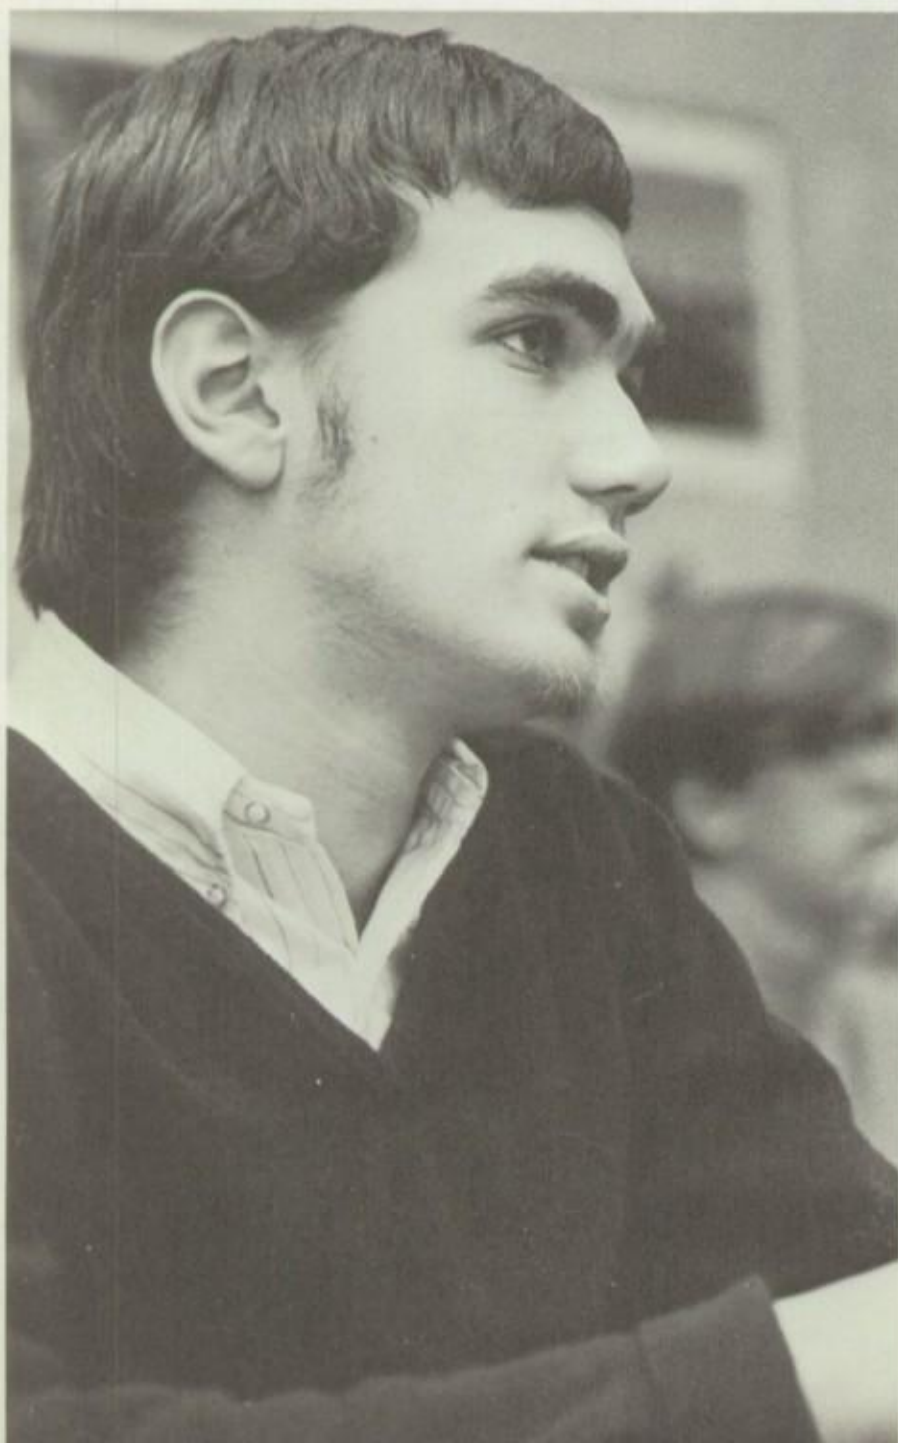

Sophomore study begins with a preview of English authors along with their works and basic philosophies. Their novels are contrasted and compared to those of American authors. Silas Marner and Julius Caesar are two classic examples of the material available to students interested in the literary aspects of underclass English.

Becoming a junior presents an introduction to Word Wealth, a two year program dedicated to the enlargement of an individual's vocabulary. It is in the junior year that English and History go hand in hand to promote a general attitude of familiarity between the two courses. The novels and classics discussed in English II pertain directly to the periods and events the junior History classes concern themselves with. Students gain a greater insight to the problems of History.

The preparation necessary for being successful in the senior year, and in the many years to follow, as far as literary and grammatical achievements are concerned, depends entirely on the background familiar to students through experiences .

Literature

Specialized Instruction Helps to Widen Opportunities

Sleeping during class or doodling the time away used to be two extremely common habits in most English classes; however, senior English courses try to break this habit by offering specialized instruction to students.

Students in senior English study mostly modern literature such as the play "Detective Story". As a supplement to the play, students showed enthusiasm when a lawyer visited the class and spoke on the legal rights of the accused.

Business students gain knowledge of their prospective field in Business English. Understanding "shop talk" and improving writing skills are two of their main interests.

Advanced Placement students work to improve writing skills with hopes of entering their writings in Patterns or in the Scholastic Writing Awards Contest. A trip to the Hillberry Classic Theatre encourages interest as fiction comes alive on the stage when they viewed the production of Hamlet.

Phase 6 students aim to improve comprehension and speed in reading by hard work and special instruction. English 12 classes combine literature and grammar while discovering new ways of composing interesting essays and themes.

The class of '70 may discover that there is very little time for sleeping in senior English courses as did the class of '69. Maybe the future classes will find a way.

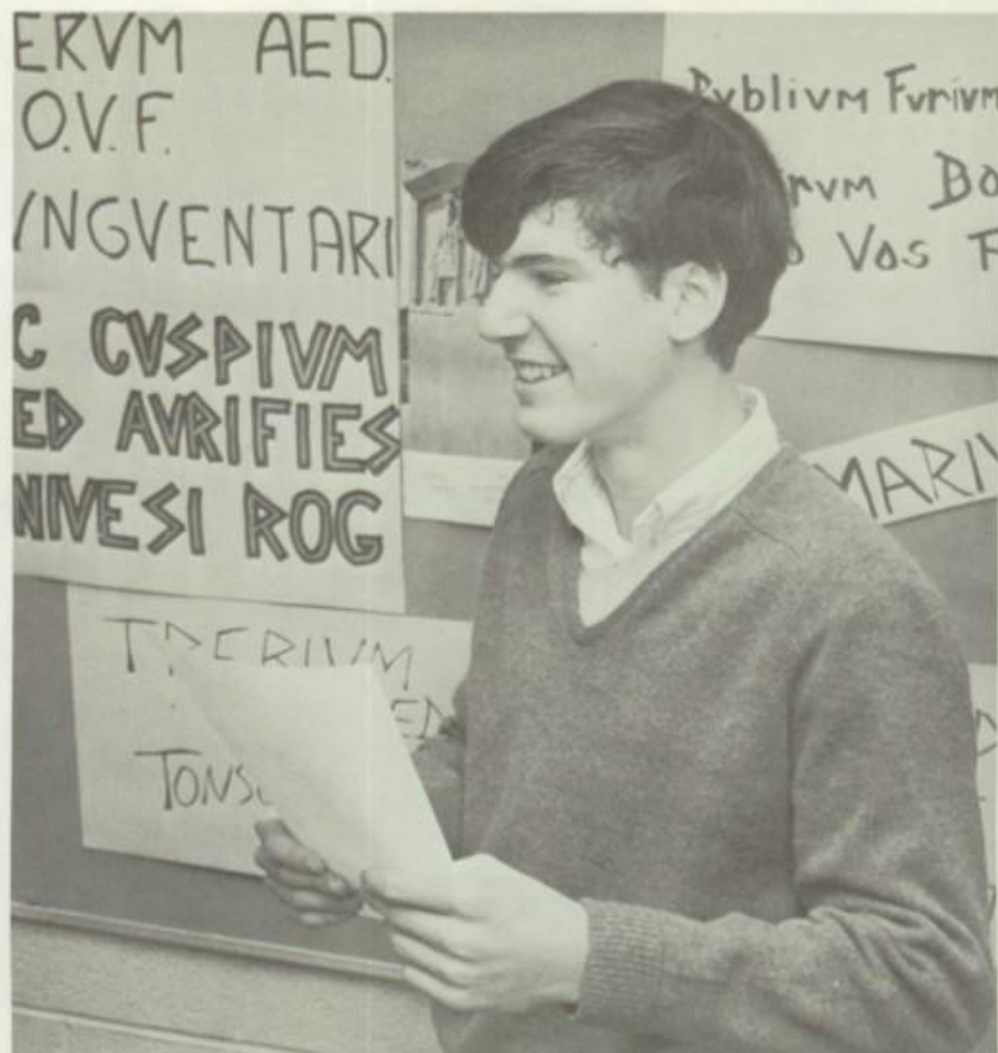

for Literary Achievements

Multitude of Languages Add Foreign Flare to Berkley

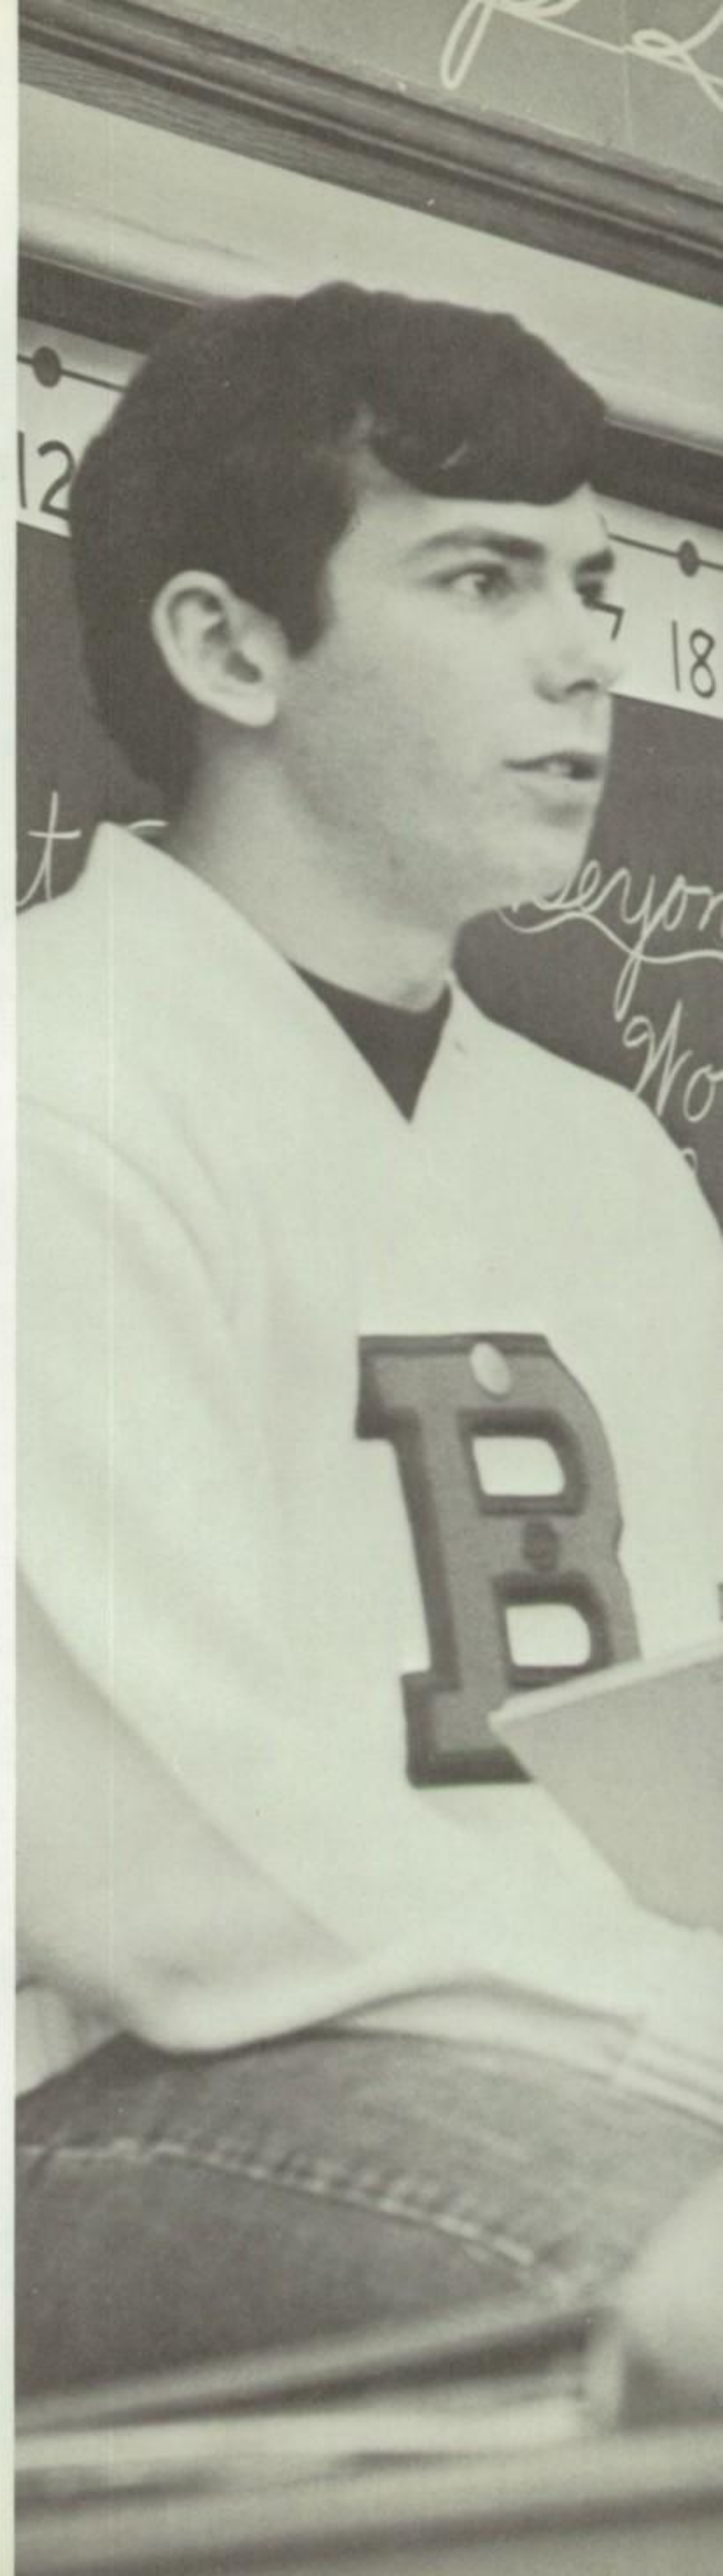

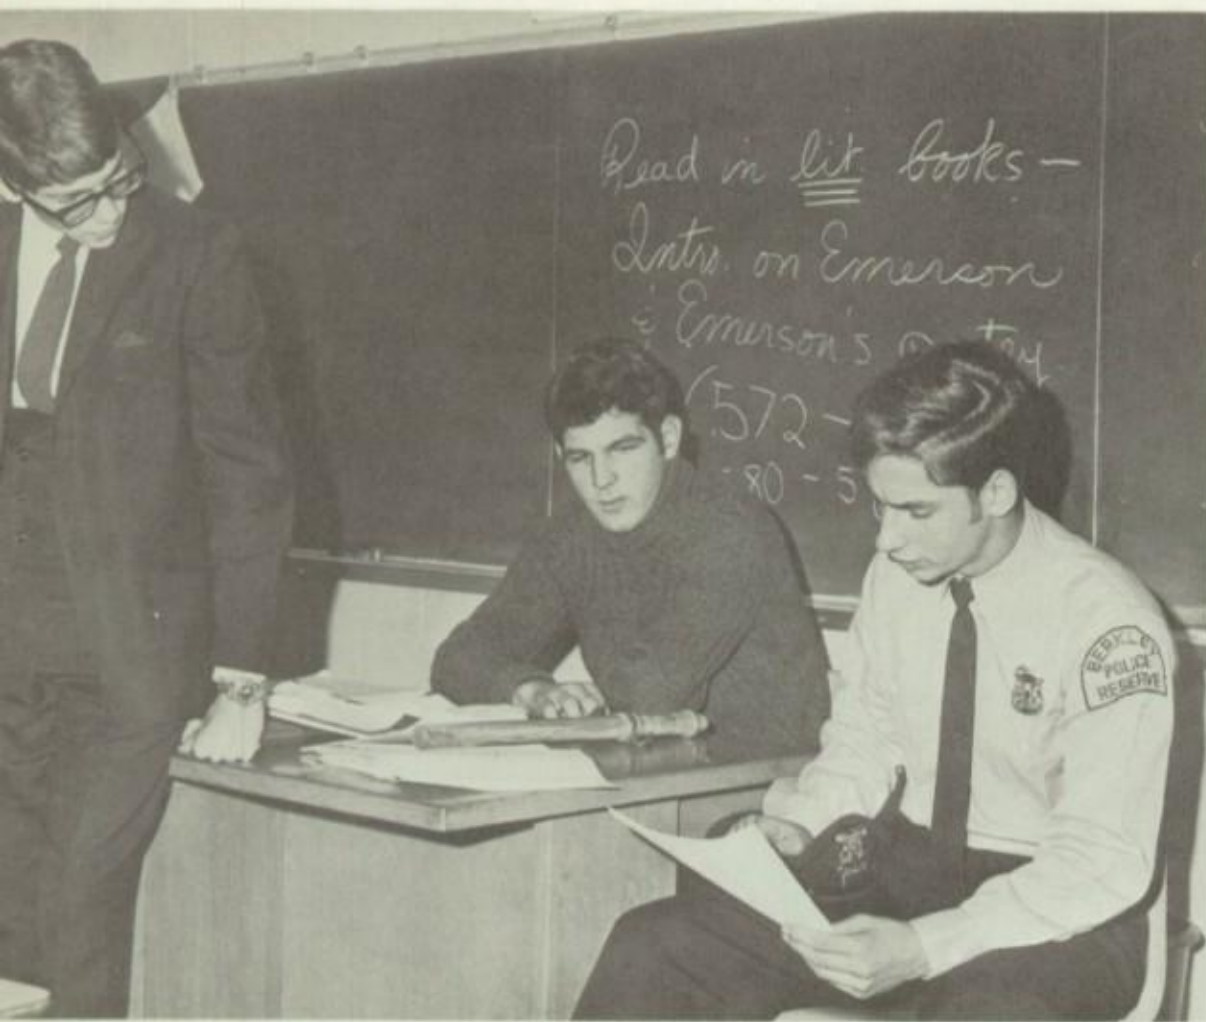

French cuisine, Viennese history, Latin literature and Spanish music are parts of the curriculum of the language department. Cultural awareness is awarded to all those students attaining at least a C average in previous English classes. The spice added to grammar and vocabulary fulfills these linguists with a knowledge of foreign customs and interests.

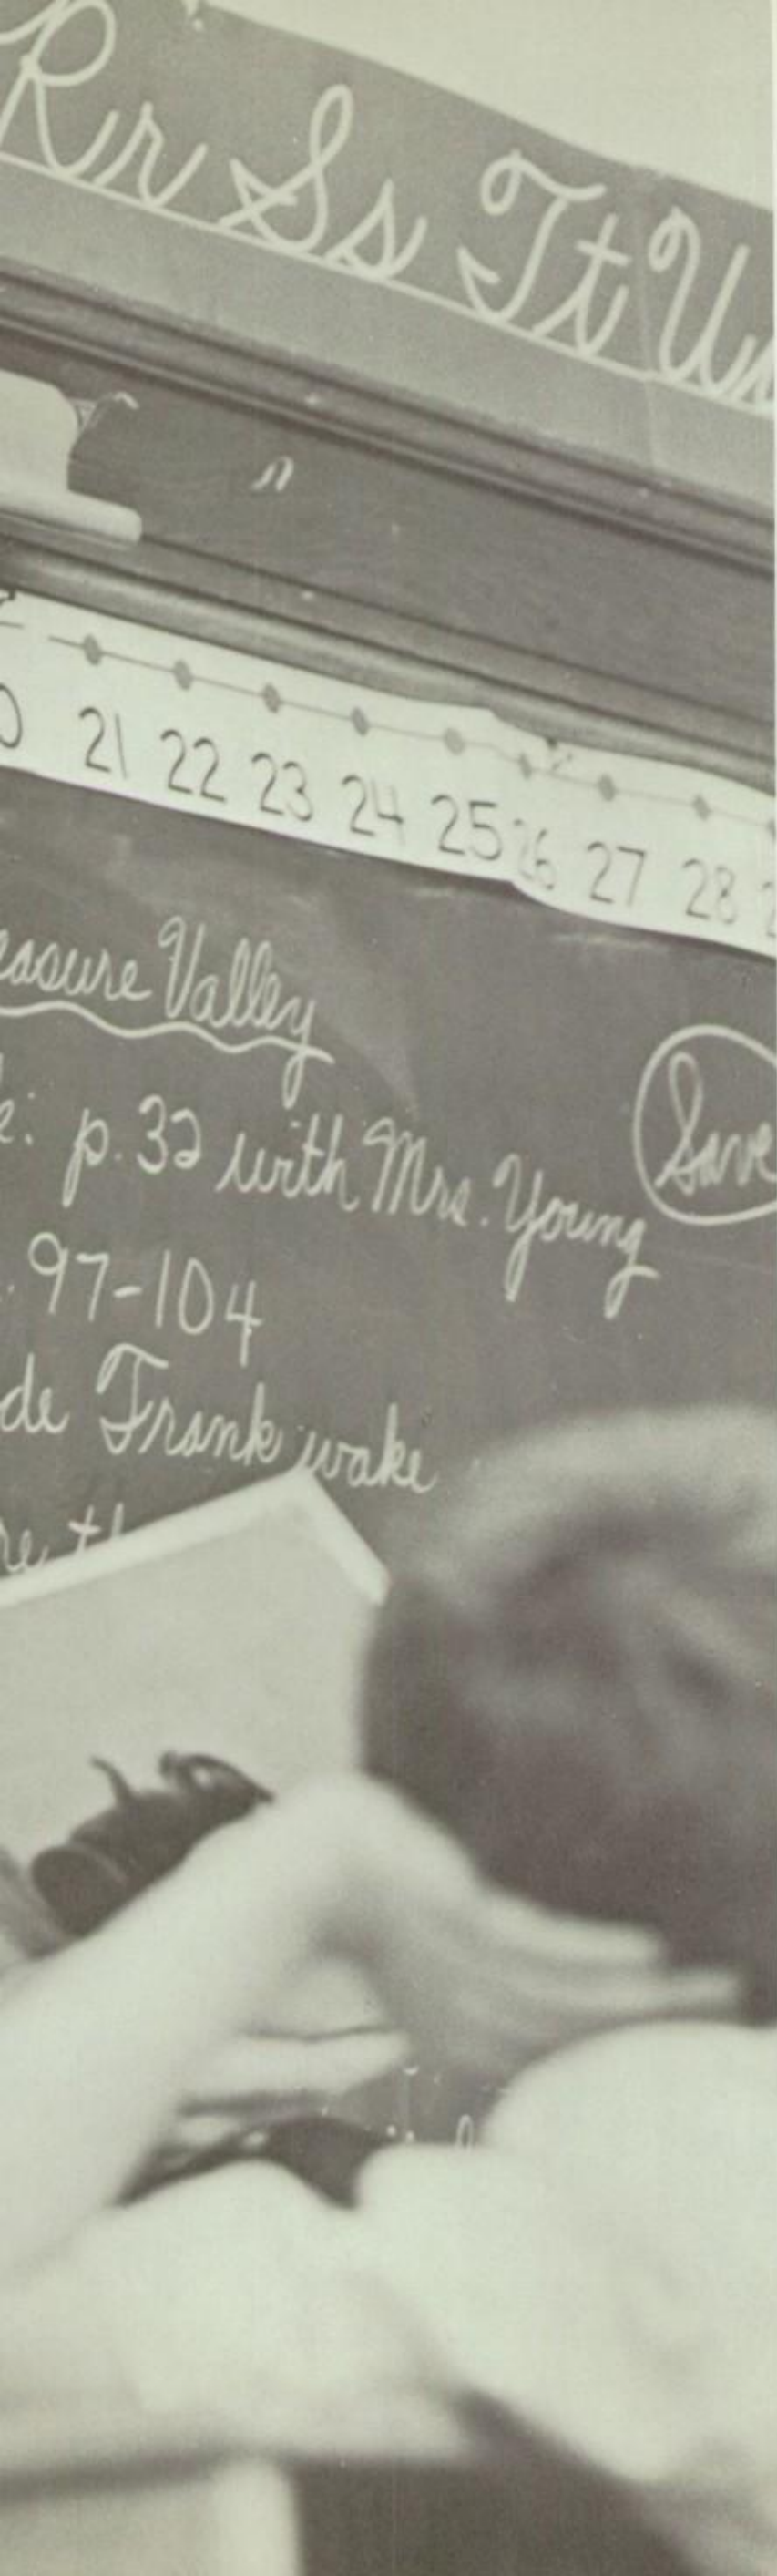

A new course designed for second year pupils was initiated this year called IIJ for sophomores that have taken a first year language course at the junior high. Also the language lab helps students to achieve a better idea of how the language is actually spoken.

Student teachers from Wayne State University play an important role in aiding themselves as well as the students with their new, college level methods.

French, one of the romance languages, consumes much time in reading famous poetry and manuscripts. Being the complex tongue that it is, much effort is needed to attain the fundamentals of grammar and pronunciation. German, with its difficult pronunciation, examines stories and poems. Latin, the basis of the English language, is developed through plays and oral work. And third year Spanish courses contain elements of poetry, music, literature, and current events.

Berkley High Thespians Seek Valuable Insight from Careers in Performing Arts

Speech and dramatics prepare many students who are seeking a career in either public speaking or drama for future professions. A combination of practice and determination develops each individual's ability to perform.

Opinions and ideas are expressed through various types of discourse. Speeches to inform are but a few of the many presentations demonstrated in an attempt to attain the goal of professionalism. Tapes and records are employed while gaining valuable experience which is necessary in any of the previously mentioned areas. Speech training may also be applied in everyday experiences as well as academically.

Prospective playwrights, stage-hands, lighting technicians and actors all benefit from two years of dramatics offered at Berkley High. Starting with first year drama, each person learns the basic skills. All performers strive to acquire talent of expression. The technical aspects of the theatre are equally important in putting on a production. A special group of interested students devote time and effort toward presenting programs annually for the benefit of the public.

To be able to openly express oneself is an admirable quality that many hope to possess. Through dramatics and speech classes, all willing students are given the opportunity to achieve this goal desirable to many students.

Practice and Drilling Improve Accuracy--an Important

Precision and the perseverance of novel methods, provides our business department with vocational interests and new, necessary skills. The entire second floor, west wing of the school is devoted to training in specific areas. If an individual is interested in going into accounting, business law is a one-semester course which acquaints this student with commonplace legal activities and problems. Marketing and salesmanship is another of the many fields of choice. These classes are designed to develop experience with the cash register, buying motives, and selling techniques of business.

Personal typing and notehand are also one-semester classes extremely valuable to all those planning to further their education after high school. Typing themes or research papers and taking notes quickly are assets which are necessary for success in any classroom.

The business department as a whole is strictly designed to prepare for, and explore the major aspects and details of business operation and control. In addition, business students are becoming more concerned with their proficiency in various forms of communication.

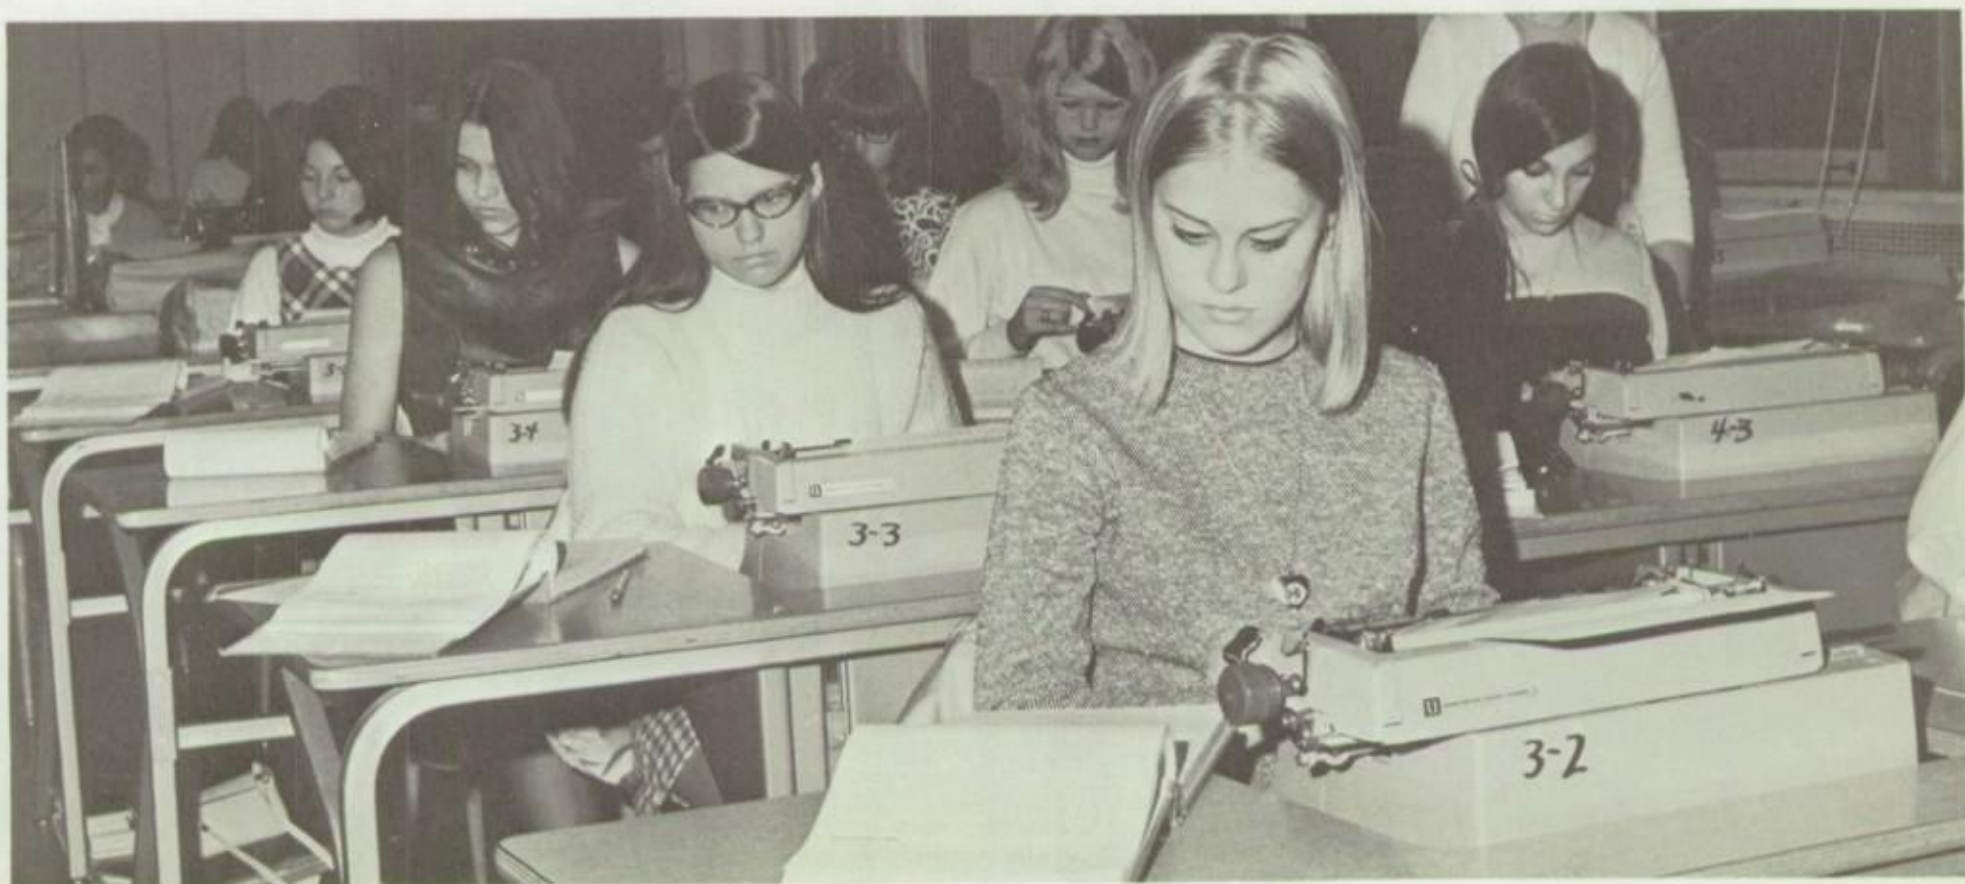

*RIGHT: Julie Shapiro completes the translation of her shorthand lesson, hoping to increase her speed and efficiency as a secretary
TOP: Helene Brodsky becomes familiar with notehand characters on a practice drill in hopes of being able to improve her study habits through school.*

Step to Success in Business

ABOVE: Mrs. Alexandra Takis supervises Darlene Novak and Cindy Beall, as they operate an adding machine improving business skills, a field in which many of the girls plan to enter. RIGHT: Gloria Safko listens attentively to Mr. Bart Simon as he illustrates basic merchandising techniques developmental in the careers of future businessmen. BELOW: Given time in class each day, personal typing students have timed typings and also learn basic skills necessary for any vocation. Here, the class develops speed yet maintains accuracy.

Tradesmen Demonstrate and Develop Manual Efficiency

Hot sparks and wood chips fly in metals and woodworking courses. The classes are designed to give a firm foundation for boys seeking a better knowledge of manual techniques.

Students enrolled in woodworking II design and construct their own creations such as grandfather clocks, end tables and love seats. In reward for their special effort and care, some boys sell their work to enthusiastic admirers. Advanced students displayed their talents by building cabinets and shelves in the Industrial Arts office.

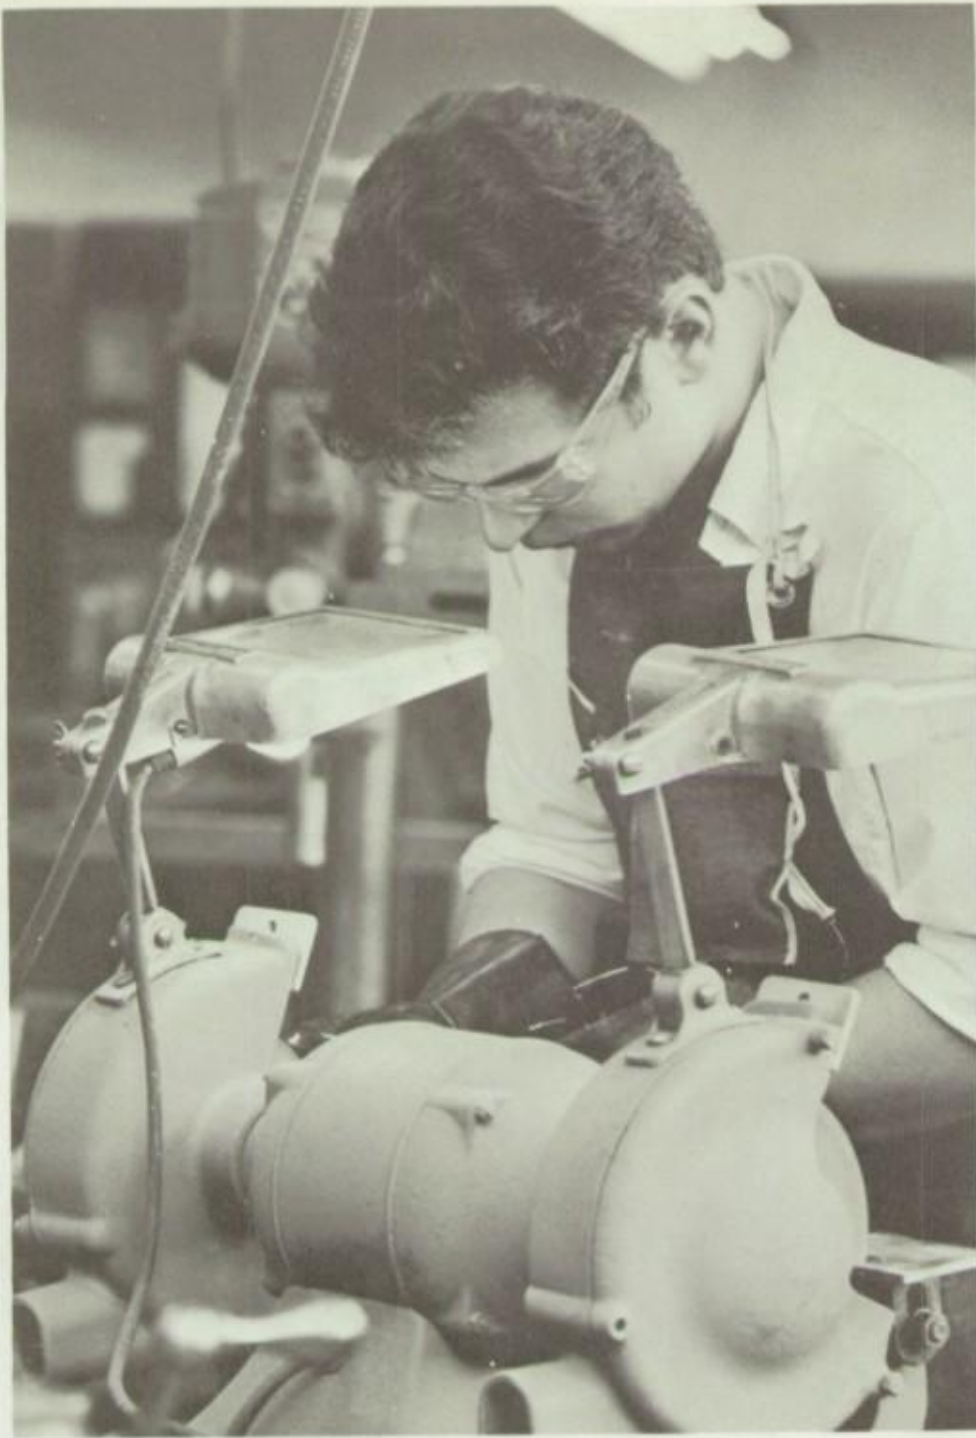

Prospective mechanics experience a series of typical jobs in the Auto I course to prepare them for the actual engine service offered in Auto II. An intense study of auto engines is also an essential part of the course.

Woodworking offers instruction and practice with power tools and machinery commonly found in wood shops, in addition to the most common hand tool operations. Each step of the wooding working process is followed from course to course.

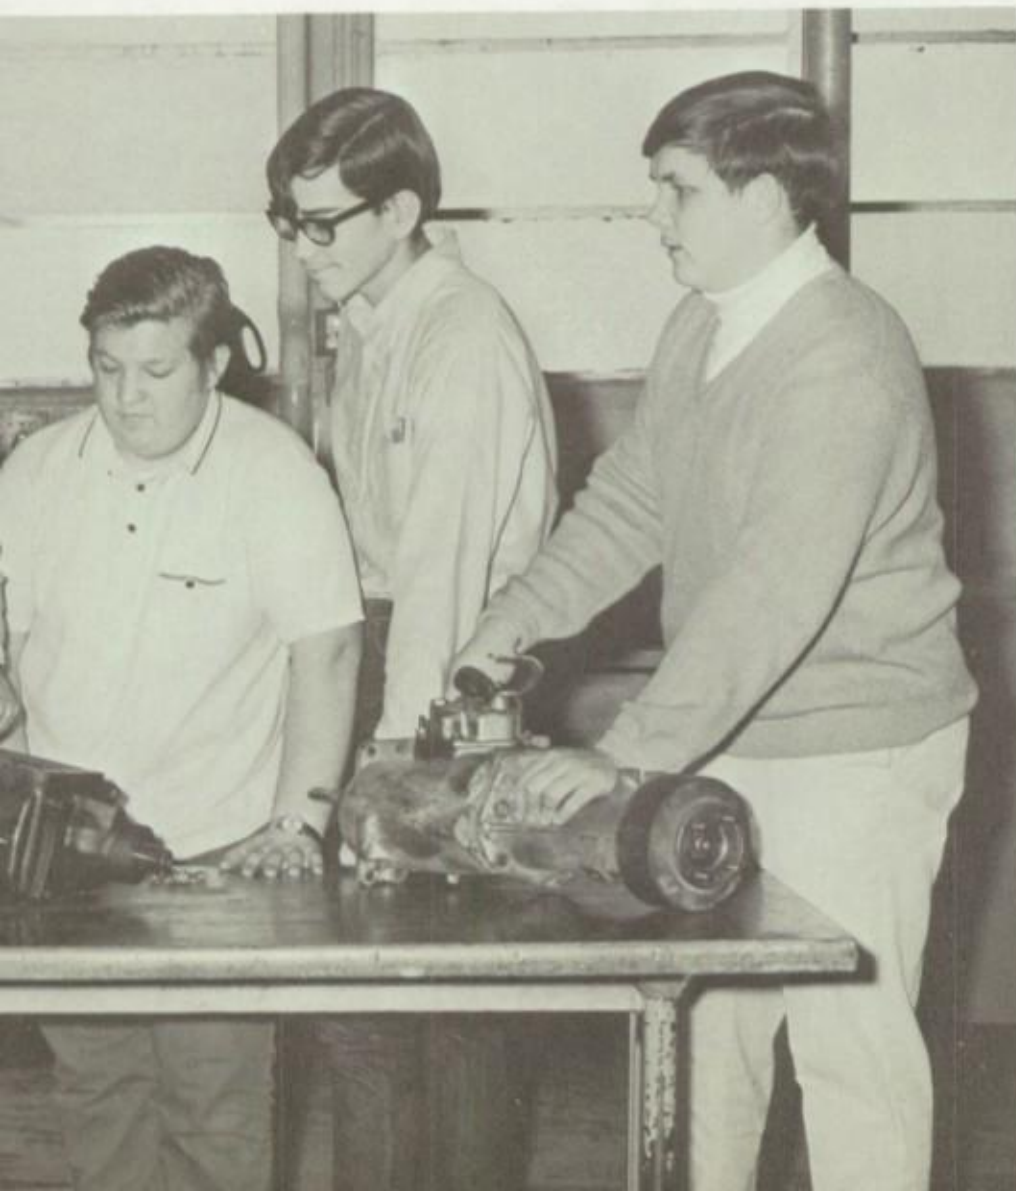

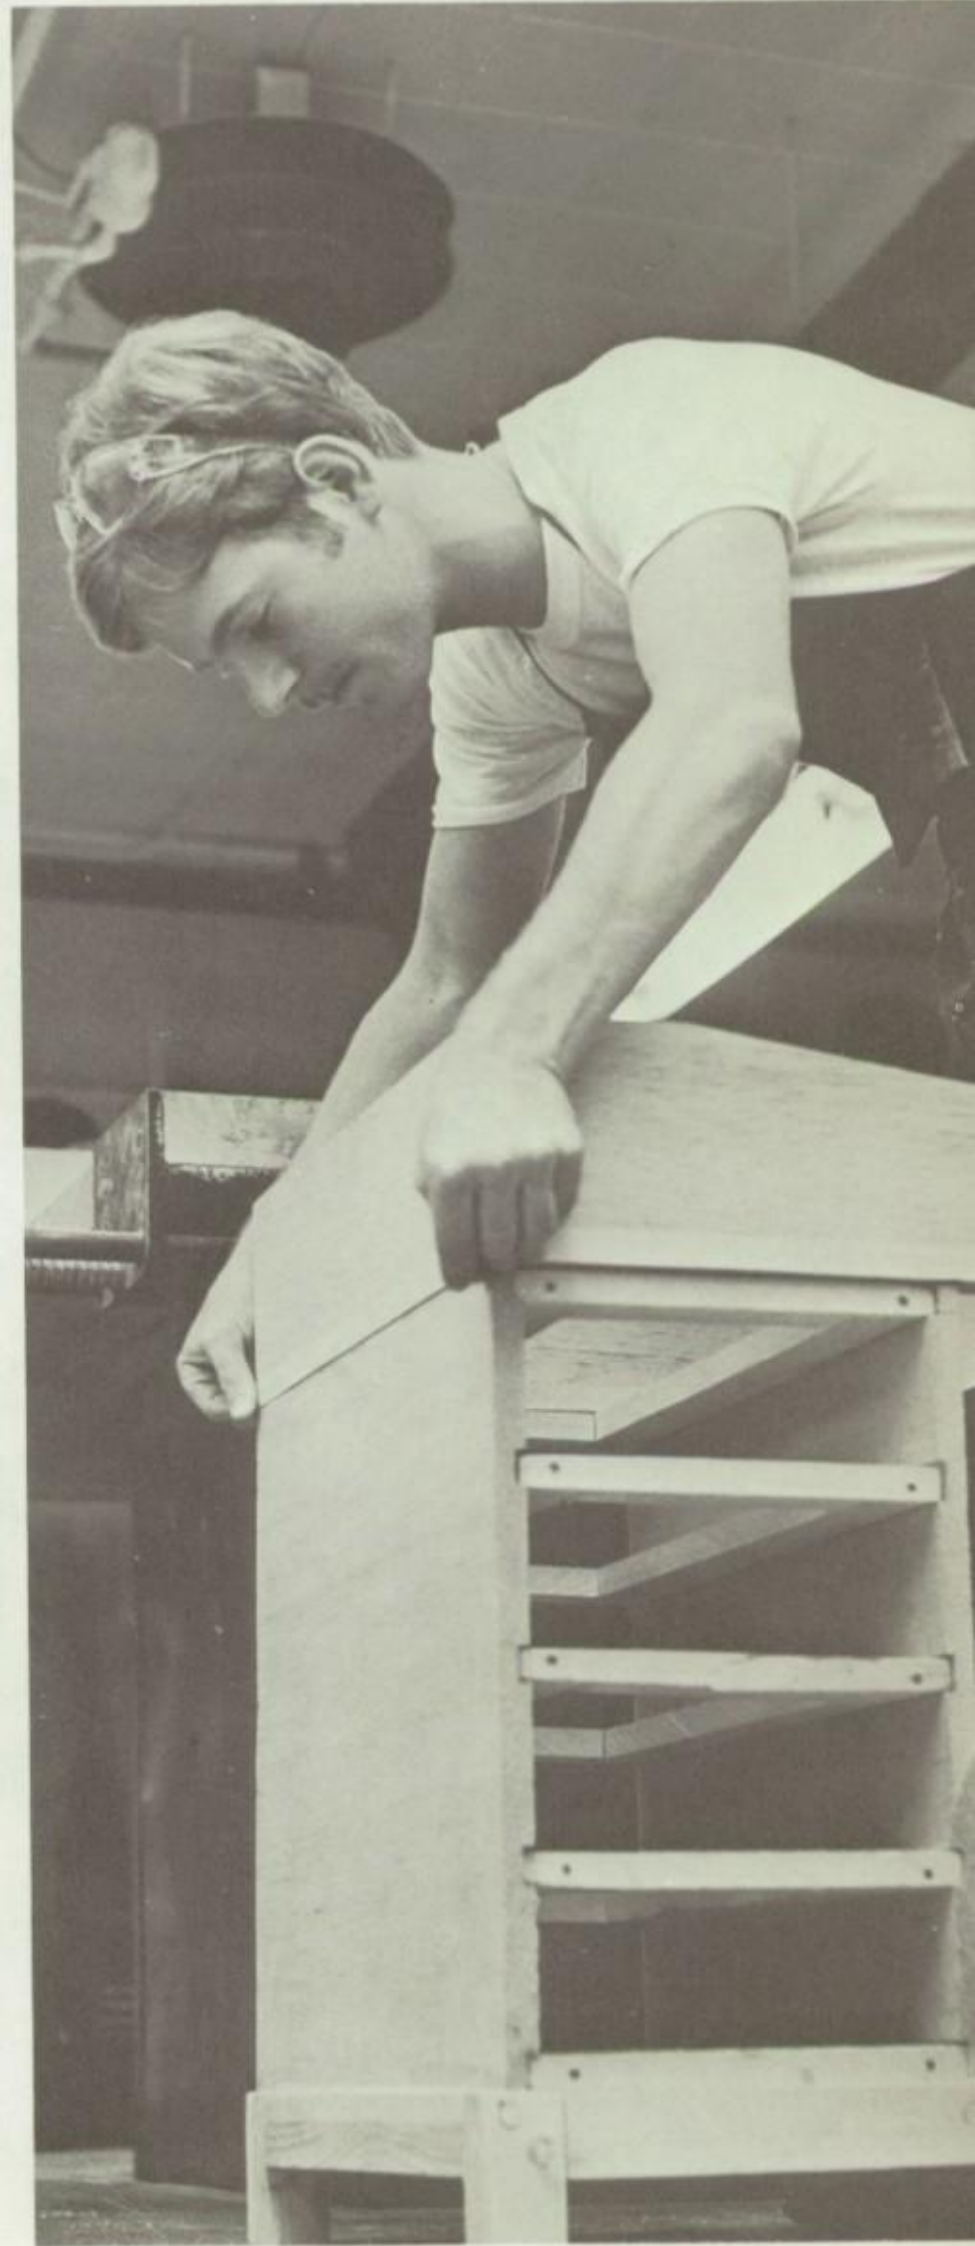

Metals puts an accent on lathe work, welding, sheet fabrication, brazing and riveting. These arts are highly technical and take much time and practice to master.

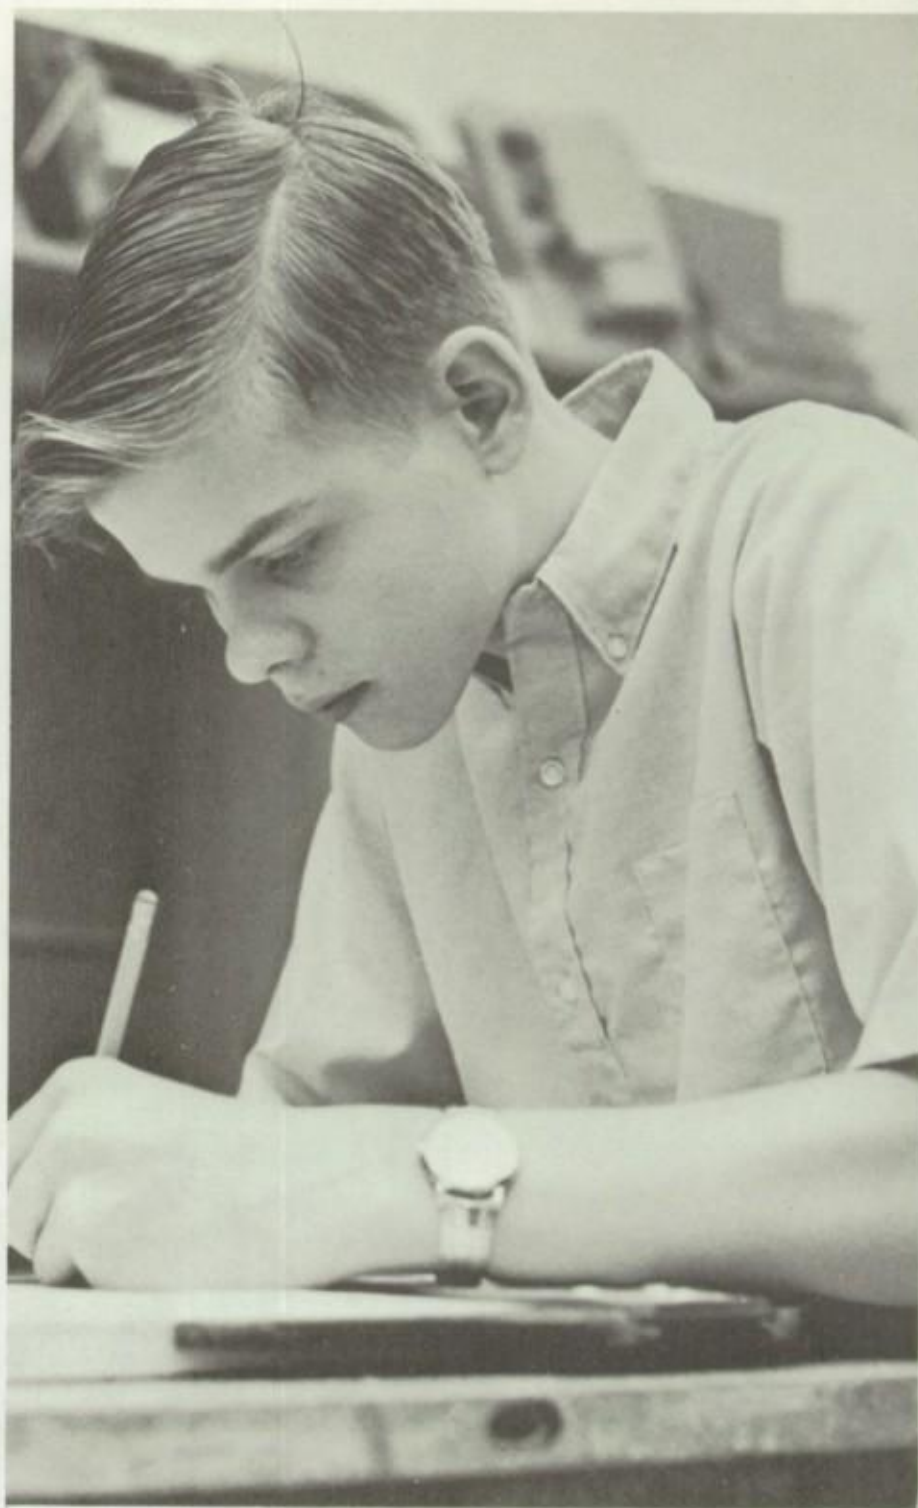

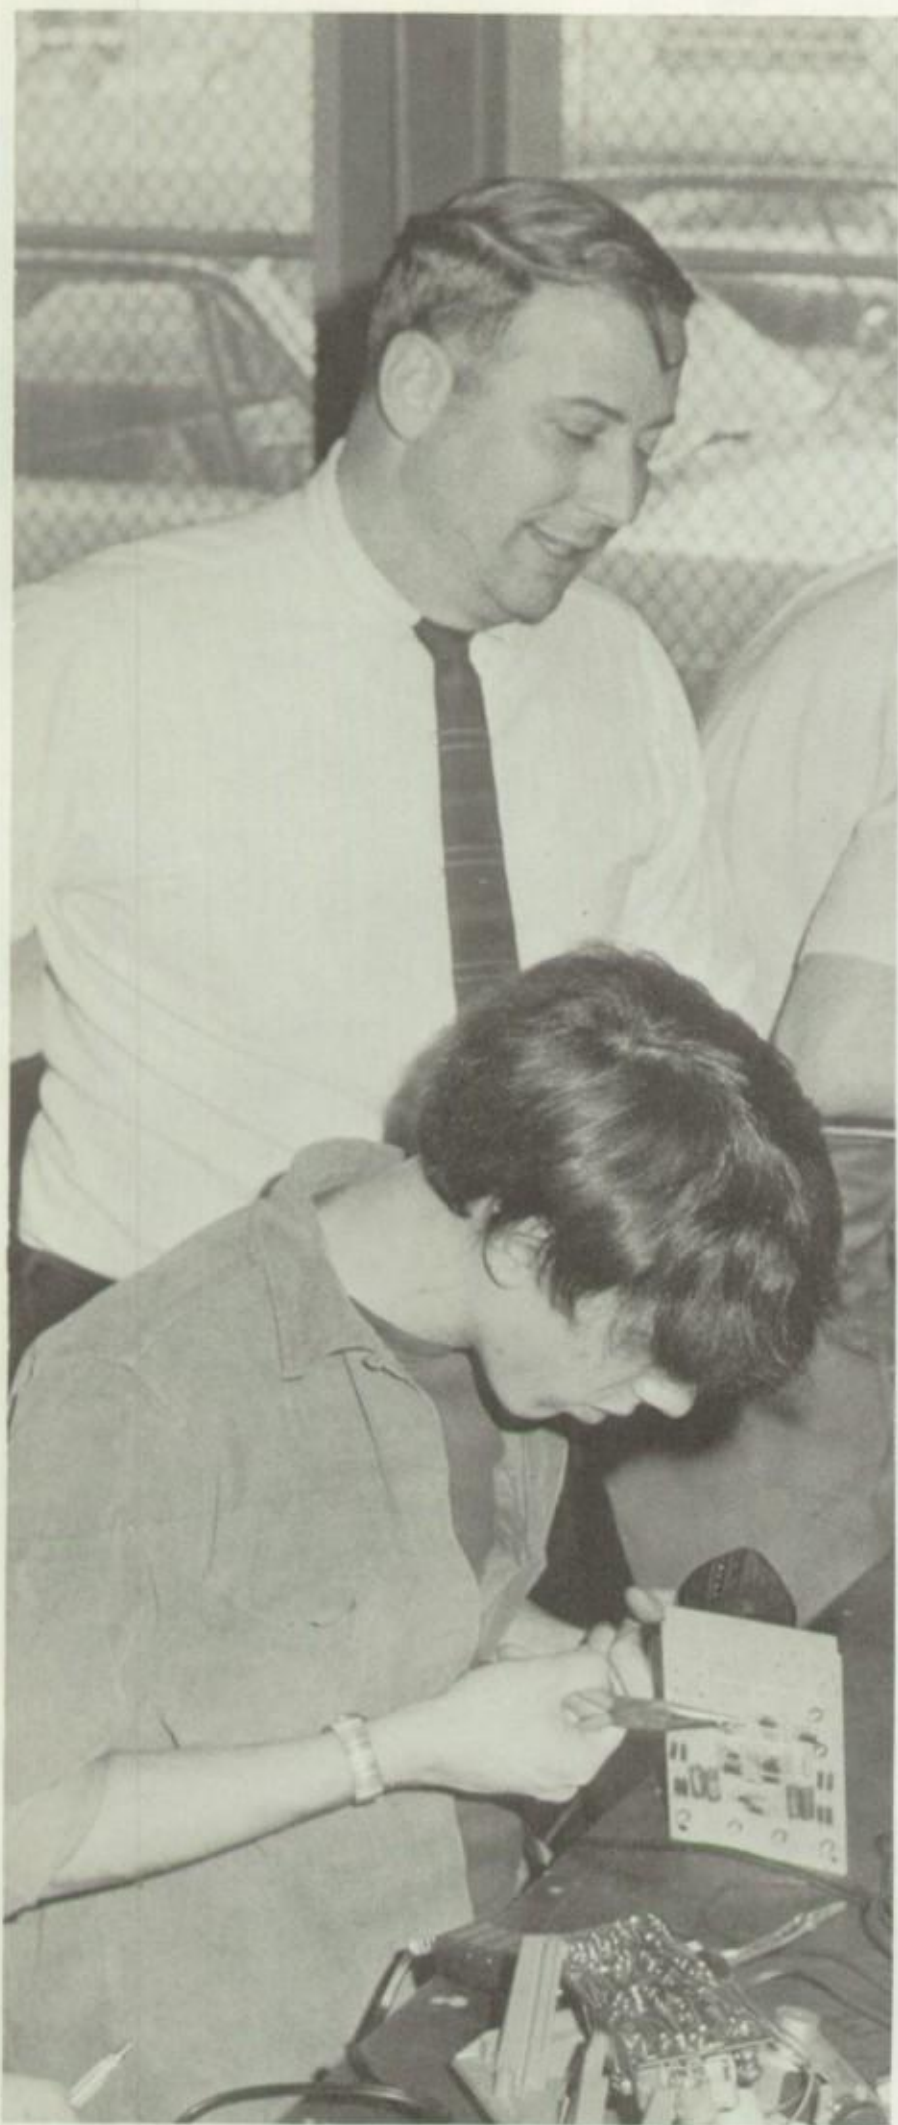

BELOW RIGHT: Mr. James Meyer informs Ed McCue, Jerry Bond, Chris Gruse, and Steve Rautio of the various components found in three speed transmissions. BELOW: While working on a minor tune up, Gary Mousel and Dale VanAmberg learn the fundamentals of auto mechanics, in hopes that it will be valuable to them in their future vocations. RIGHT: Applying a hacksaw to a metal stock, Roy Curtis begins work on his toolbox. The boys may use their own preferences as to the choice of their term project.

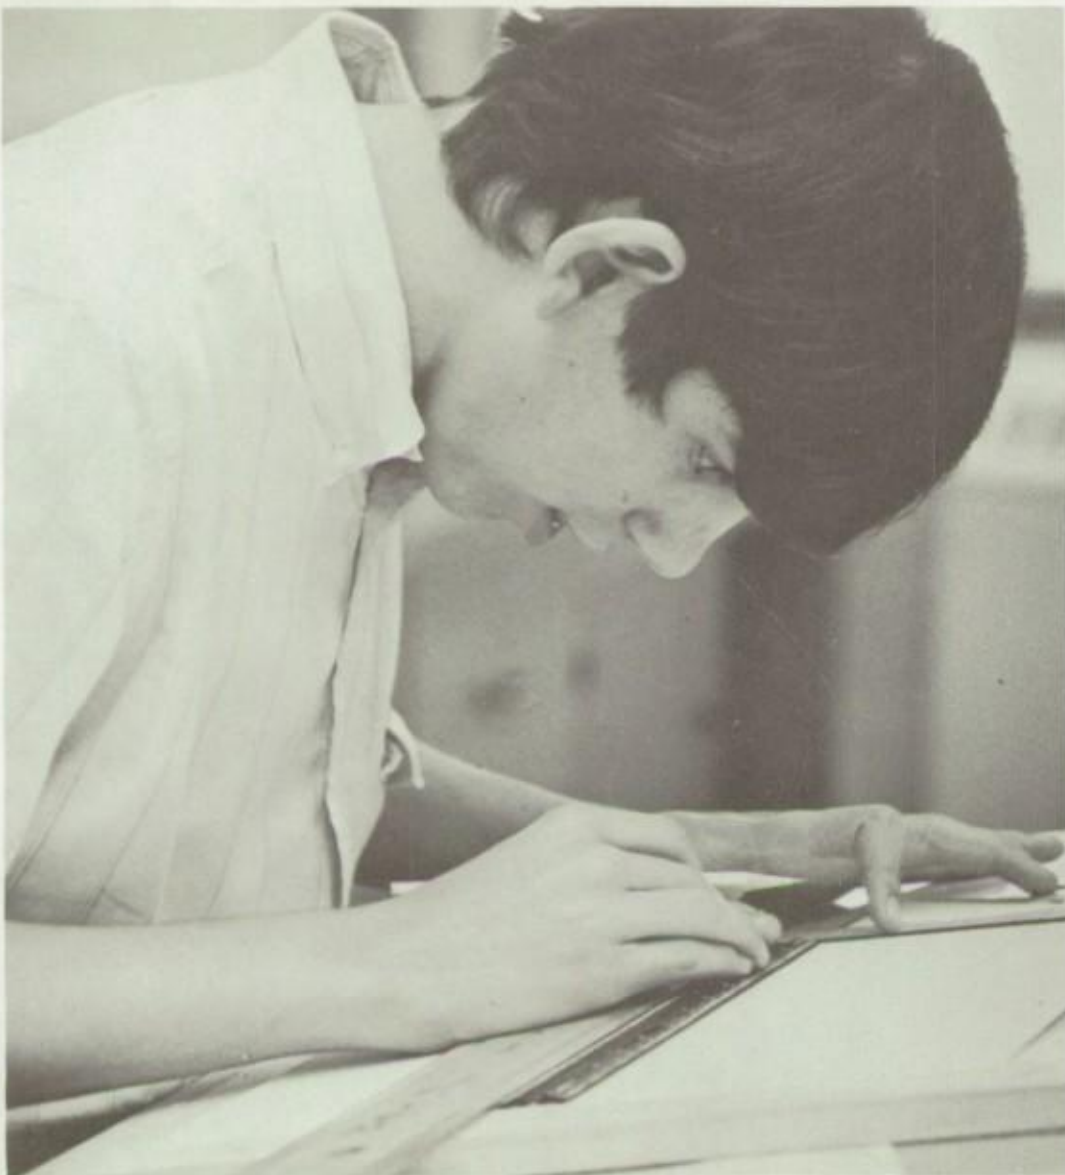

LEFT: Adding the finishing touches to a hammerhead, Dave Labour grinds off the rough edges to finalize its appearance. BELOW: Jim Heidt, engaged in his woodshop project, adds the necessary trim to his desk, just another step closer to the finished product and in the self satisfaction gained.

Imagination and Exactness

Lead to Excellence in Finished Products

Determined hopes of becoming future architects, draftsmen and electricians occur as Berkley boys experience drafting and electronics courses.

Sophomores begin with a one-semester introductory drafting class to be taken in conjunction with a shop class. This involves fundamentals of industrial drawing including sketching, lettering and a knowledge of the use of basic instruments.

The second half of this course deals with the instruction of metal trades and specializing in architectural drawing. Advanced detail and assembly drawings give students a needed challenge.

The study of batteries, circuits and house wiring gives Introductory Electricity boys a surge forward to radio and industrial electronics. These courses put emphasis on industrial usage and encourage students to be able to maintain and repair functional devices that they have produced.

Required Skills for Future Use Ignite Personal Interests

Each student's thoughts, at one time while at Berkley, are directed toward three classes especially planned to prepare for their future use in later years. Drivers education, home economics, and physical education all help in making impossible skills possible.

A new system is employed this year in gym as sophomores meet gymnasium requirements in one semester instead of the regular two semester course. Both boys and girls learn various sports while developing good sportsmanship.

Again this year there is an advanced gym class available to junior and senior girls at Berkley. These girls, with their higher skill level, add enthusiasm and spirit to the class.

Home economics is a course for girls preparing to further their homemaking abilities. Besides the basics—sewing and cooking, girls also learn the fundamentals of child care and the task of household management.

Drivers education is a class designed for students wishing to attain the necessity instruction in both class and driving skills, for obtaining a long awaited drivers license.

Creative Students Strive to Achieve Cultural Excellence

In the east wing, one can hear the contrasting roar of the bands at work and the angelic strains of the choirs. These industrious groups have the same common goal—to attain the necessary qualities needed to become a successful singer or musician.

Under the instruction of Mr. Walter Mison, the Concert and Varsity Bands with the great help of the Pep Band, aim to promote school spirit and appreciation of music through recitals, assemblies and concerts.

Mr. William DeMaria, forceful director of our vocal music department, has four singing groups to supervise and instruct. They are the Boys' and Girls' Glee, along with A and B Choirs. Their traditional performances include seasonal concerts and caroling down the halls at Christmas time.

The accrediting and appraisal of a mandatory art project is a worry to all art students. First and second year art acquaints prospective artists with new ideas working in experimental areas. Designing each year's Bear Tracks cover demands creative thinking from third and fourth year students. A trip to the Toledo Art Museum highlighted their year.

Hopeful Critics and Writers Explore Fields in Fine Arts

The roaring of teletype machines, the excitement of meeting a 5 o'clock deadline, a yell of "stop the presses", creates a thrill to many journalism students when they make their annual visit to the Detroit News offices.

Mr. George Crowe, journalism teacher, feels that this trip gives an insight into the future journalistic careers. For a change of pace in the students' life, Mr. Crowe, with interested students, traveled to East Lansing for a Michigan State University S.M.A. Journalism Day in October. They also attended the Michigan Inter-scholastic Press Association convention at the University of Michigan. Journalism pupils learn techniques of newspaper writing and strive to put out a paper of their own for grading.

The evaluation and interpretation of plays beginning with the Greeks and continuing on into the contemporary works of today, proves to be an integral part of "Great Plays". This new course is designed for the person who is interested in literary works in all forms. Mrs. Margaret McQuaid is the instructor for the course and hopes students will gain much from it.

History Creates a Balance Between Past and Present

Negro revolution, rebellions against the establishment and political controversy supply students in Mrs. Esther Zander's Contemporary History classes with provocative topics. Experts on such areas as South Africa, and outside field trips add spice to daily news discussions.

In contrast, American History classes evaluate in great depth past wars and revolutions, in hopes of understanding their results, which effect America today.

World Cultures is designed for serious minded students. History of such areas as Africa, Korea and South-east Asia provide background for more advanced study.

World History and World History 106 classes are both survey courses which present a chronological picture of the history of man. The classes concentrate on events in the past that have a significant effect on contemporary history and the United States today.

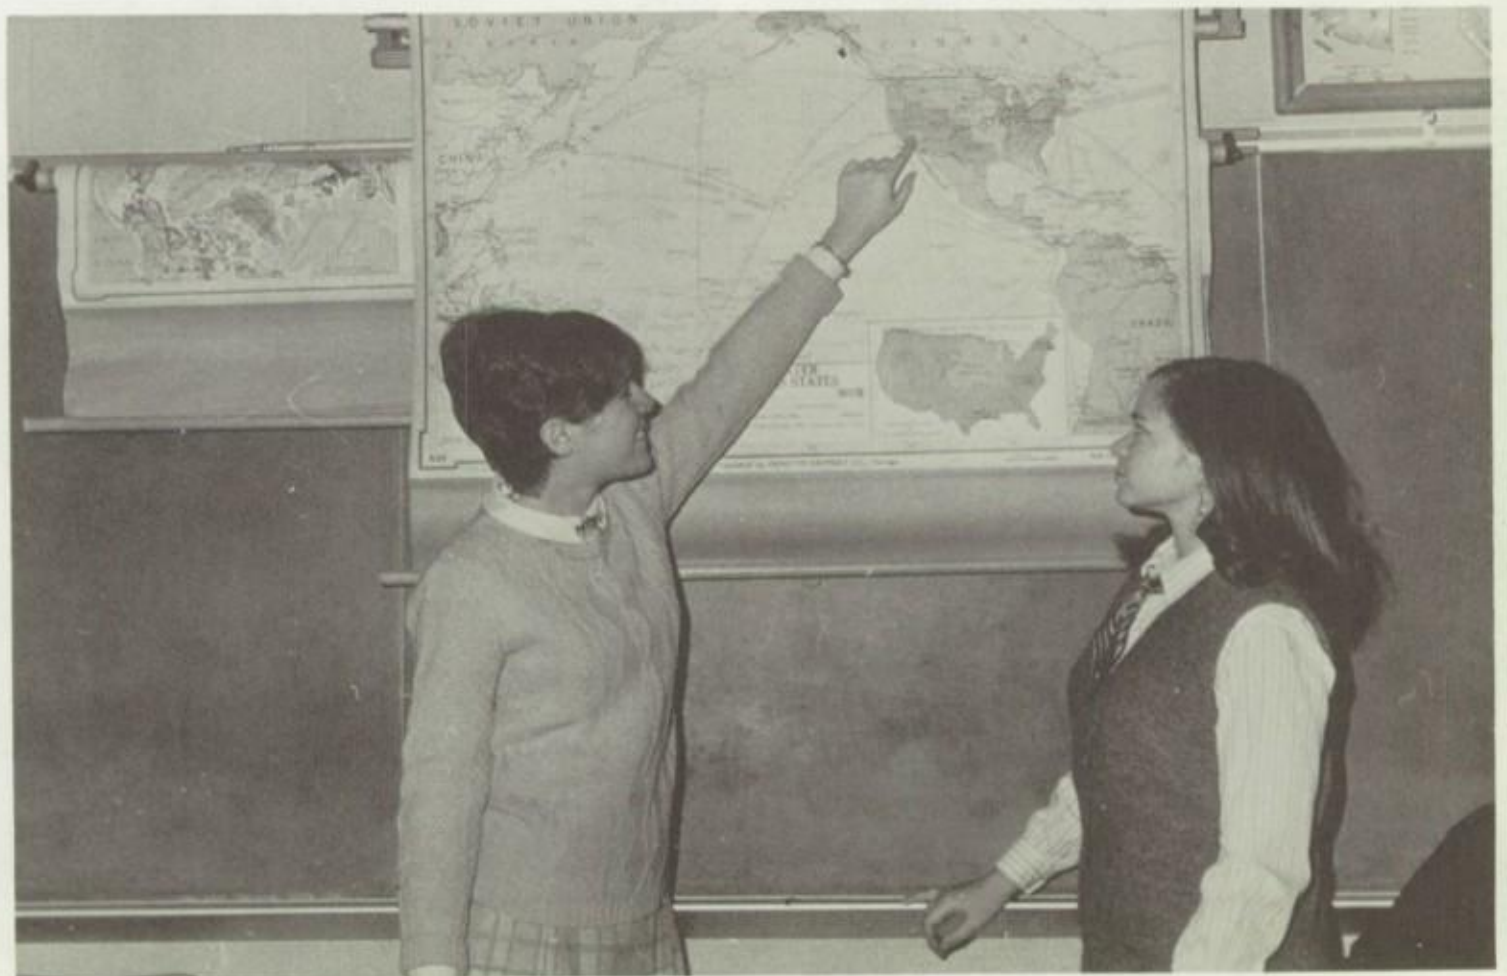

Today's complex society has evolved from people and events in our history. Understanding these events better equips a person to conform to the present establishment. Through movies, discussions, oral reports and speakers from all walks of life, our history students strive to retain facts and pertinent information.

The balance between the past and present provides the development necessary to make our citizens aware.

Seniors Employ Current Policies

ABOVE: Mr. Paul Griffith instructs his class on the economic structure of the United States. BELOW: Registering B.H.S. voters, Government student John Levin gains valuable information in an election.

Speed, Benzedrine and Mescaline affect not only the user but all of society. Narcotics was the topic presented by a member of the Narcotics Board of Detroit in first semester psychology classes. Psych students also gain insight through the study of human behavior.

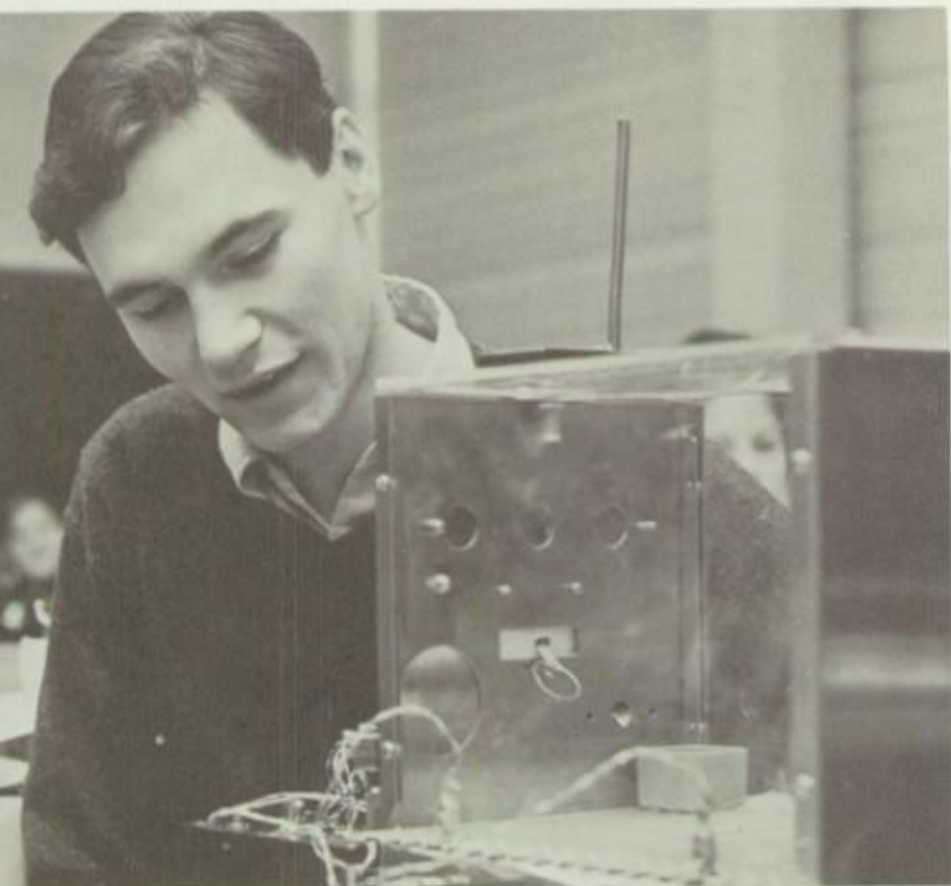

The UNSG classes assisted in presenting a mock convention as a special assembly which proved to be interesting for the entire student body. The influence of the 1968 Presidential Election made government classes more stimulating. A mock election in October, held at Berkley City Hall gave seniors valuable experience.

Since a good part of life is based on economic factors, students find the economics class beneficial for their future. A welcome change for students came toward the end of the course when they took a field trip to the National Bank of Detroit to view the money museum.

The variety of courses available offers BHS seniors a well rounded social science education.

of Diplomatic and Social Efforts

Eager Mathematicians Experiment and Calculate with Shapes and Figures

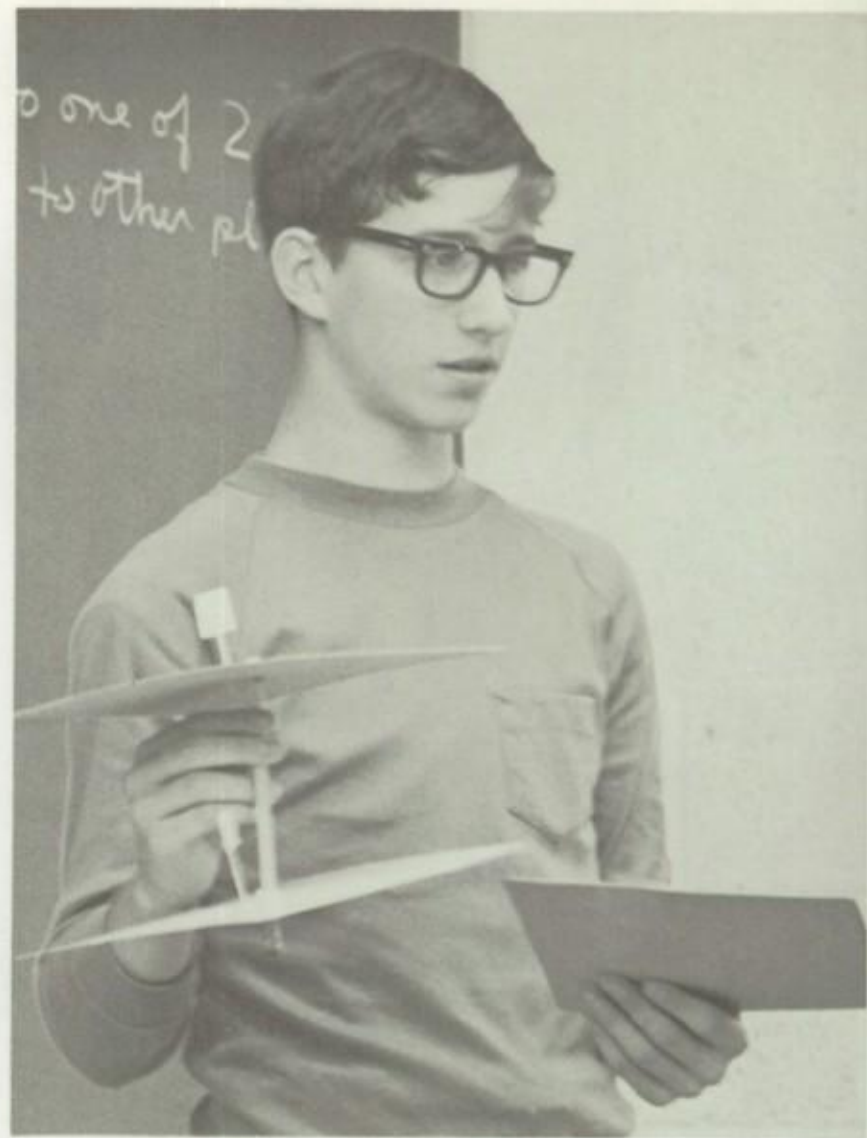

Logical reasoning and shape perception are two obstacles which face sophomores in elective math courses. Students have their choice of Algebra I, Fundamentals of Mathematics or Geometry. All three courses offer a solid foundation on which to build, with more math instruction.

Combining the proper prerequisite courses and a sincere interest in math, Juniors are faced with Algebra-Trig., Business Math and Shop Math. All courses, considerably different, concentrate on a specific field, which benefits the student as an individual. One Algebra-Trig. student comments, "It's all in the way you look at it, I just seem to look the wrong way!"

As seniors, one problem leads to another, when it comes to electing a suitable course. Introductory Analysis, Advanced Placement and Honors Math are the three available courses, each offering different concepts in applied math.

Mathematics, usually considered monotonous, was made interesting for Business students by a trip. The trip, planned by Miss Trainor, to the Stock Exchange provided a learning experience in practical application of math techniques.

Experimenting with shapes, lines and depth help most geometry students to grasp the complicated reasoning behind theorems, postulates and proofs. Working with these elements, students find better over all understanding of the subject.

BELOW: Mrs. Sally Jarvis explains a few of the most valuable calculations and their results which will become important to each student throughout his daily experiences. ABOVE: Mike Schwartz, in his geometry class, demonstrates the relationship of two parallel planes and also in which ways the two differ.

ABOVE: Geometry student, Beth Ash, helps the understanding of her fellow students by copying an extremely difficult problem onto the blackboard to make the result easy to find. TOP RIGHT: Algebra students, Chuck Berg and Pam Burt, study for an upcoming test, on which they need to score highly. ABOVE RIGHT: Mr. Larry Casey discusses the test results with his Algebra Trigonometry students, stressing the importance of accuracy. RIGHT: Business Math students pay particular attention while Mrs. Sally Jarvis reviews basic concepts.

RIGHT: Observation of microscopic particles of bacteria leave sophomore Pat Kemp questioning, a required part of any learning situation. ABOVE: Chemistry labs held at least twice a week provide a needed change and also help each student to gain important knowledge. Juniors Allen Eisenberg and Mark Lehmann show this.

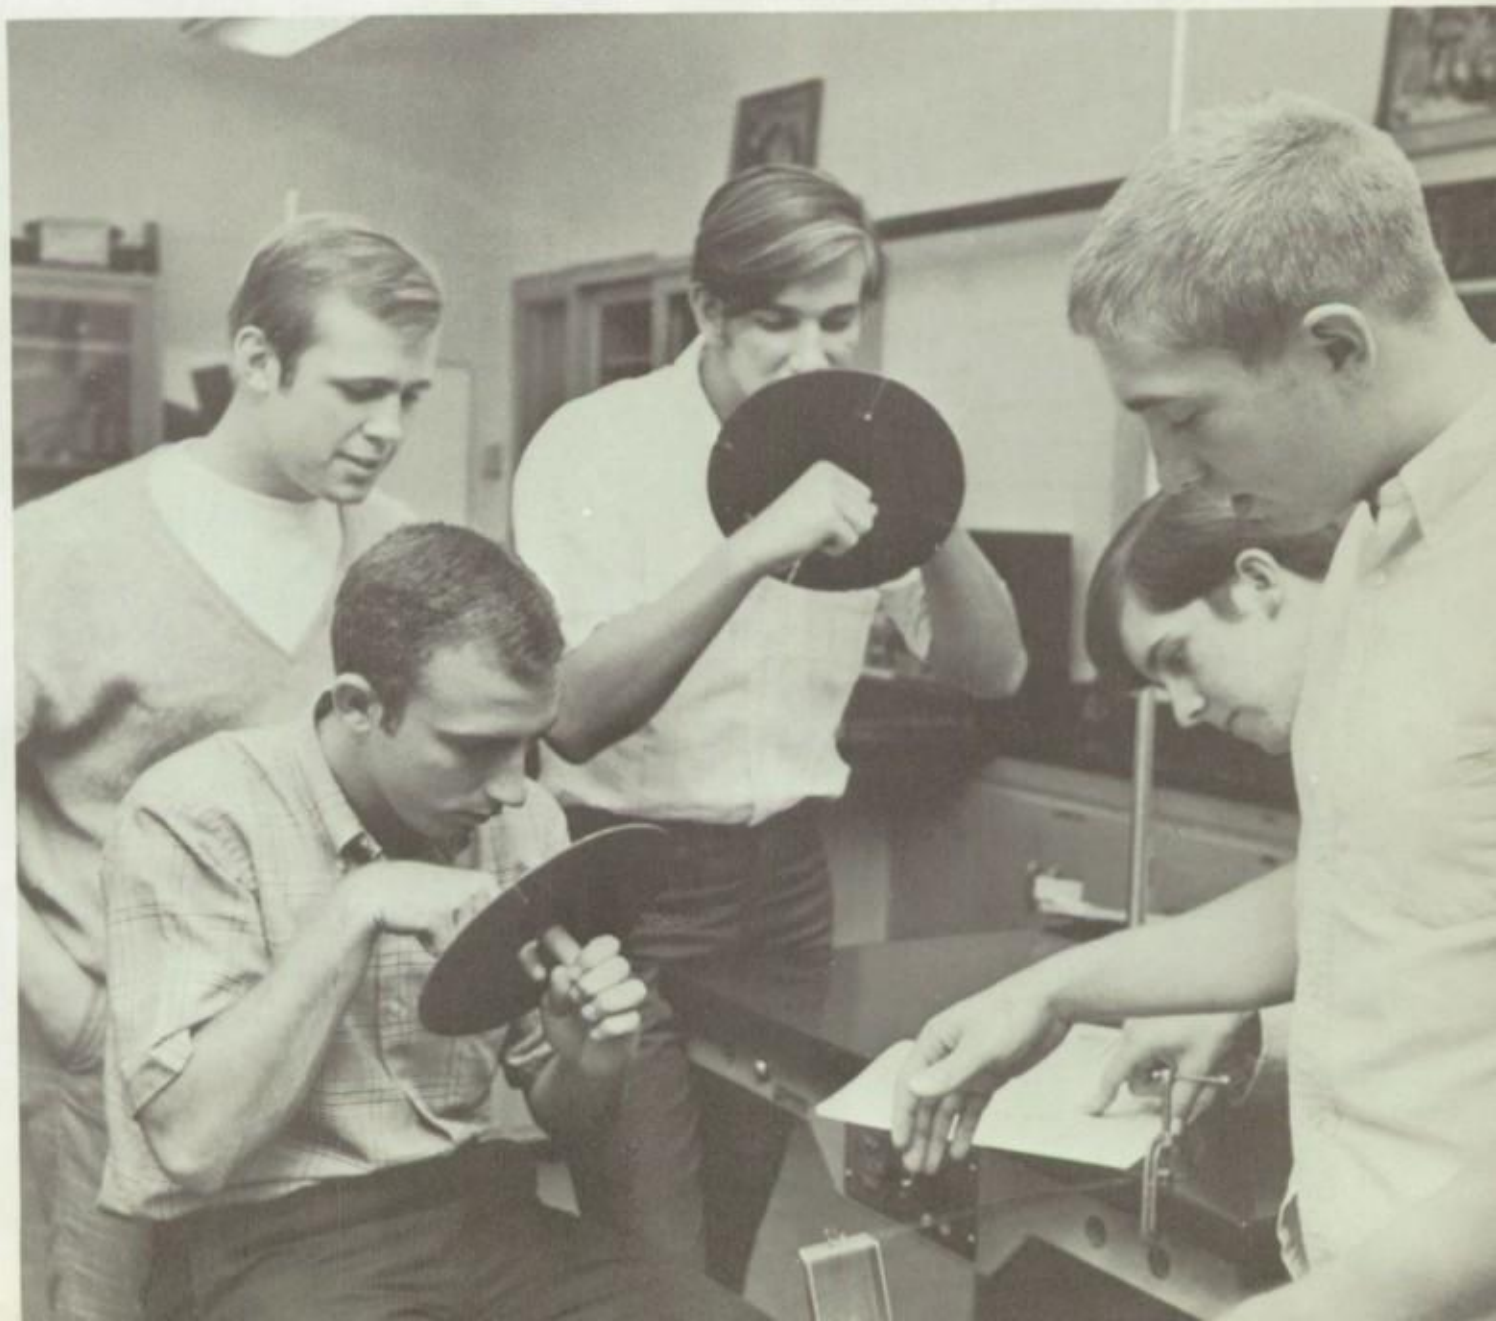

Laboratory Techniques Instill Useful Knowledge

Must one be planning on a career in the sciences to benefit from biology, chemistry or physics? Techniques practiced in the labs prove to be beneficial in achieving accuracy, efficiency and precise observation, three qualities needed for success in any career one endeavors.

Students in biology classes discover for the first time that humans are not the only living creatures that depend on a respiratory system or that frogs still move after being decapitated. Along with discovery, biology offers the fundamentals of lab work so vital in future years.

Amateur chemists combine mathematics with scientific theories to make up a challenging and rewarding class. Exactness and efficiency are two of the most difficult techniques to master but, students admit that it is fun trying.

Combining two of the previous years' knowledge, willing students try their luck at other important techniques. Observation and logical reasoning help to make them successful physicists. Two necessary qualities needed to get the most out of physics and other sciences are interest and enthusiasm. It is apparent that BHS students employ both qualities and put them to good use in class and outside the room.

Amateur Scientists Probe Established Theories

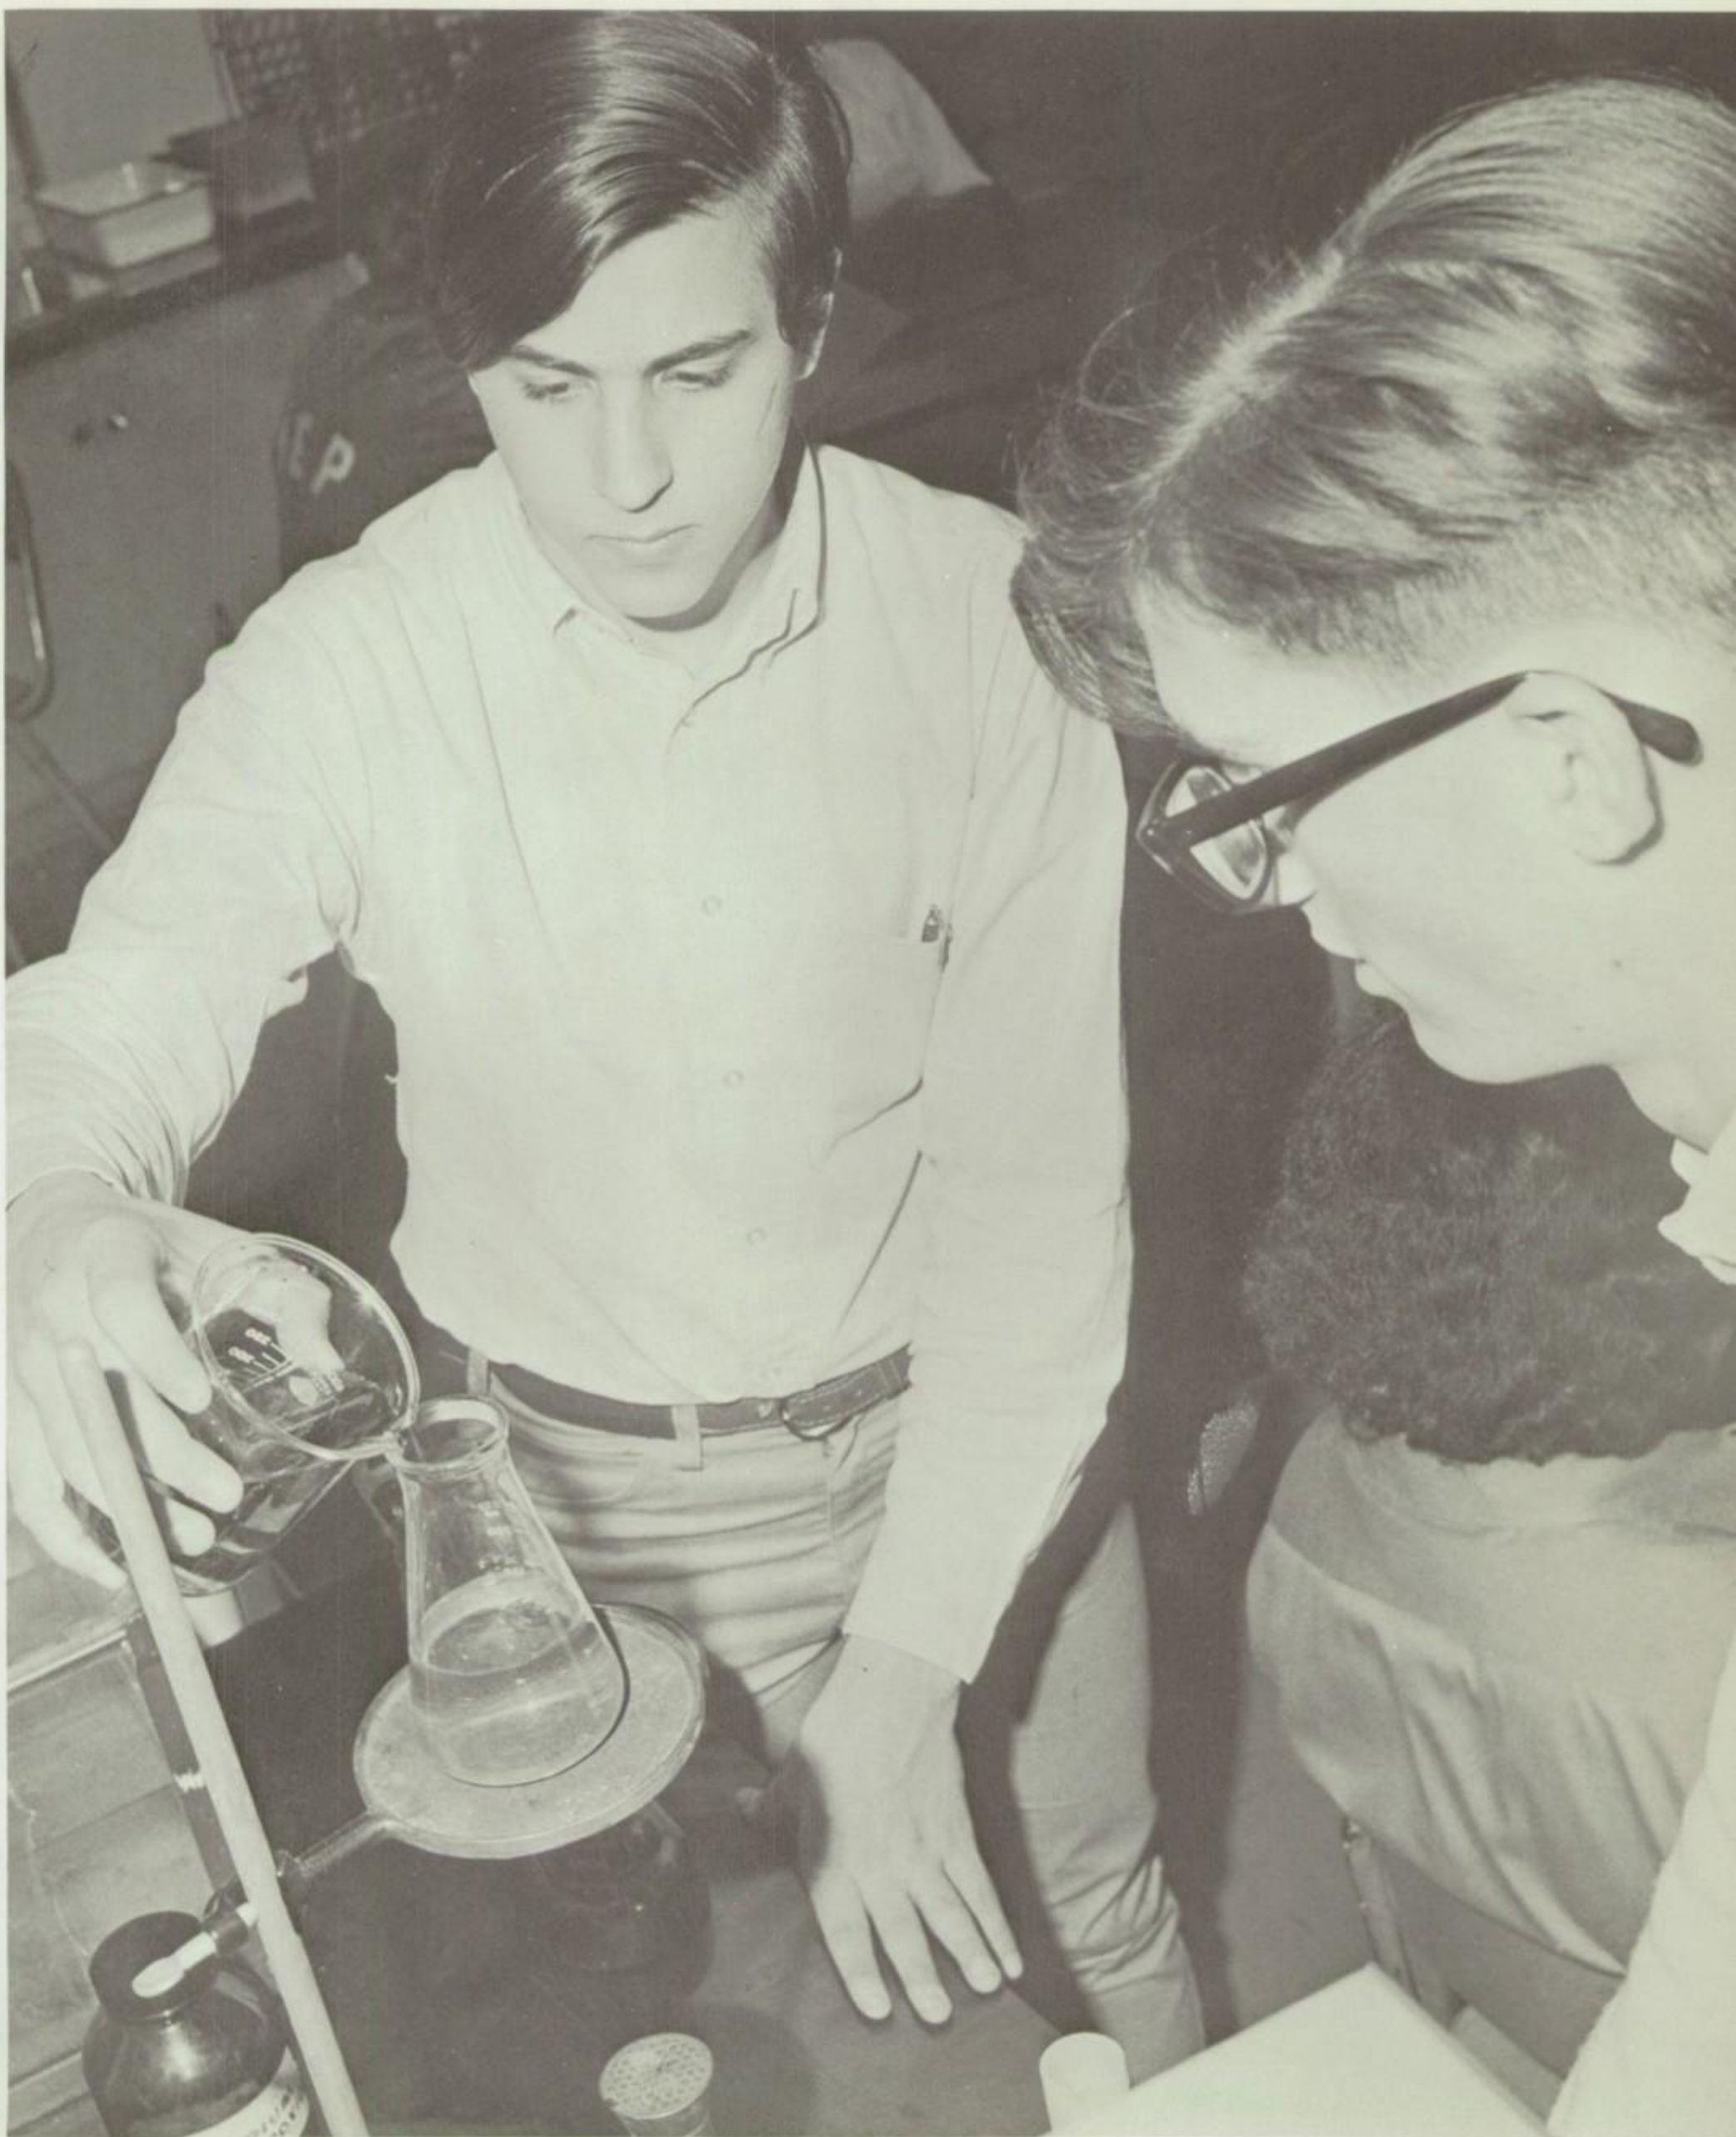

All those who have excelled in biology, chemistry and physics and have a lot of initiative, are invited to enroll in Science Research. Individual efforts, performed throughout the year involve much time and experimentation that will be beneficial to them.

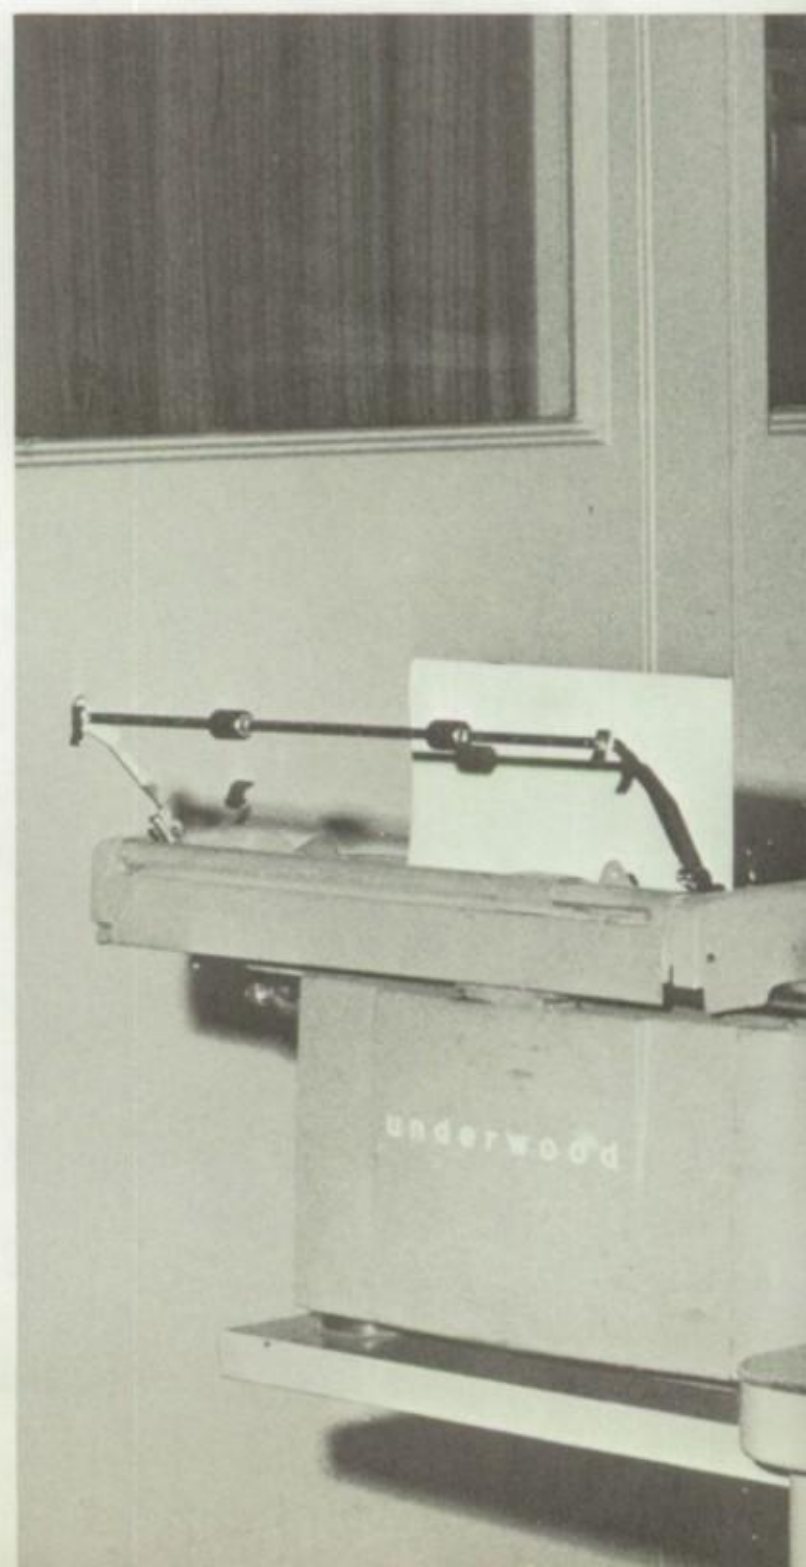

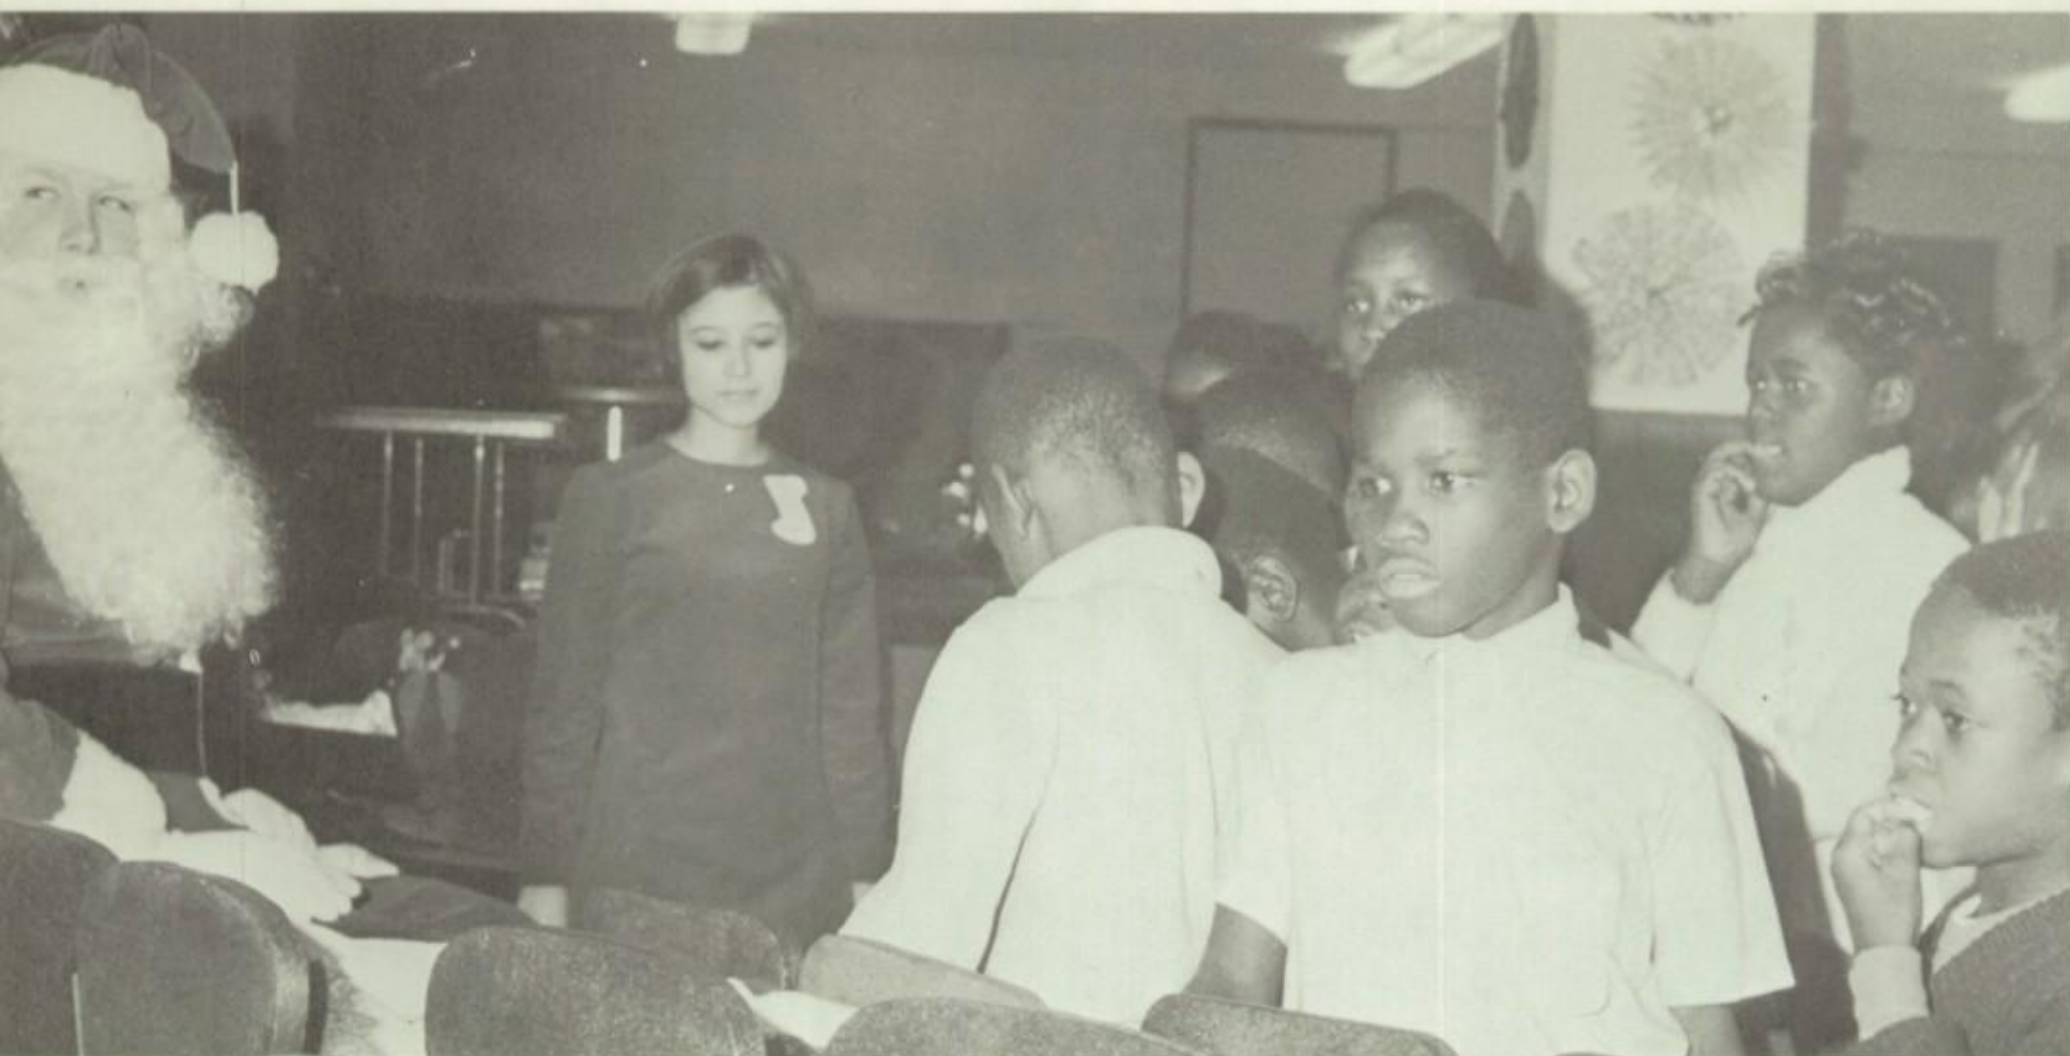

Students form groups, plan projects outside of class, research them and later present them to the others. If the project is concerned with biology, Mr. Phil Hawarny instructs and helps members. Likewise, Mr. John Roberts advises budding scientists with physics and chemistry.

Lectures given monthly at Oakland University and numerous field trips provide background information relevant to discussion topics. On December 2 Berkley students invaded Wayne State University's physics lab, where they were shown various experiments by Dr. Kim and some of his students working on their masters degrees in science.

RIGHT: Unpacking the pressure scale, Tom Towne and Tom Alexander examine the new shipment of equipment that will be of great value to the science department. FAR RIGHT: Mark McDaniel looks on and records his observation as Randy Israel prepares a solution of cromium nitrate. BELOW: On the Spectronic 20, Andy Zack and Jay Tower perform a spectral analysis of magnesium chloride.

Future Executives Earn Helpful Experience and Wealth

On-the-job training provides valuable experience in office practice, retailing and industrial occupations. The Co-operative Educational Program, more commonly referred to as Co-op, is available to all seniors enrolled in a business, distributive education class, or in industrial education. A BHS student may work in a field relating to the class he or she is enrolled in. Grades are based on progress reports and employer ratings which evaluate each student as an employee. The qualifications for each student on the Cooperative Education schedule are determined by program coordinators Mr. H. Orlik and Mr. B. Simon along with the individual's record and or recommendation from the counselor.

The many jobs involved in this particular program are varied. Working in clothing stores, doctors' offices and gas stations are but a few of the wide gamut.

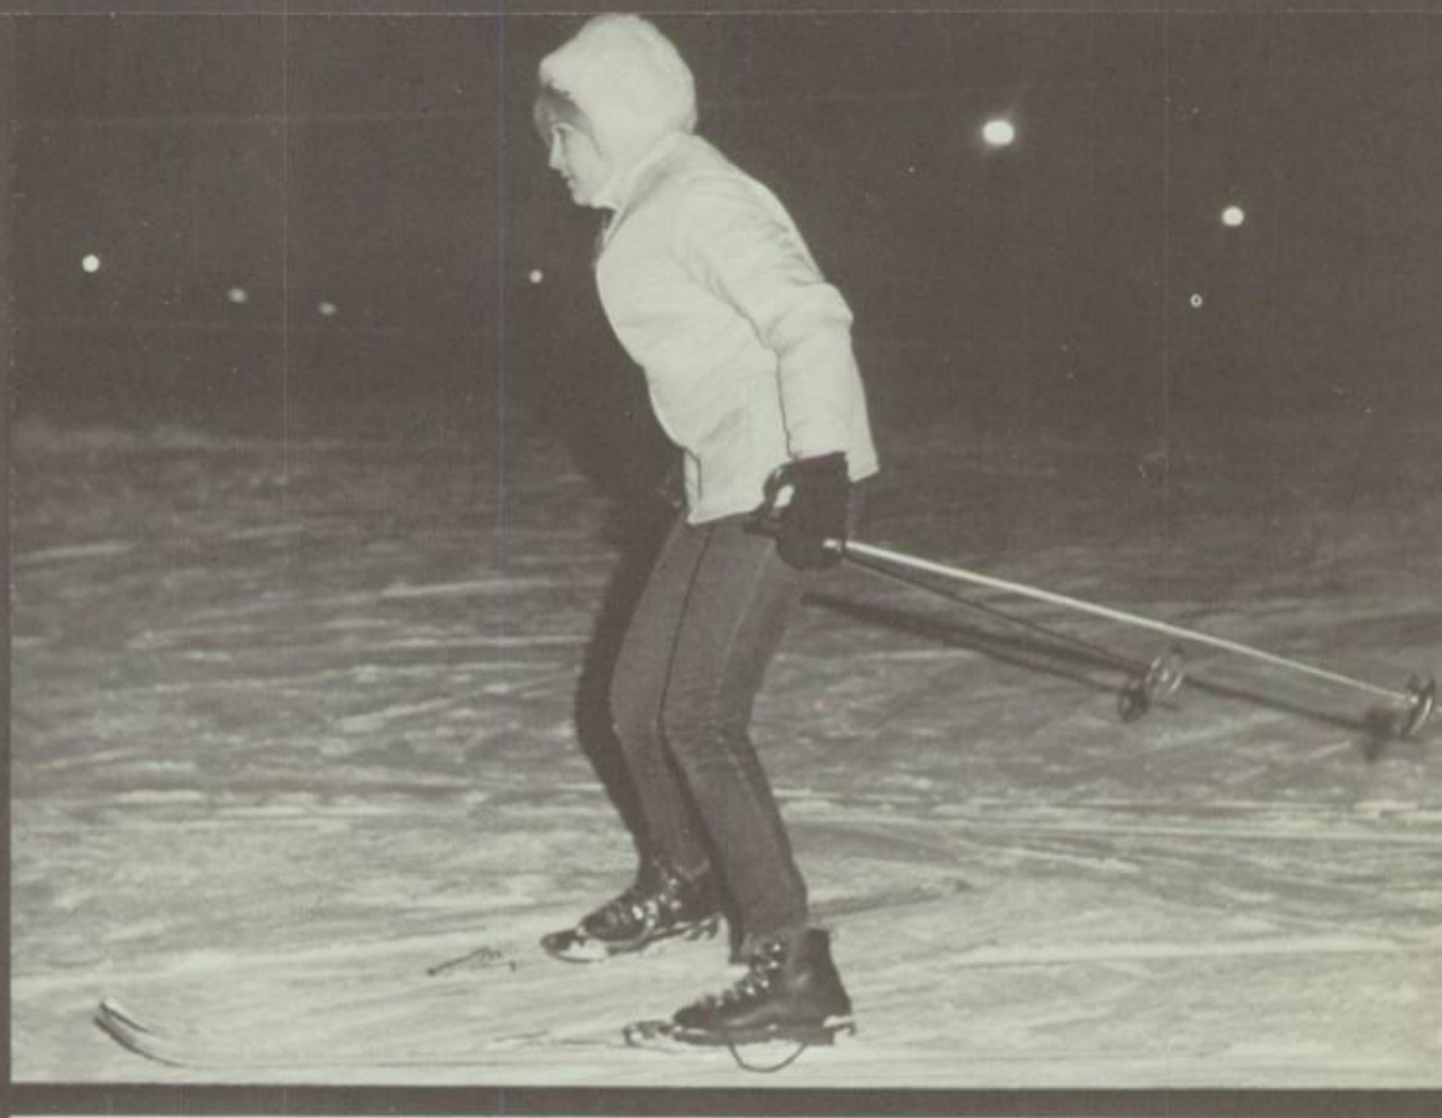

A first in the Co-op program this year was the selection of four active students to serve as officers. This facet of the program proved advantageous in organizing and uniting the students and the employers. Accepting responsibility and obtaining experience in the business world before graduation prepares each student for a successful future.

Organizations

Qualified Individuals Work to Unite Ideas and Opinions

When students at Berkley High participate in the many activities which occur daily, they often overlook the hard work and planning that have gone into these projects. Berkley's Student Council and the Association of Student Organizations have this difficult job of co-ordinating school activities and planning events that take place throughout the course of the entire school year.

The Student Council, under the control of President David Siegel, takes a close look at the many problems concerning the student body and tries to remedy them. Its duties also involve arranging special events, from voting at election time to assemblies which are put on regularly.

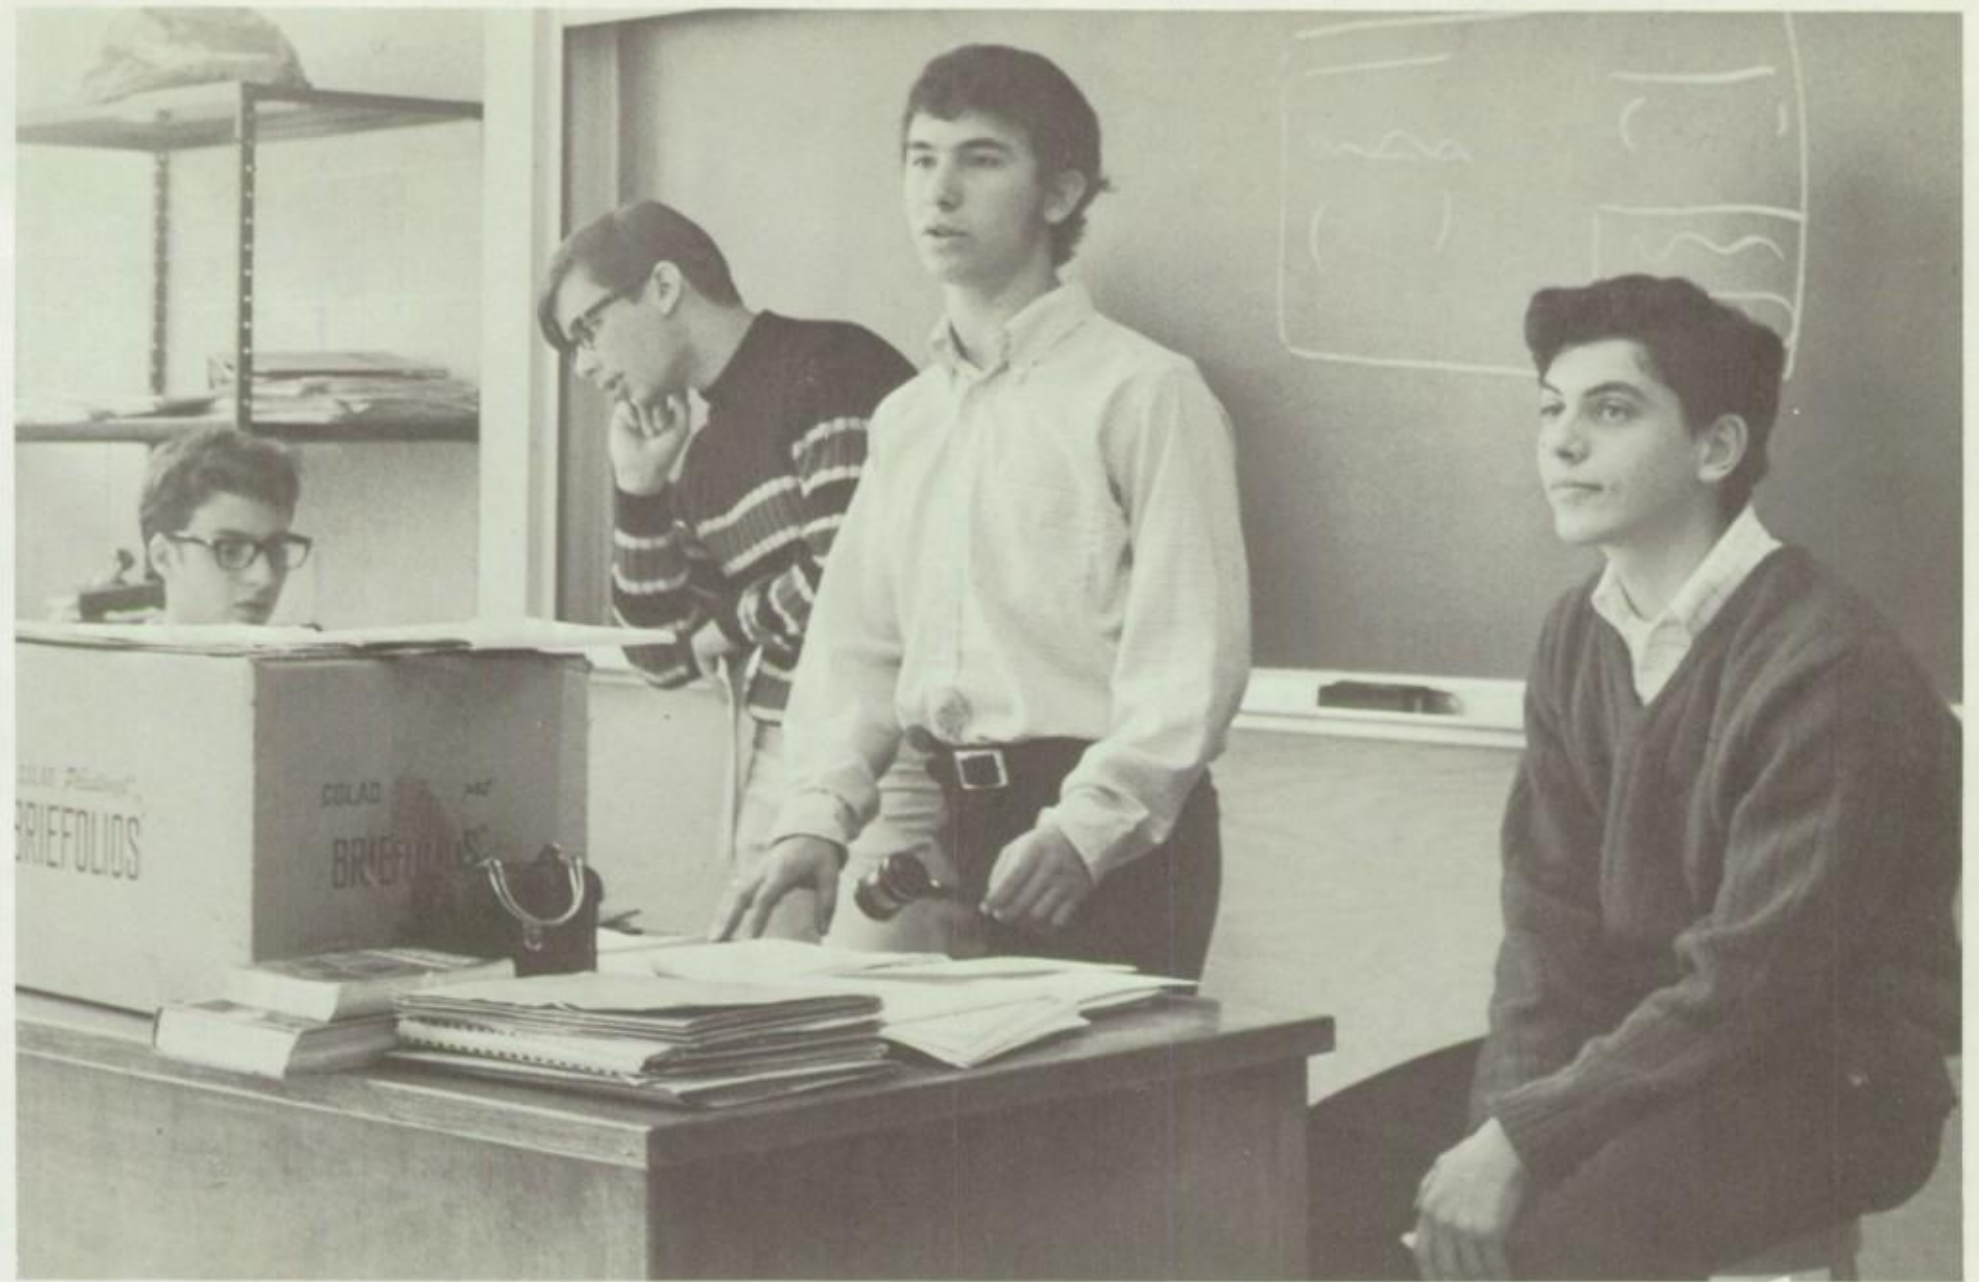

The ASO, consisting of the presidents of various clubs, works with the difficulties that arise within the organizations. Which club can hold a bagel sale on a certain day is a common question that often comes up. Jim Levin, President of ASO and also Vice-President of the Student Council, finds that he is often involved in solving this type of crisis.

Berkley High Students Receive Recognition And Scholarship for Fruitful Studies

The National Honor Society is not an organization based only on scholastic achievement. Each spring, five per cent of the junior class and ten per cent of the senior class are selected by the teaching faculty to be members of the NHS on the basis of leadership, character, service, and scholarship. Students officially become a part of this nation-wide organization in the presence of their parents at the invocation ceremony. These honored individuals are presented with the National Honor Society Pin and are privileged to have their names carved in the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

Those members selected as juniors in the spring of 1968 carried out the duties of the NHS under the guidance of Chairmen Art Gold and Jay Tower, and Sponsor Mrs. Donna Backus. Functions ranged from the management of Berkley's 3M copying machine and the sponsorship of the successful alumni tea, to the preparation of the BHS Honors Convocation.

Interesting and Exciting Excursions Exemplify The Facets of Outdoor Life to Curious Minds

Can strenuous bicycle hikes, swampy lake excursions and an exciting five day outing to Bald Mountain Recreation Area all be a part of one of Berkley High's most popular clubs? Biology club officers: Tony Burton president, Louis Milgrom vice-president, Mark Dunn treasurer, and Sandy Zarkin secretary, organize new and interesting outings to send club membership soaring. Along with bagel sales, dances and Homecoming festivities, the Biology Club offers the unique enjoyment of "roughing it" in the outdoors to industrious Berkleyites.

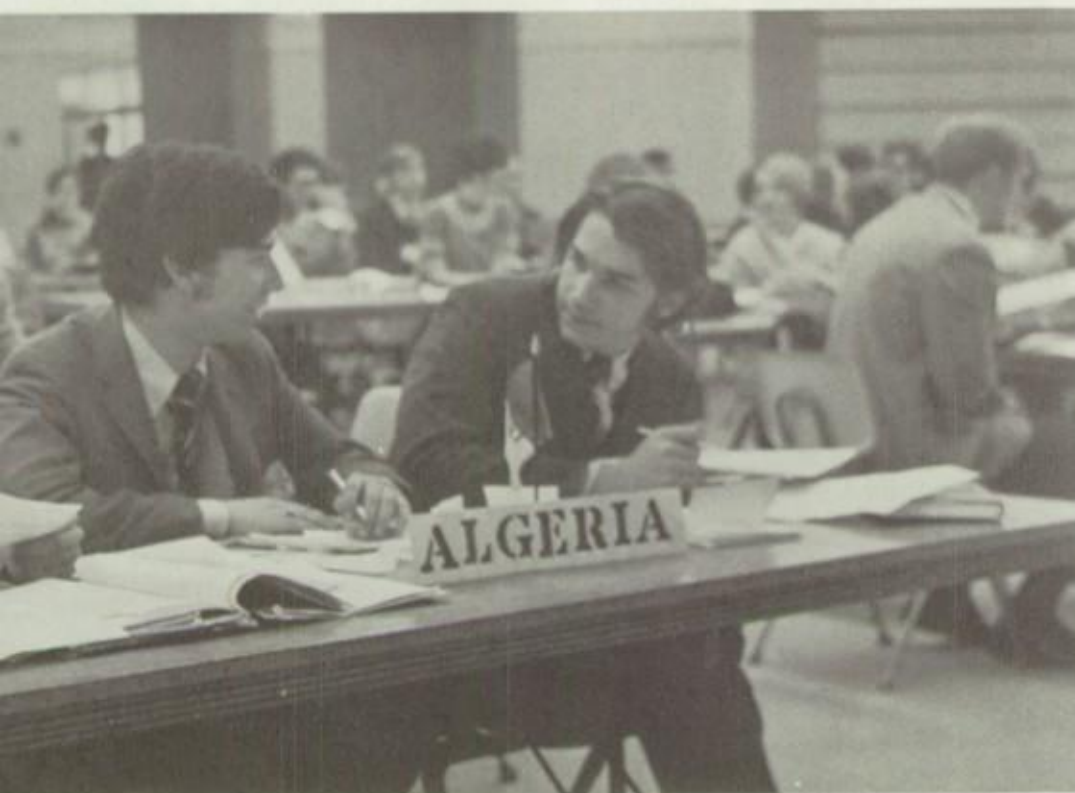

The diversity of Biology Club functions appeals to the high school populous. Outings range from back-breaking bicycle trips to the cider mill, Sunday morning canoe trips down a mighty Michigan river, swimming at the Stoney Creek Recreation Area, to tours to many neighboring universities. Money-making activities such as the annual teacher's lunch sale, dances and bagel sales help to sustain the club. The climatic ending of the season is the big five-day outing to Bald Mountain Recreation Area, a combination of the year's exciting activities.

The year's activities are capitalized by the annual Model United Nations at the University of Detroit. The club organizes block meetings in preparation for the event in which members actively participate.

Choral Groups Maintain High Standards of Music

An organization helping students train and develop their voices is Berkley's B Choir. Under the direction of Mr. William DeMaria, B Choir meets daily, and through vigorous practicing, strives to attain a harmonious tone. Placement in B Choir frequently may be regarded as a step toward placement in Berkley's A Capella Choir. During the course of the school year, the members of B Choir have several opportunities to prove their musical ability to the student body and general public. Appearing in annual concerts with the A Capella Choir and various other student vocal groups, the B Choir shows the successful results of constant and thorough voice training.

Sophomores interested in vocal music are usually introduced into Berkley's program through participation in either the Boys Glee Club or the Girls Glee Club. Meeting every other day with Mr. DeMaria, members of each glee club learn the many techniques necessary for unified and harmonious singing. Glee Club members also are well-learned in the areas of voice projection and note reading. They are given the opportunity to show what they have learned by participation in the Holiday Concert.

Devoted Choir Members Present Concerts for Appreciative Audiences

Berkley High Schools A Capella Choir attains a quality of music very rarely achieved by any school choral group. Under the expert guidance of Mr. William DeMaria, they display their perfected talents, resulting from intense training. The numerous concerts given by the A Choir include performances for the Lions Club of Detroit, the Rotary Club and several junior high schools including Norup and Anderson. Participating in the Christmas spirit, choir members sing Christmas favorites at Northland Shopping Center.

Every spring a concert is held in the Wayne State University Auditorium to the delight of the hundreds of students and adults who attend. Special seasonal programs include a Thanksgiving assembly, Winter Concert during the Christmas Season and a Sacred Concert at Easter time. These programs often include performances of the entire A Capella choir along with small folk and rock groups.

Throughout the school year, the Choir puts on several concerts for the enjoyment of the school populace. Also included in their schedule of performances are those which are periodically given in Berkley's courtyard.

The members of the A Capella Choir include: SENIORS: Frances Andrews, Lee Andus, Ella Anderson, Kathy Bigham, Robert Bonnell, Sandra Brinn, Linda Carlson, Diane Courville, David Dare, Donald Dearing, Ann Louise Delplace, Diane Detweiler, Robert Ervasti, Barbara Frisk, Howard Gibbs, Gary Goodman, Pipat Greigarn, Brigitta Grimm, Joseph Hall, Carol Haskin, Marika Henckel, Gerald Heumann, Lynn Judy, Ron Kain, Christine Kuhl, Robert Marks, Daniel Marwil, Sean McKenzie, Judith Mills, Stephanie Myers, Patricia Neikirk, Cynthia Pape, Nancy Parsons, Pamela Powley, Judith Richman, Francesca Salviona, Charles Schmauss, Sandra Shallow, Pamela Sovia, Valerie Sutton, Linda Walters, Jeffery Warner, Douglas White, Ralph White, Beth Wietelmann, and Janet Wolf. JUNIORS: Robin Allen, Nancy Applebaun, Frank Carline, Andrea Chaitin, Miriam Ciesla, Jane Csicsay, Vicki Davis, Alice Dolinshek, Douglas Dowling, Dave Dryburgh, Patricia Fautley, Rebecca Filer, Joanne Fons, Barbara Fox, Shelley Graber, Joan Haeberle, Heather Hamlin, Ian Hartwell, Deborah Hopkins, Robert Hutslar, Susan Jackson, Allen Janney, Jim Johnson, Patricia Johnson, Laurie Jones, William Kenyon, Debra King, Denise Korwiewicz, Arlene Kyser, Darlene Kyser, John Lawton, Larry Luxa, Gary Martin, Jill Mattis, Karen Megroet, Audrey Mehler, Carol Mondry, Darlene Novak, Sherrie Nunn, Colleen O'Brien, Joyce Page, John Parkhurst, Linda Parsons, David Peisner, John Rapids, Helen Rodgers, Gayle Rowe, John Sharp, Amy Siskowsky, Barbara Stucky, Ellen Tibbetts, Don Vensel, and Susan Woodworth. SOPHOMORES: Robert Antis, Judy Baran, Kathy Brown, Nancy Corner, Joseph Courtney, John Delplace, Linda Disbrow, Jean Duffin, Shirley Frisk, Sheryl Giddings, Jeanne Goode, Klaus Holzer, Keith Jones, Patricia Kerkau, Eric Kirst, Kelli Kuchukian, Ramona Longshore, Sandra LoPrete, Robert Luxa, Diane Reynolds, Carol Spaulding, Beth Sonnenberg, Lynn Walters, and Bill White.

Diplomats Pursue International

Friendship en Route to Cultural Exchange

Lasting friendships, cultural exchanges, new and exciting experiences, represent merely a minute part of the foreign exchange program. Berkley, this year a recipient of six exchange students, is an active school in the interchange. Through Youth For Understanding Scholarships, Ella Anderson from Denmark, Brigitta Grimm from Germany, Marika Henckel from Sweden, and Jarmo Vuorinen from Finland are in the United States for one year. Pipat Oreigarn from Thailand is a one year American Field Service Student and Francesca Salvioni from Italy is on a family exchange. Living as members of the community, students lead an active school life by studying in the classroom and socializing in numerous clubs.

Twenty three Berkley students selected by the Youth For Understanding Program and one student chosen by American Field Service were sent to live the life of a European, South American, or citizen of the far east. Skiing in Chile's Andes Mountains, swimming in Sweden's Baltic Sea or dancing in one of England's many discotheques exemplified the diverse activities experienced by students abroad this past summer.

Competitive Activities Draw Athletic Participants

Ever since the first settlers arrived in this country, the outdoors have held a special interest for enthusiastic sportsmen. The members of the Berkley Sportsman's Club cannot be called an exception. Taking every occasion available, the members of this exciting club seek out new and different means to explore the world of nature. Often fishing trips or hunting expeditions are arranged so that each member will be able to partake in the aspect of outdoor life that he enjoys most. Under the supervision of Mr. William Jarvis, the group holds numerous meetings throughout the year to prepare for upcoming adventures. After each trip the members find that they are enriched with an even greater appreciation of the world of the outdoors.

The members of the Rifle Club are another group of devoted sportsmen. They, however, deal only in the realm of guns. Holding weekly practice sessions in the cafeteria, using special targets, the members find that they have a great deal of time to perfect their individual skills. Often an expert marksman is asked to come and give pointers on the proper handling and shooting of rifles and other firearms. Members apply this instruction and practice during their numerous field trips to rifle ranges.

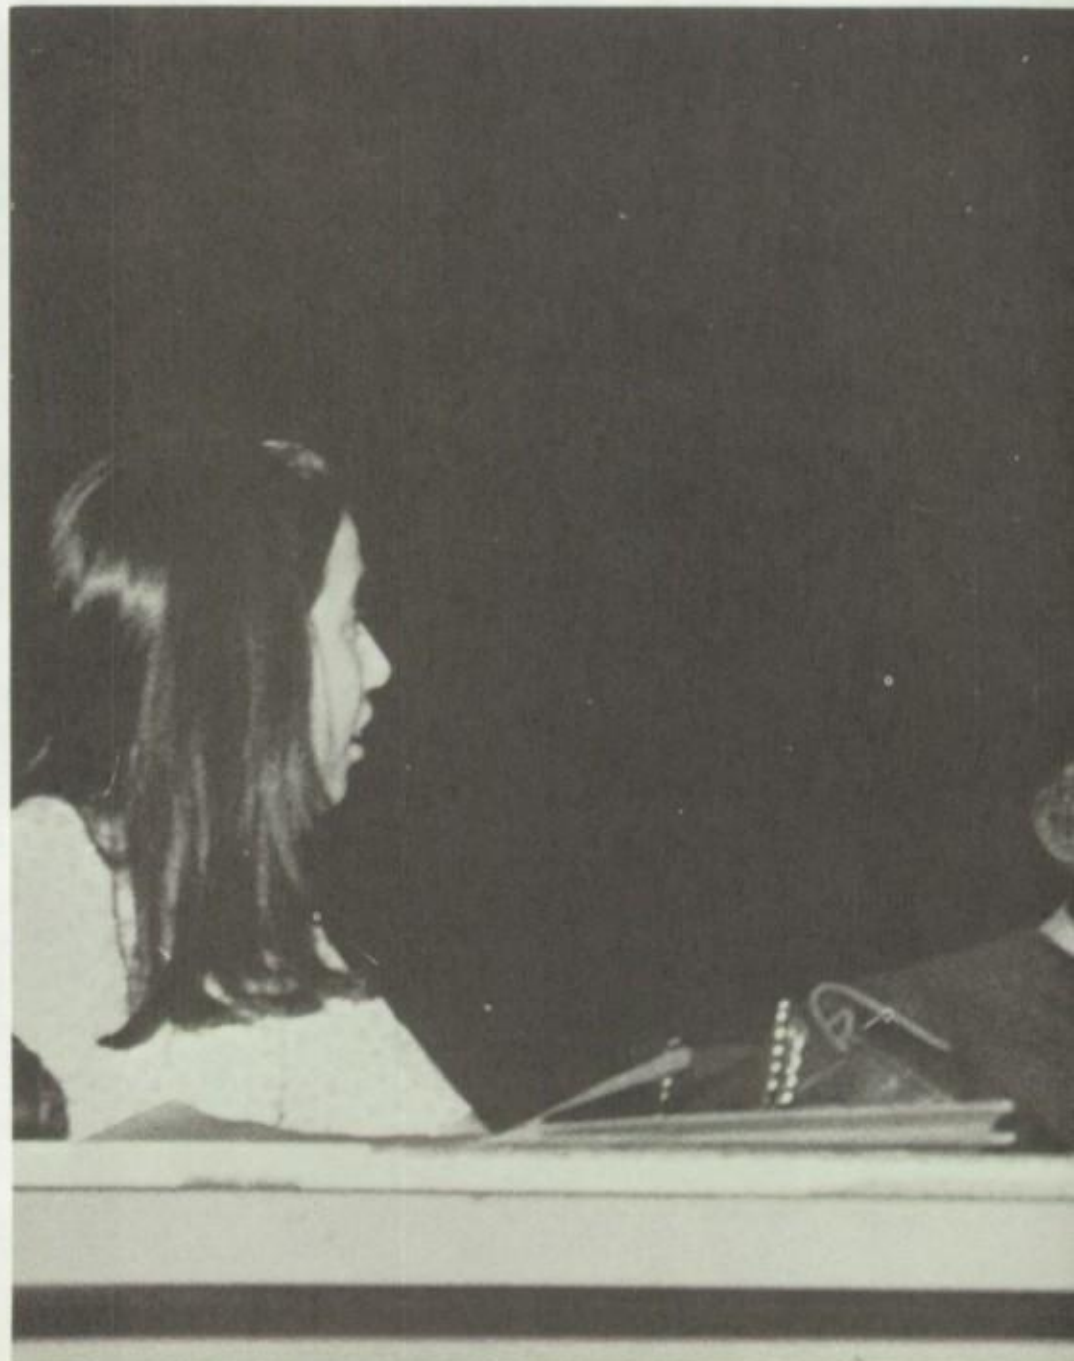

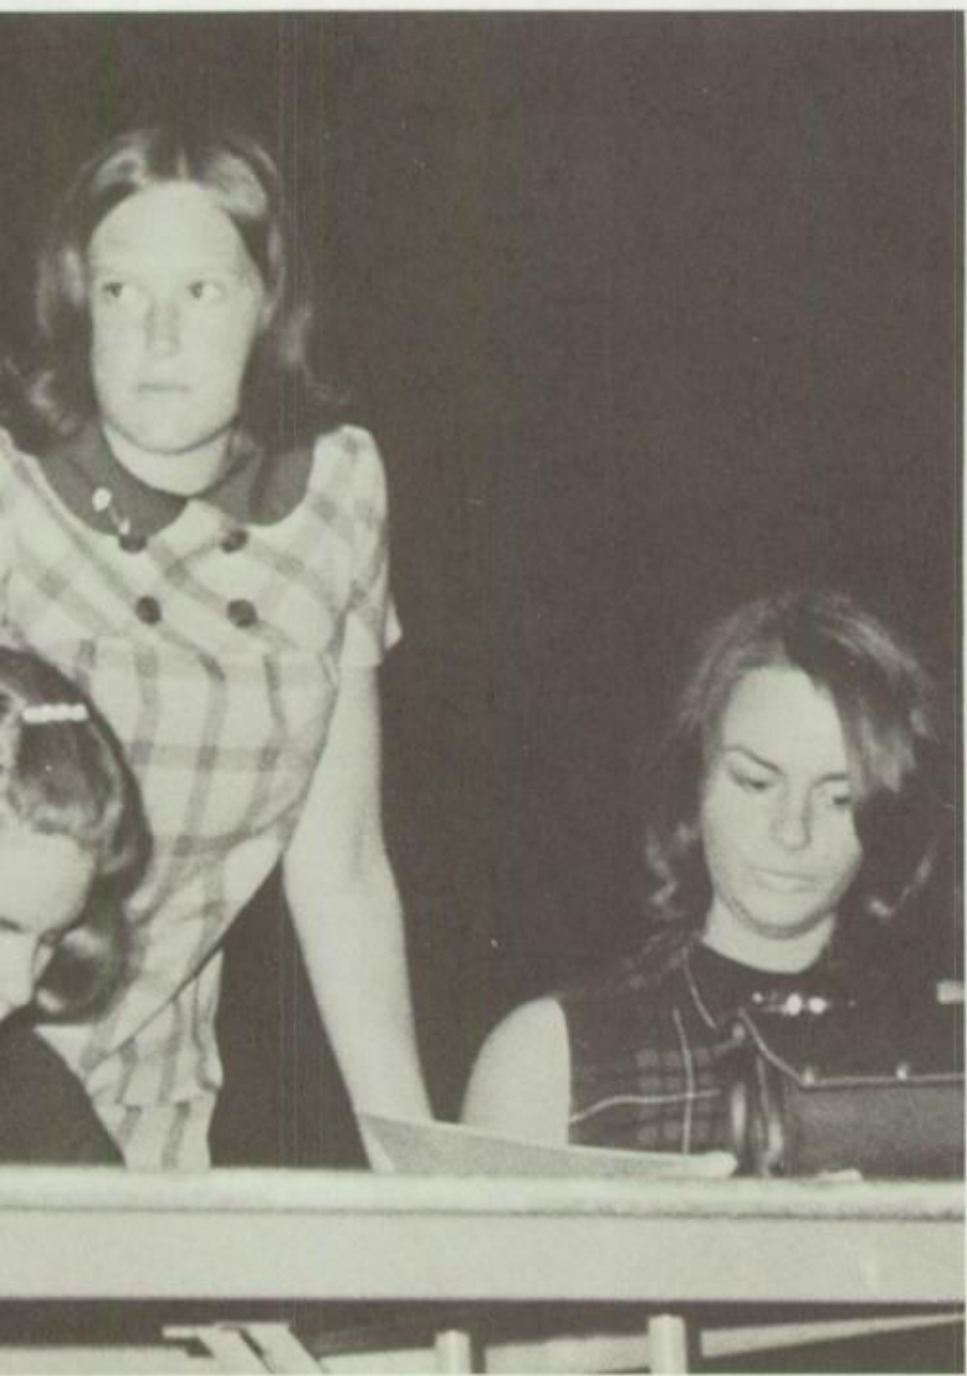

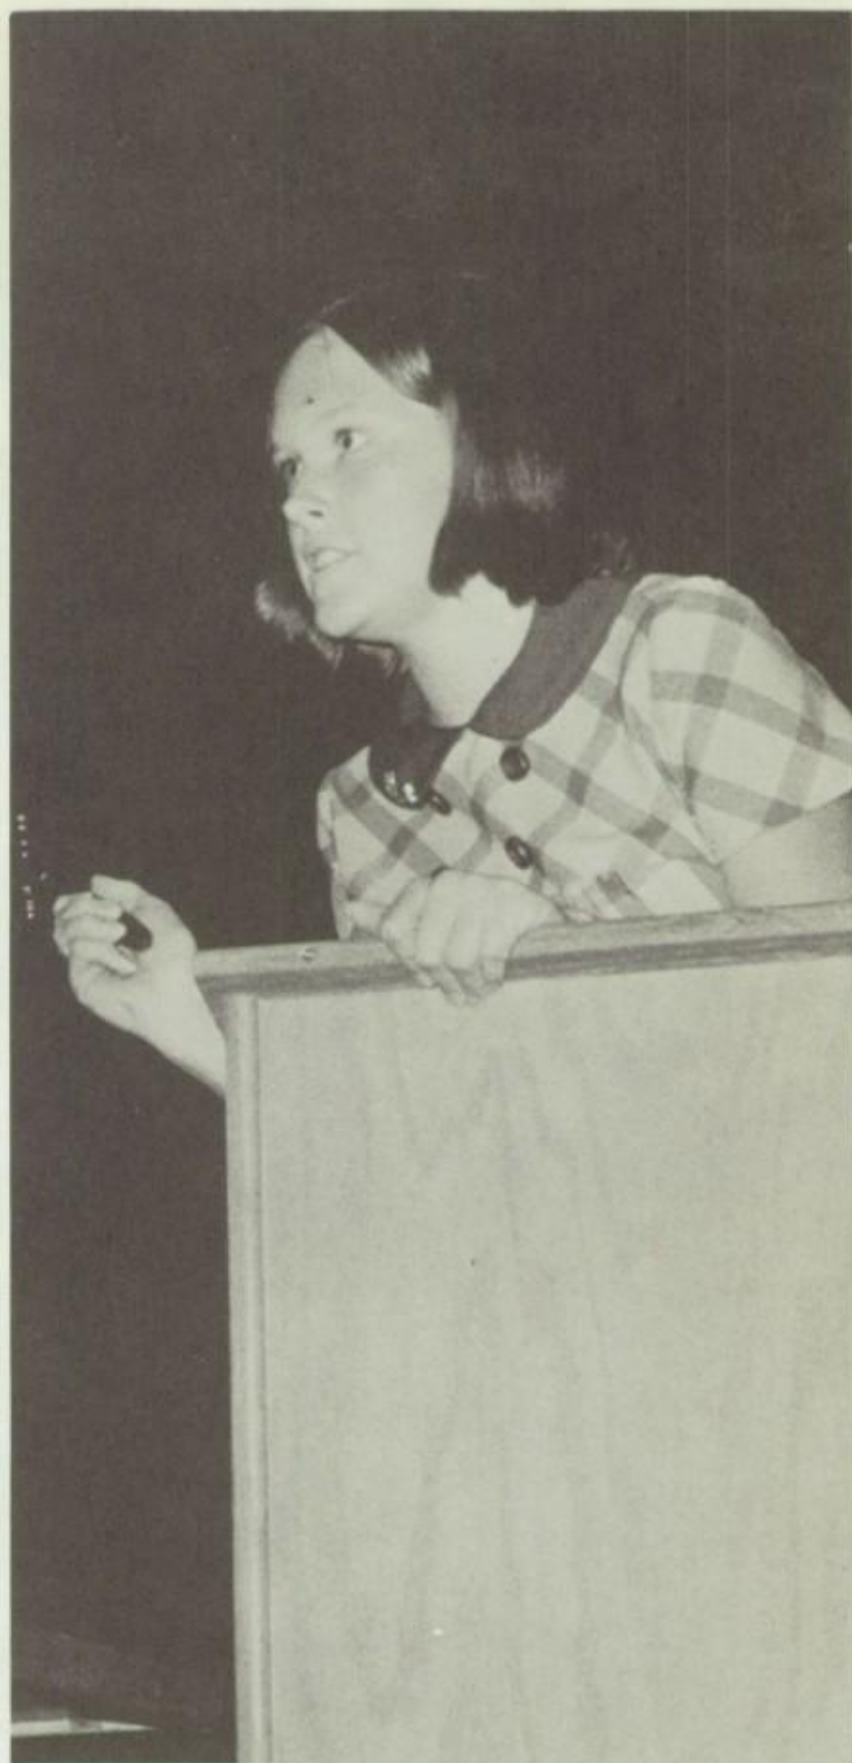

Clubs Offer Useful Experience for Future Endeavors

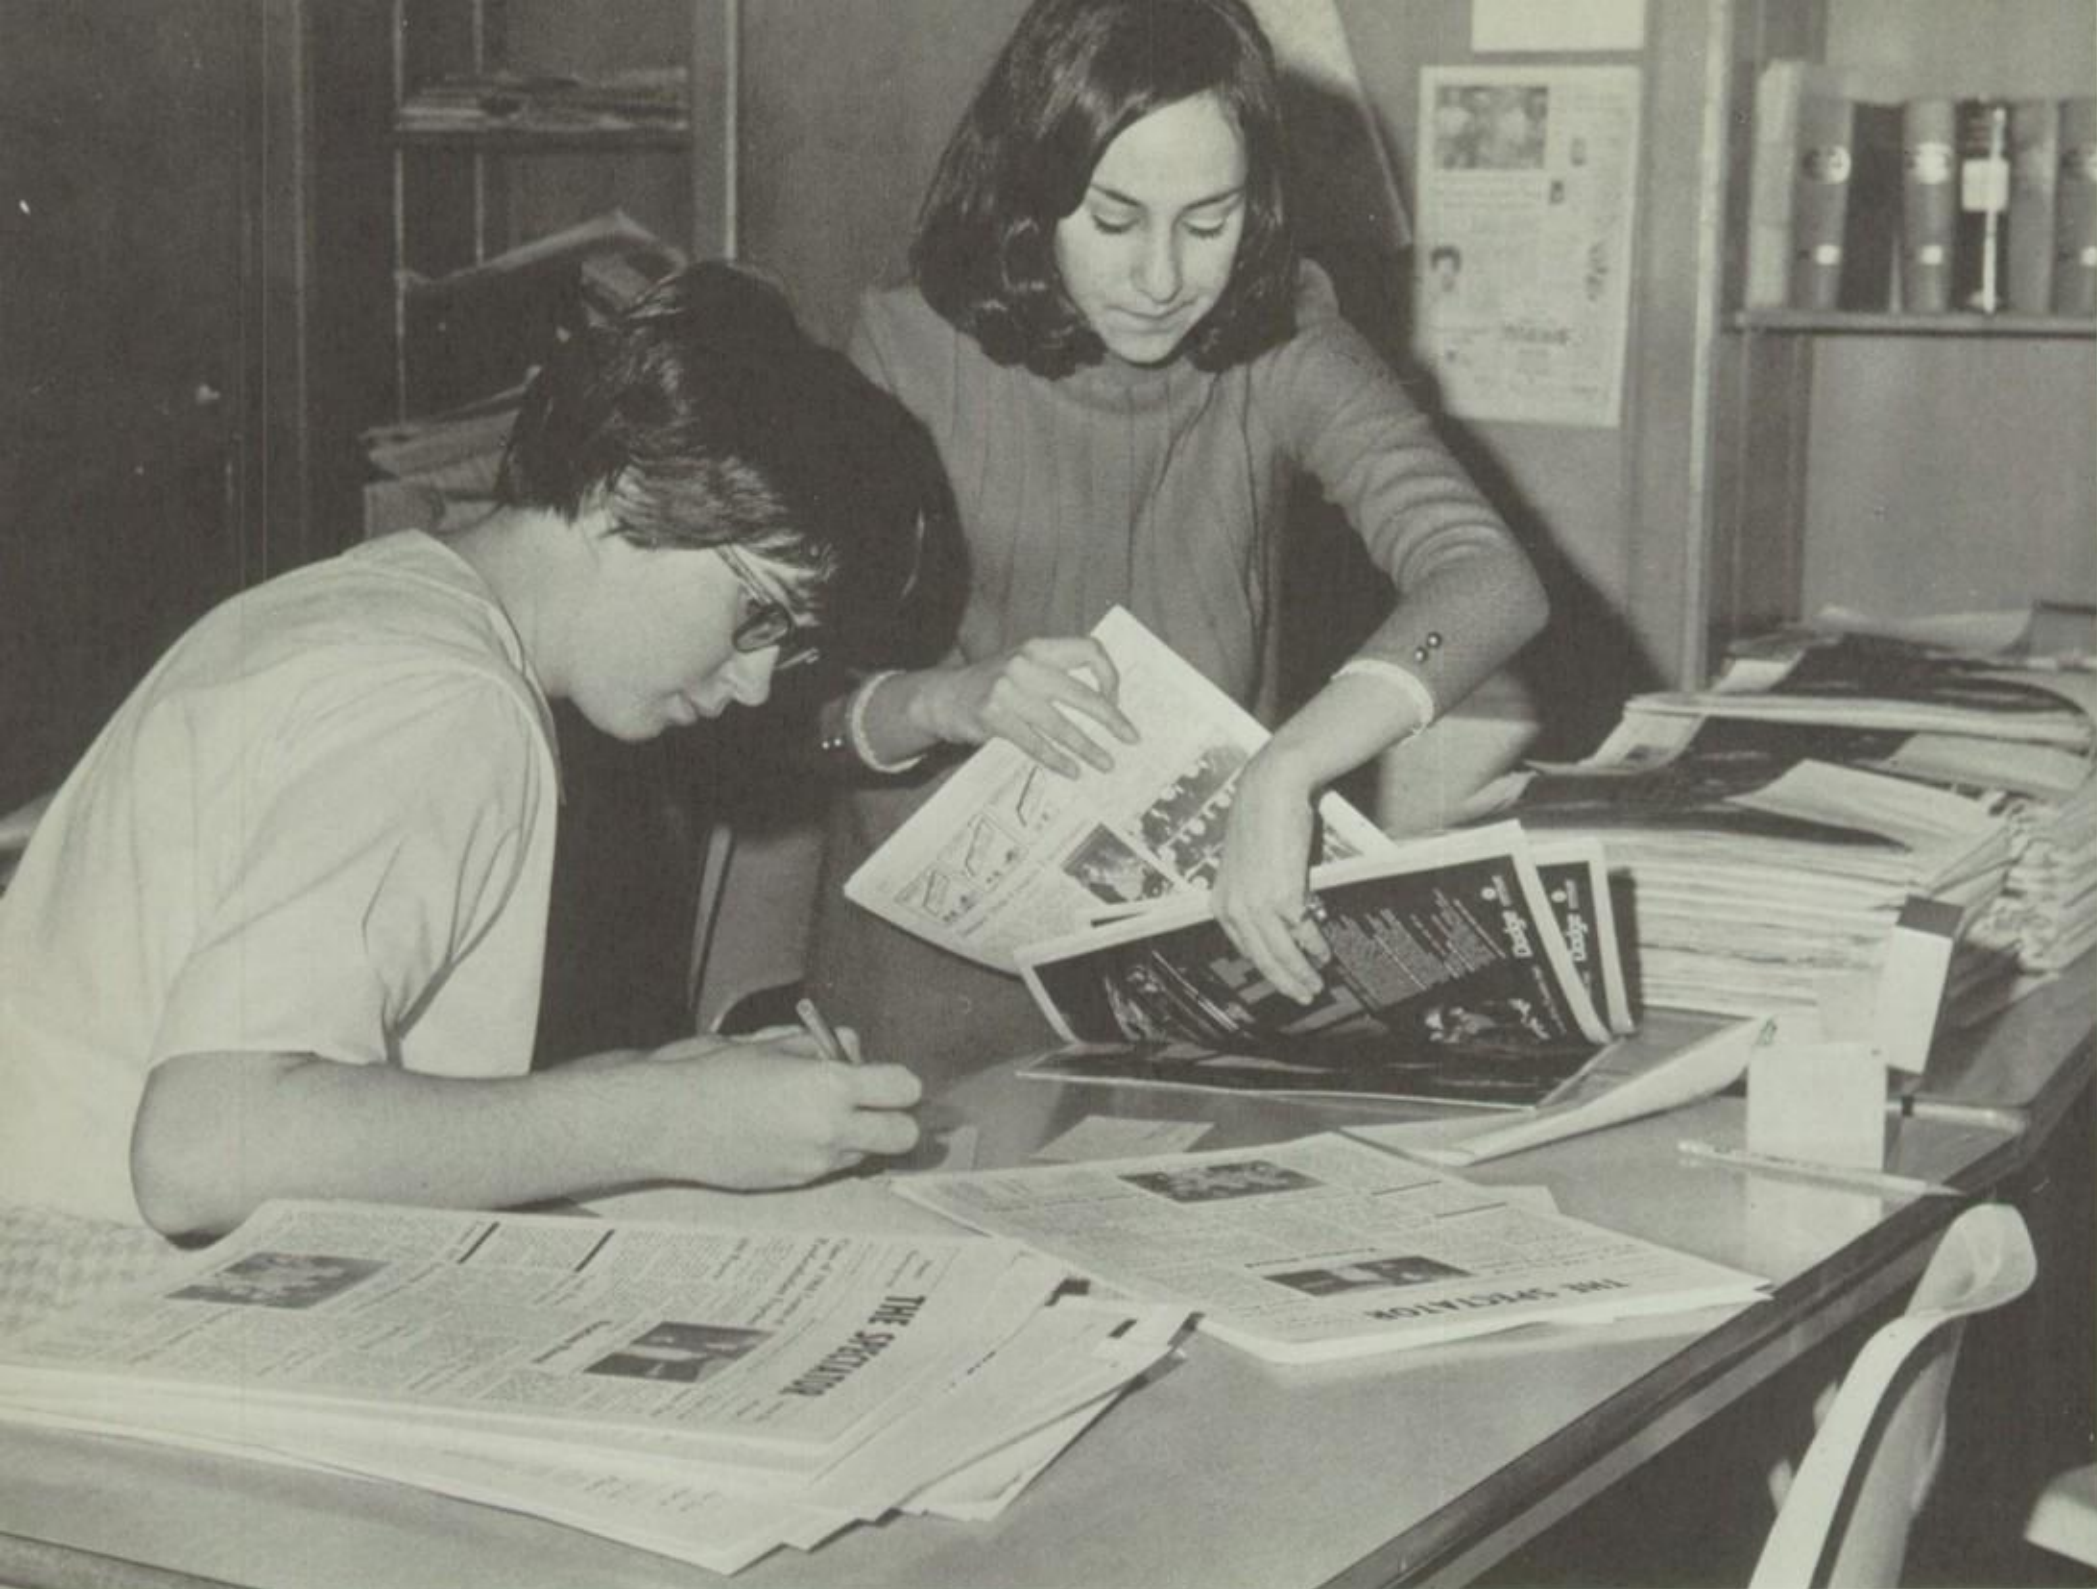

Anyone who has seen the hilarious antics of Tri-C initiates probably wonders how these activities display charm, culture and character in a girl. To the members of the club, however, these are just the beginning of the more refined activities which take place during the year. Club officers do their best to develop a program of an interesting and enjoyable nature for the member of Tri-C. This fall, the club members had the opportunity to view the play "Hallelujah Baby" at the Fisher Theatre. These spirited girls also sponsored an annual turn-about sleigh ride and aspiring fashion show.

Is teaching your goal; Members of the Future Teachers of America use the events offered by their club to help decide if teaching really is their desired career. On the agenda of the FTA are many field trips to teaching institutions. Members visit the University of Michigan and Wayne State University to observe education programs offered by these schools. They also participate in an exchange program with members of the FTA of Gladwin, Michigan. Through this experience, they are able to see school life in Gladwin, as Gladwin students are able to see how Berkley High School functions.

Contemporary Publications Reflect Student Creativity

"The purpose of the Spectator," says one of the paper's editors, "is to relate school events and more importantly reflect the opinions of the student body." Student reporters have taken special care to discuss in their articles important issues such as student dress, drug abuse, or senior finals. The monthly paper is commended this year for interesting features like Joan's Jive and Birds Eye View. Mr. George Crowe, staff advisor, helps students improve their journalistic techniques by arranging outings to universities as well as instruction in the fourth hour Spectator class and after school.

The Creative Writing Club, like the Spectator staff is involved with student opinion and advancement. This group, however, emphasizes the literary aspect of student life. Club members discuss and criticize the writing techniques of their peers. This group, with advisor Mrs. Ann Rulapaugh, compiles Patterns. This work contains the literary achievements of students which have been submitted, reread, and published. This year Patterns received first place in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association judging for literary excellence.

Gifted Performers Display Truly Superb Musical Ability

A necessary element comprising life at Berkley High is the display of superb musical talent by students in various bands. The Marching Band, under the supervision of Drum Major Doug White, supports our football team throughout the entire home season. Their excellent half-time shows, credited to early-morning practice sessions, accentuate the excitement of the games and are eagerly awaited by all. Capitalizing the season is the band's performance in the J.L. Hudson Annual Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Berkley's Varsity Band, directed by Mr. Walter Mison, gives performances at annual concerts. Placement into this organization is often a stepping stone towards a seat in the Concert Band.

The most experienced and proficient of all bands at Berkley, the Concert Band, not only presents excellent shows at the annual concerts, but also appears at Senior Commencement Exercises. It is evident that musicians in this band represent true mastery of talent.

Never ending effort produces these fine artists. These three superior groups are direct results of the individuals' desires to achieve success in their respective fields of various types of music.

Art and Chess Enthusiasts

Master Respective Techniques

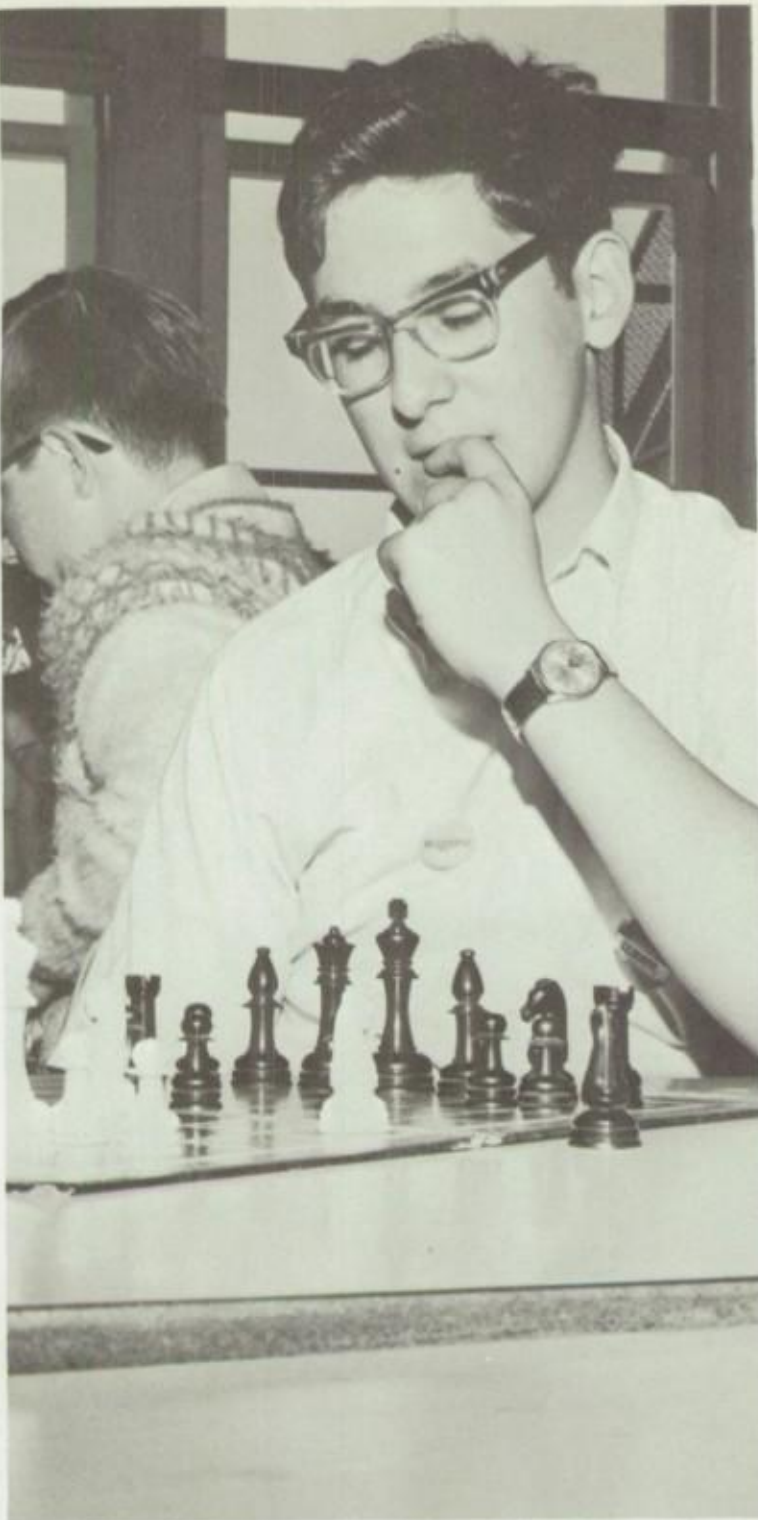

The ability to express oneself is definitely an asset to whomever may possess it. For those students who do have artistic abilities, Berkley's Art Club provides a source for the development of this talent and an atmosphere of creativity.

Under the expert supervision of Mrs. Muriel Cowan, the club members work strenuously to perfect their creative talents. Every year, the group puts on an art sale and exhibit which is open to the entire school.

The Art Club also finds time to take cultural trips to Harmonie Park, with it's abundance of art galleries and interesting shops. They also stage a Potpourri of the Arts where weird dances and new art forms are shown.

When people hear the word "chess," a dull, unexciting game with "those little ivory players" first comes to mind. But at one of the weekly gatherings of the Berkley Chess Club, nothing could be further from the truth. At each match, the opponents find that they are not confronted with just another game but with a battle where all is at stake. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Charles Jarvis, the Chess Club provides those avid chess enthusiasts with an outlet where they may devise new strategies for the next time they go to war.

Scientific Progress Provides Incentive for Explorations

Adopted to encourage students in the medical field, the Medical Careers Club has opened many doors for B.H.S. students. Officers Claudia Mearkle, Sue Lim, Lynn Issitt and Sandie Zarkin sponsor speakers and numerous field trips which introduce their classmates to various professions. Opportunities to visit neighboring hospitals and universities enable students to see modern medical facilities and converse with doctors in the various fields of medicine. Visiting their adopted grandmother Mrs. Delozier and participating in first aid courses, allows members to actively examine the medical career and develop their own personal skills.

The Berkley Science Research Project, better known as the B.S.R.P., presents a challenge to inquiring minds at B.H.S. Members flock to room 223 to work on their telescope lens, cyclotron or complex radio system. Science enthusiasts are given the opportunity to tinker in Berkley's lab as well as visit various scientific exhibits. This year, in addition, B.S.R.P. members displayed their outstanding creative abilities with the presentation of their Homecoming float, which received second prize.

Gymnastics Club Meetings Provide Opportunity For Athletic Development

Interpretive dance, tumbling formations, and weekly calisthenics are all part of the Gymnastic Club's program to help the BHS student keep in shape while maintaining feminine grace. Sponsored by Miss Georgia Hovey, the club meets every Monday after school for all students interested in strenuous exercise. Students apply newly learned skills to attain a high level of poise.

One of the many exciting field trips that the Gymnastic Club looks forward to each spring is that to Eastern Michigan University. At Eastern, the BHS students are given the opportunity to watch reknown interpretive dancers perform. Also, while at the university, the girls are able to research physical facilities and training programs on the college level. Talking with talented students and touring the campus are also high-lights of the outing. Incorporating learned material on this trip into one's own gymnastic activities is the goal of each member of this hard-working group.

Among the many hard-working groups that function at Berkley, the members of the Annual staff are sure to rate very high on the list. Every year, the minds of these energetic students strain for new ideas to make the annual yearbook, Bear Tracks, an exciting and informative representation of the school year gone by.

The 1969 Annual staff, under the supervision of editor Sue Lim and advisor Mr. Mark Eichner, has attained high goals of achievement in putting together this year's publication. The incorporation of vivid pictures and creative descriptions of all phases of school life are but two of the main highlights that are found in '69 Bear Tracks.

Throughout the year the members of the class are plagued with impending deadlines where a certain quota of pictures, copy, captions, and the other elements of a school yearbook are expected to be completed and ready for use. Although these deadlines seem to appear quite often and are looked on with contempt by the staff, the necessity of them is unquestionable in the clockwork movements which must be a part of the formation of an annual.

This year's Bear Tracks is certain to represent a new level of creativity never before found in a school yearbook.

Constant Participation in Strenuous Activities Yields

Any BHS girl looking for an outlet for her athletic energy can easily find one when she becomes a member of the Girls Athletic Association. Members of Berkley's GAA demonstrate the benefits of good physical condition through active participation in various activities offered by the club. Field hockey, volleyball, basketball and softball are only a few of the many activities offered to each interested GAA member. Miss Georgia Hovey, sponsor of the club, not only helps members plan activities, but also helps them arrange bake sales. This year the girls found time to sell BHS nylon jackets.

Wednesday afternoons find members of Berkley's Horseback Riding Club eagerly awaiting their weekly riding expedition. A nearby ranch provides riding facilities, giving experts the chance to demonstrate their learned talents, and beginners the chance to receive competent instruction in the techniques necessary to perfect their developing talents. In addition to the weekly riding trips, club members take time out to prepare bagel sales and the annual hayride. The climax of an exciting year arrives when each active club member is given the opportunity to take part in a pack trip.

Students Pursue Level of Understanding Through Individual Expression

Creativity can be found in many places throughout the school, but nowhere is it seemingly more developed than in the Dramatics Club. Each year, many determined young actors and actresses strive to perfect their own personal skills. They attain their goal, mainly, by learning from each other. Numerous workshops are arranged to teach the fundamentals of all theatre aspects. The developed techniques are finally revealed when members of the club put on a complete play to the delight of their audiences. Berkley's Dramatics Club is definitely an accomplished group well worth watching.

JCL, the Junior Classical League, is one of the several clubs at Berkley that deal with man and his society. The group tries to relate the ancient world with the world of today. During the school year, the club takes several field trips to various museums and many other cultural institutions. The members of JCL are undoubtedly a group of concerned students interested in the world around them.

The Human Relations Club is another involved organization. Their goal is to attain peaceful relations between people through education. Their main topic of discussion is slavery during the Civil War and its relation to our society. Many of their guest speakers are from P.A.R., People Against Racism. The Human Relations Club is a necessary link with the controversial issues of today.

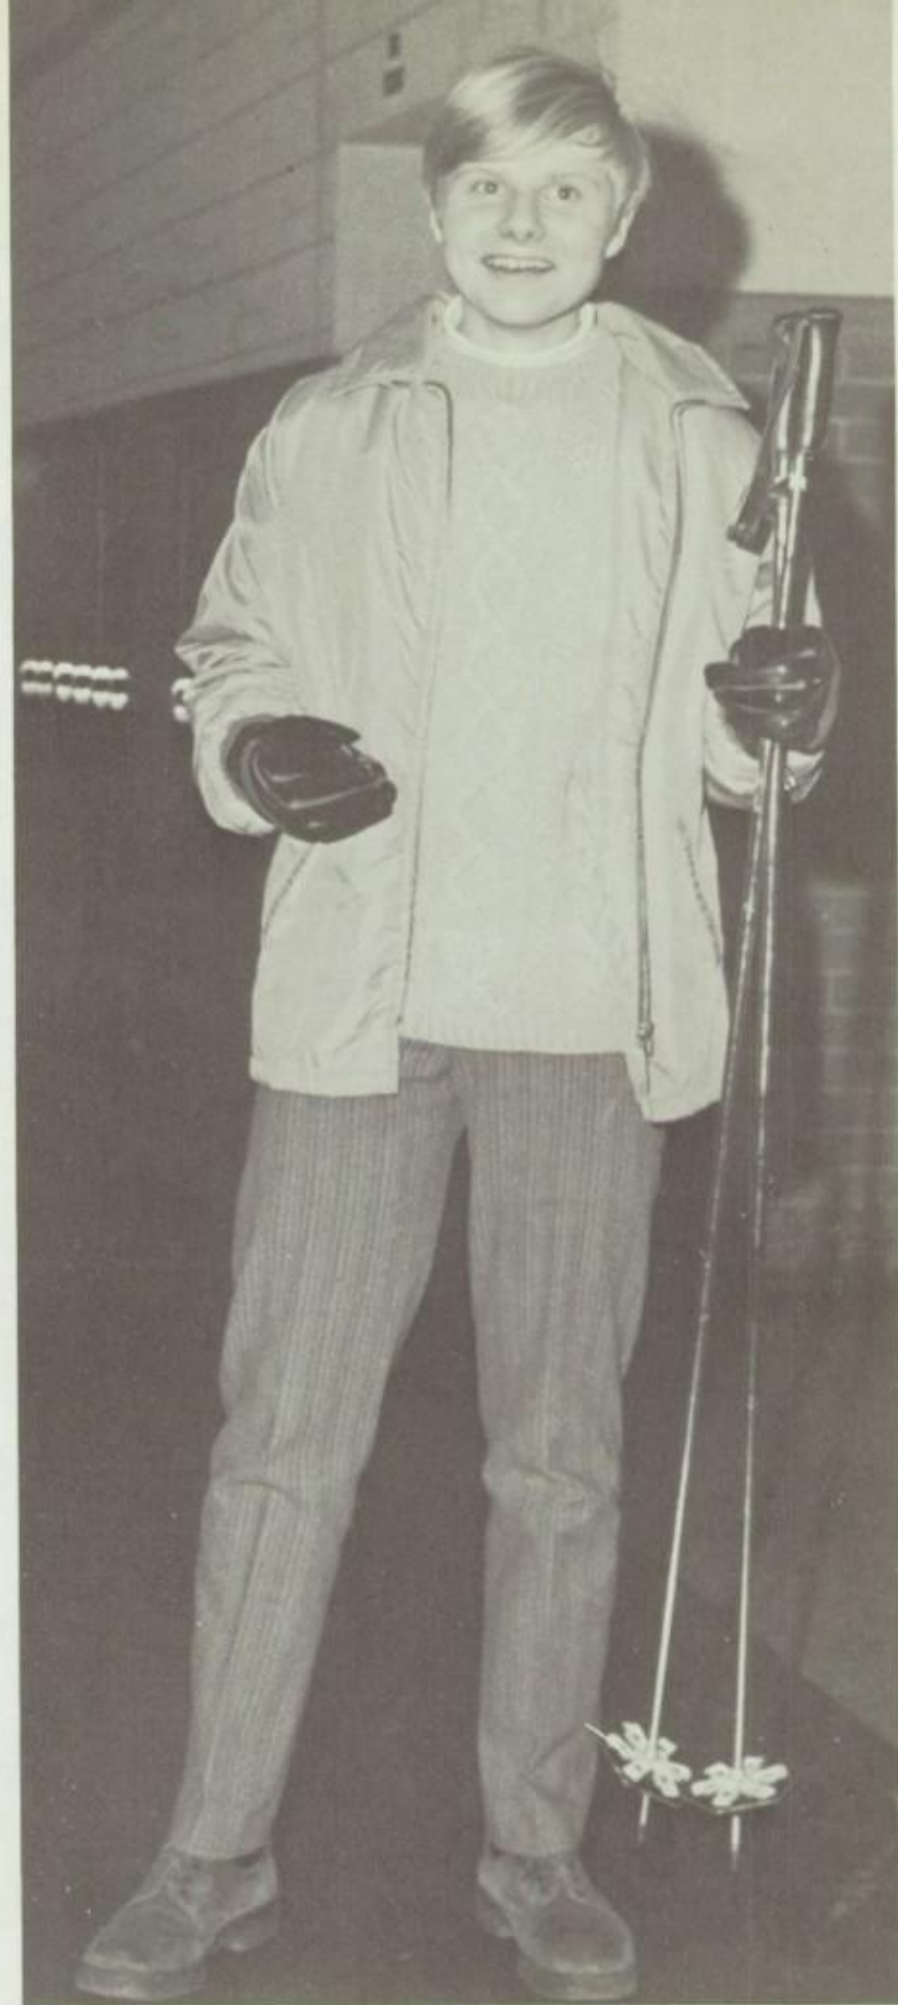

Ardent Sportsmen Seek Opportunities to Develop and Apply Individual Techniques

Heavy snows and strong winds can only attract dedicated skiers. Berkley Ski Club members are no exception. As long as there is snow on the ground, ski enthusiasts meet every Wednesday for an outing to Mount Holly, Alpine, or Pine Knob. In addition to skillful sportsmen, club members include beginners, ready to try their luck at the talked-about sport. Active participants are able to show off their ability at the annual ski weekend at Boyne Mt., which is a truly unique ending to a good ski season. Through the use of excellent instruction and facilities, the Ski Club has become one of Berkley's most popular organizations.

The one organization comprising all of Berkley's outstanding sportsmen is the Varsity Club. Lettermen from various sports must first survive the renowned "hell night," part of Varsity Club initiations, to merit club membership. As full-fledged members, they build and organize the annual spirit-rousing Homecoming bonfire. Helping in community activities, Varsity boys arrange the car wash for the exchange student workday, sell Goodfellow Papers in the city of Berkley, and manage concessions at all sports events.

Pep Rallies Promote Undying Spirit at School Activities

Peppy people put pzazz into Berkley High School athletic activities. Under the leadership of the Pep Club and the Pep Band, the student body enthusiastically supports their dedicated athletes through all of the year's activities.

An important ingredient is missing from school assemblies and Friday lunch hours when the Pep Band members do not bring their talent and zany costumes. Ranging from sincere performances of musical talent to imaginative and lively assemblies, the Pep Band is undoubtedly one of the main assets of Berkley High. The sight of weirdly dressed individuals carrying musical instruments through the halls has become part of the institution of our school.

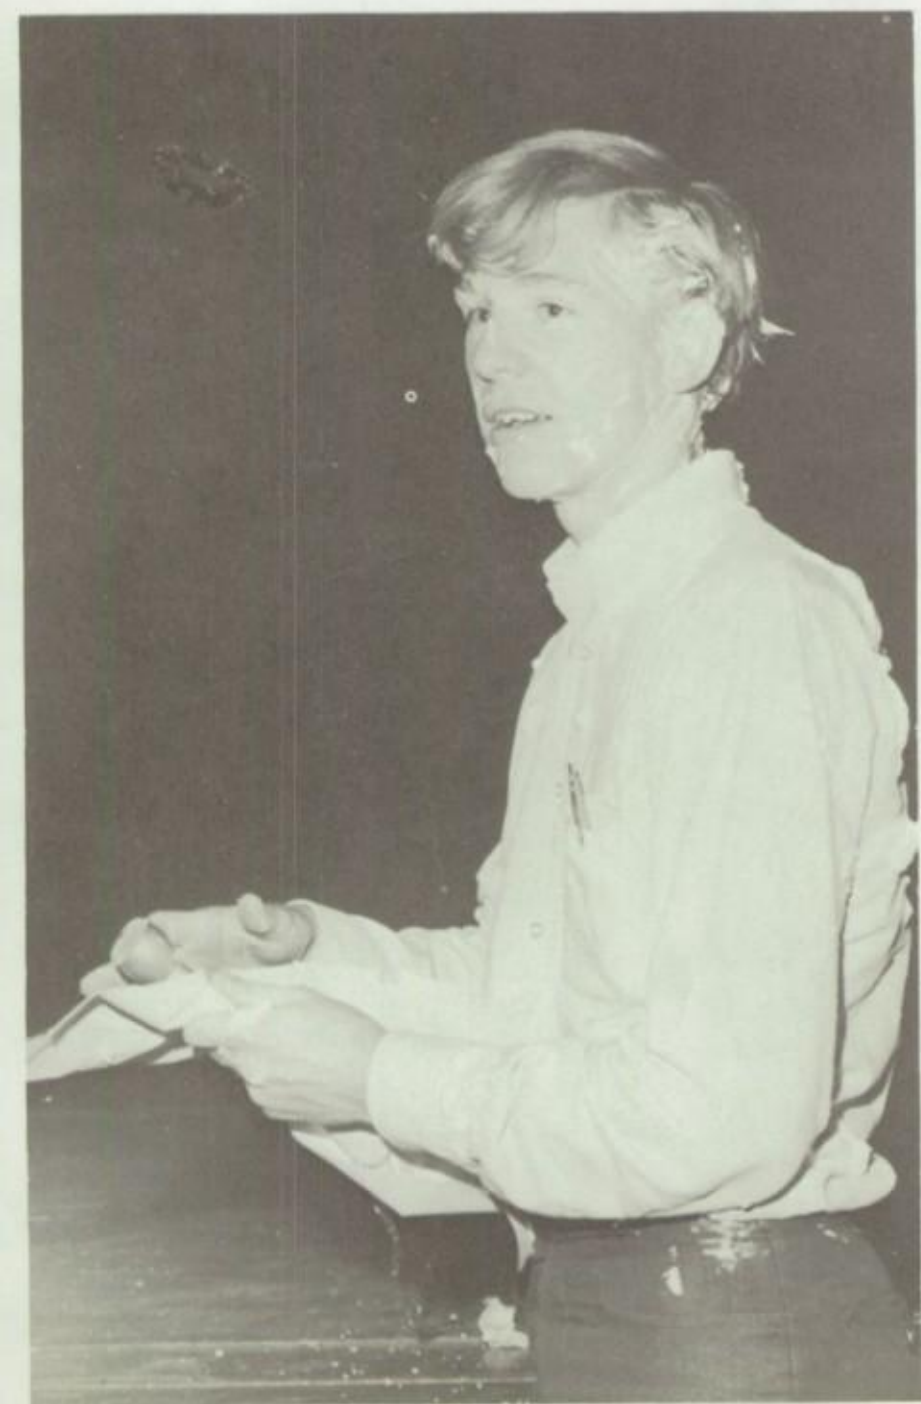

Under the supervision of Paul Clancy, the Pep Club is responsible for various projects and spirit-raising events which take place throughout the year to the delight of all B.H.S. students. From assembling a presentable Homecoming float to selling bus tickets for all away games, the tasks of the club are indeed numerous and varied.

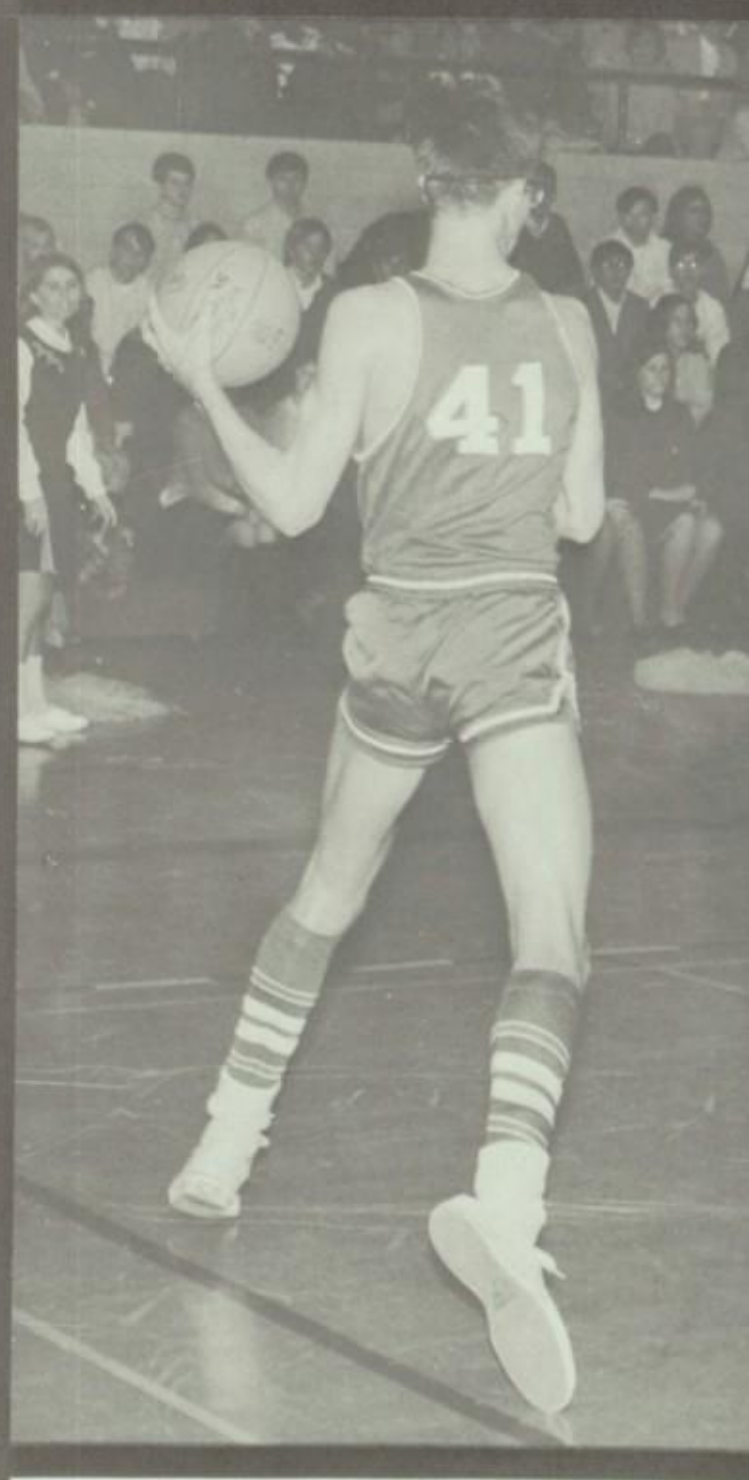

The superb work of these dedicated organizations truly helps arouse spirit and excitement within the school body. Without their existence, Berkley High would not be able to successfully support the many deserving athletes who give their all for the school. Therefore, the Pep Club and Pep Band truly rate one of their own silent cheers: Hip, Hip...

Homecoming Victory Turns the Tide and Brings Improved Gridiron Action

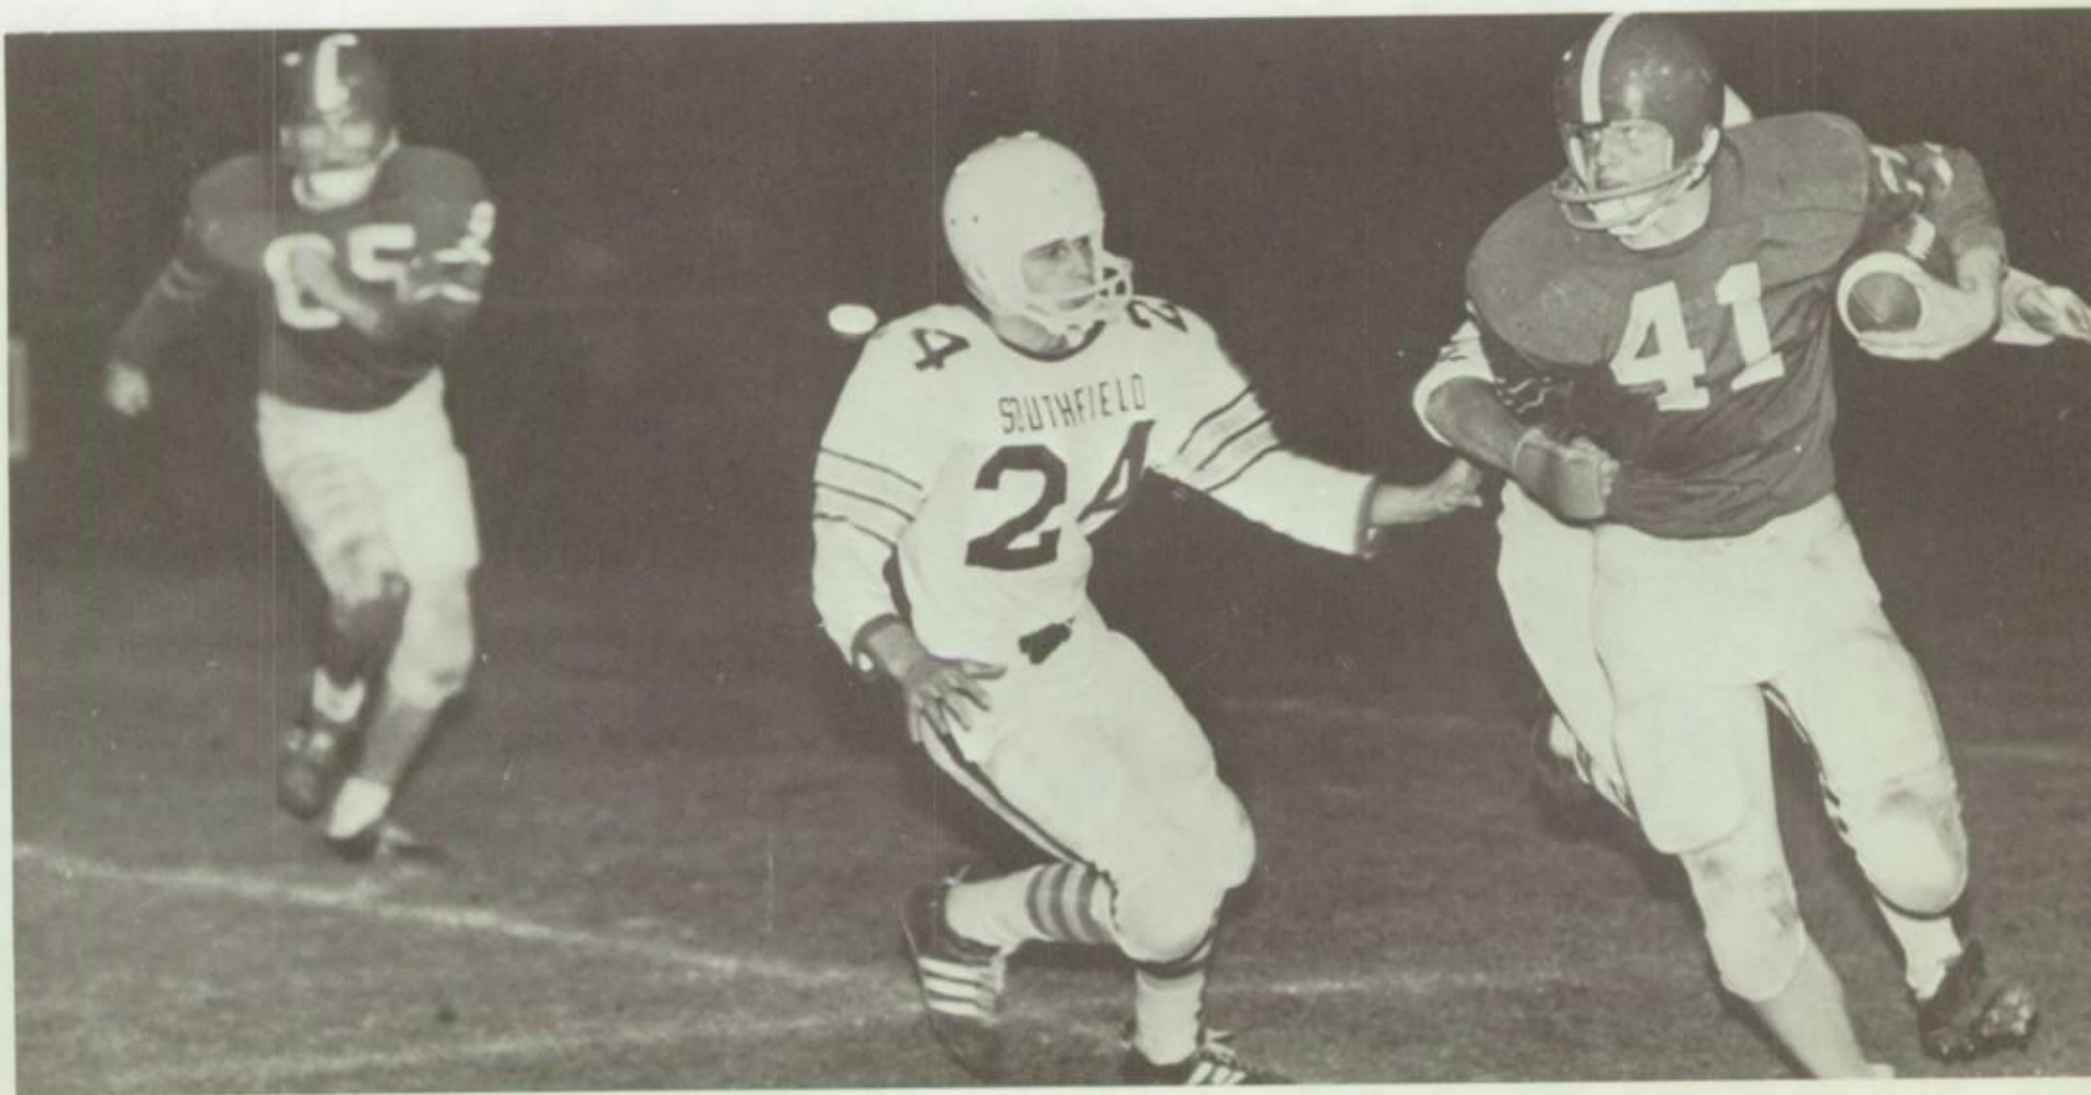

What began as a dismal season for Coach Wilson and the Bears ended with three victories in the last four games. The thrilling cap to this drive was Berkley's first win in two years achieved in the Homecoming contest. A certain victory was not fitting for this explosive occasion; the Bears responded with a 7-6 squeaker. By defeating Hazel Park in the stretch, we gained a fifth in the SMA standings.

All team members excelled in their positions, especially during these games. As a result several players earned honorable mentions in All-Area voting. These were tackle Vince Cuchetti, two-year letterman Dennis Schade, kicker Jim McIntyre, and Steve Rawlik. Roger Reynolds was named Most Valuable Player by his teammates.

Next year promises even more success with four junior lettermen returning. Center Rod Campbell and signal caller Jim Karshner will be back with Gary Twomey, Mike Flynn, and Dan Hulett. With Rawlik, the team will have five more lettermen than at the opening of the '68 season. Hopefully the Bears will have five times more success.

Reserve Squad Displays Talent and Promise for Future

The '69 Junior Varsity Football team under the leadership of Coach Lynn Holly finished this season with a 3-5 overall record. This, according to Coach Holly, was due to the players' lack of confidence and experience. "They were a bunch of kids who had the ability," he mentioned, but added that they failed to believe they really did.

The reserve squads' talent was, nevertheless, abundant. This year, for the first time, the gridgers selected a team member as Most Valuable Player. The award, to be an annual presentation, was given to Rick Tuma. The squad possessed ability through each position from interior lineman Steve Duffy to end Scott Pyykkonen, to backfield man Paul Loti.

With one victory in conference play the JV's ranked fifth in the SMA. Though the showing was not the best, the team definitely revealed the talent which the coaches had looked for. Next season a more experienced and confident group of players should make true their "promise for the future".

Silent Members of Band Lend Pomp to Circumstances

The roar of the crowd, the streaming confetti, the mud-stained uniforms of intense, determined and striving team members bring to mind an image of football, yet a picture incomplete without the colorful flash of banners and vivid uniforms of the flag corps, majorettes, and drum major. This year's "silent members" of Berkley's Band were experienced and spirited school members who spent innumerable hours in practice. As a result, they successfully lent polish and finishing touches, perfection and pomp, to B.H.S. band performances.

Following in the high-stepping traditions of Berkley High drum majors, Doug White is an outstanding performer whose enthusiasm, and precision sparked band performances throughout the year. Gaining valuable leadership training during his attendance at a summer camp, Doug shared his prowess with drum majorettes Cindy Pape and Celeste Boos and flag corps leader Nancy Genta arranging unique musical presentations which ranged from the thrilling display at the first football game of the season to the crowning splendor of Berkley's Homecoming.

It is the showmanship of the drum major, majorettes, and flag corps which added color and coordinated gymnastics to this year's festivities.

Harriers Find Key to Victories During Successful Season

Berkley harriers opened the 1968 cross country season with a bang, a bolt, and a victory over Oak Park. However, expectations of a winning streak prompted by this early win proved to be unwarranted. The Bears ended the season with a disappointing 2-7 record. Yet the season and the team were not without triumph. Credit is due to several of the fleet-footed countrymen who fought hard throughout the year to keep the team going. Senior Steve Hargreaves and junior Bill Kenyon displayed winning performances all year long and Bill placed fourteenth out of a field of forty-two in the SMA conference.

As for the regional meet, the Bears finished thirteenth out of twenty schools, thanks to the grit and determination which kept them in the race.

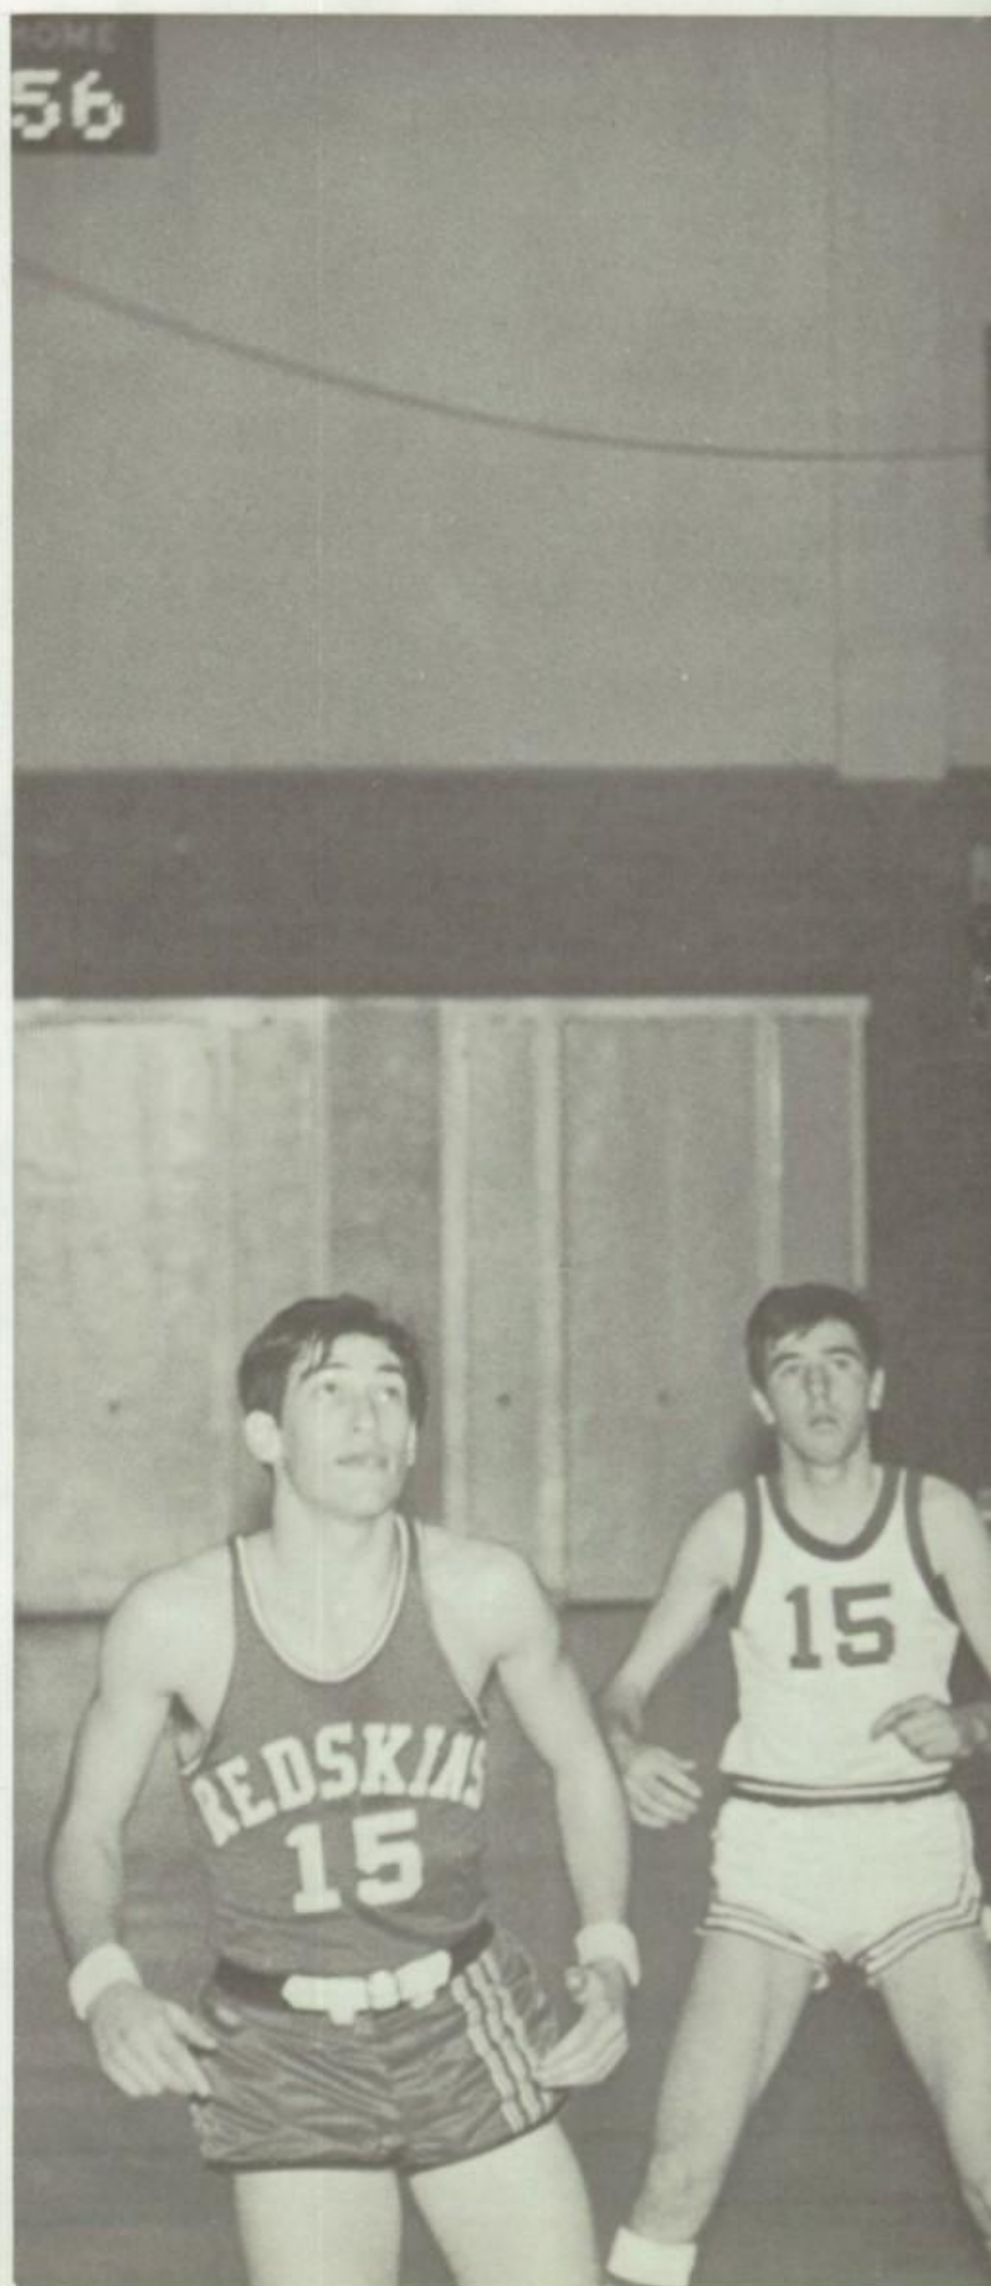

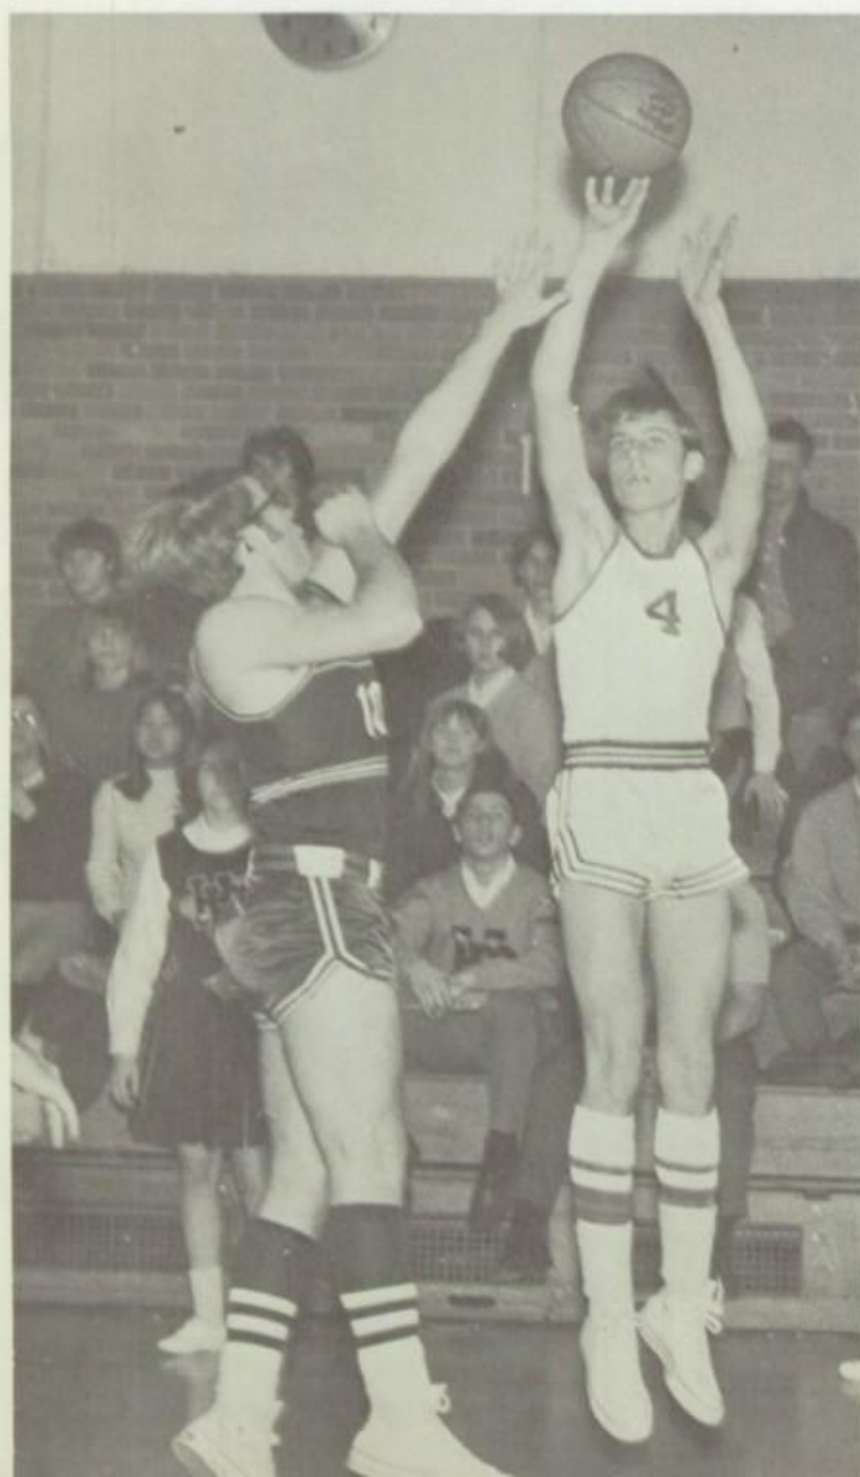

Misfortune befell the team this year in the form of injuries, hurting both the boys and their performances at times when we could not afford the losses. Nevertheless, effort and a never-give-up attitude are always appreciated and should not go without recognition. Co-captains Steve Hargreaves and Paul Clancy, and returning lettermen Gary VanDeven, Bill Kenyon, Doug Carpenter, and John Cymerint deserve both the appreciation and the recognition.

Berkley Cagers Play the Role of Surprise Spoilers and

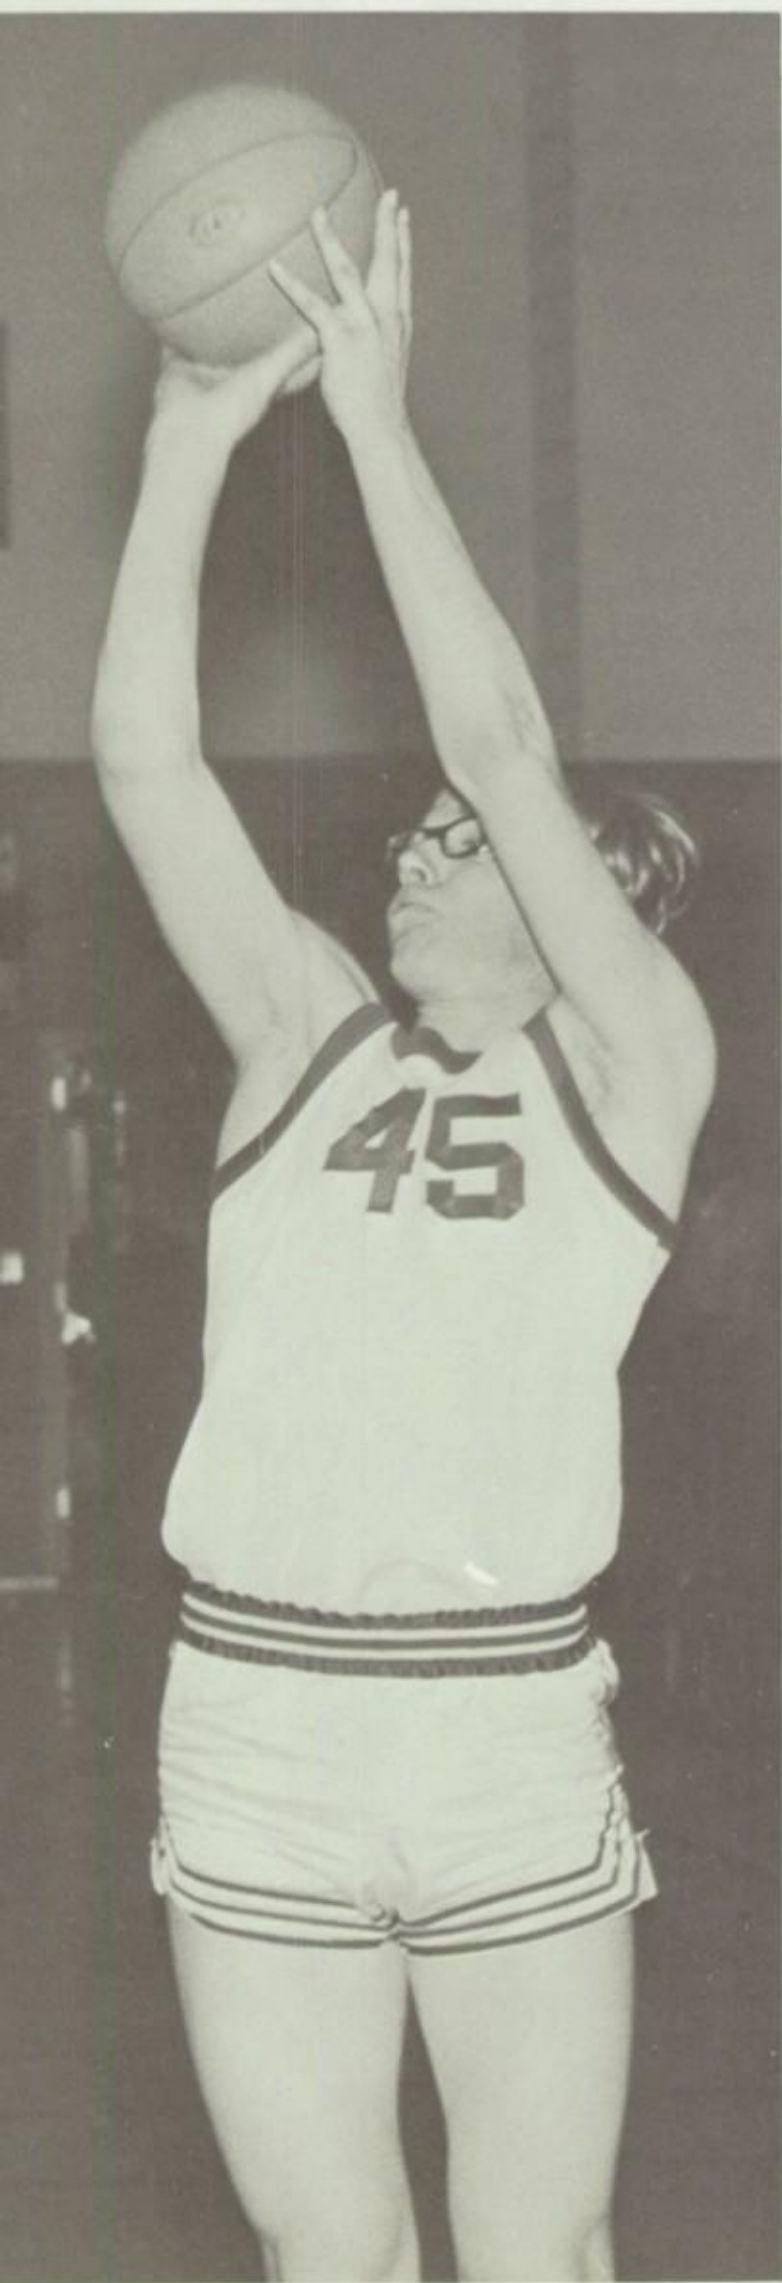

"Basket by Benning," was a familiar and frequent sound to Berkley basketball fans this season. John Benning, a 6'2" senior lead the Bears to a good showing in the Christmas tournament and to a third place SMA finish in an exciting season. Benning scored over thirty points on several occasions and set a new record of 41 points in the last game against Seaholm.

Junior guards Larry Fulton and Larry Jackson were bright aspects for the future as they sparked the defense and haunted the opposition with their ball stealing tactics. Tom Pheister superbly displayed his ability on the boards by grabbing numerous key rebounds all season. His brother Gary, a 6'3" sophomore, gained experience and showed promise for his next two years. Larry Presser steadily averaged in double figures and was another Bear standout on both offense and defense.

The Bears proved they were a team to contend with when they defeated Ferndale and crushed Kimball by thirty points. The tough SMA conference race became a scramble as surprise victories were common. The leadership of Benning and a well rounded team made Berkley a threat.

Varsity Reserve Team Has Ups and Downs But Scores Big During Winter Season

Following in the footsteps of the Varsity squad, the '69 reserves achieved a fairly successful record this year with an overall 6-8 won-lost season. Both teams wound up with the same records. With Coach Steve Rhoads at the helm the sophs bounced their way to a 4-6 SMA tally.

Leading this year's Bears were two junior guards, Pat McClelland and Mike Applebaum. Mike led the squad to a school team high of 92 points scoring 27 himself. The Bears' top forward was sharp-shooting Tom McEvoy who provided strong rebounding power as well as his great scoring ability. Pat Kemp added his eye to help increase the game scores. Rounding out the rebounders were strong men under the boards, Scott Pyykkonen, Dave Stroud, and Tim Boland. An all-round team ability was exemplified this year through the election of three JV cagers for the M V P Award--Tom, Mike, and Tim.

Though the Bears finished with a losing record, they managed several high-scoring games. Twice during the winter season the reserves broke BHS records ending the year with the all-time high of 92 points. It was not a year of great success for the team, yet it was ironically a year for changing the record books.

Energetic Cheerleaders Faithfully Hail Maroon and Blue

The Berkley High School Varsity and Junior Varsity cheerleaders continually brought pep and spirit to the school and faithfully supported our football and basketball teams during the season. Under the supervision of their sponsor, Miss Linda Dittmer, the girls also performed at weekly assemblies and pep rallies. They devoted much of their time not only to practice, but also to projects initiated to promote school spirit. They held their annual car wash, which was conducted to raise funds for new pom poms and to attend a cheerleading camp.

Ten girls, representing both squads, attended the camp for four days last summer. They sjoined other cheerleaders from participating schools all over the state. The purpose of the camp was for the girls to exchange ideas, learn new cheers, and to enter competition among one another. The camp, located near Brighton, was the source of our squad's "basic training" and was important in their devevelopment as cheerleaders and as promoters of BHS school spirit.

Prized Holds Which Earn Top Medals in Tournaments

Wrestling meets drew unusual crowds this year as the Bears successfully grappled their way to victory at the first three meets of the season. Similarly exhausting victories and excited crowds simultaneously mounted as the Bears rolled to a sensational finishing record. Another factor to which the overwhelming student response could be attributed was the December 20th wrestling assembly, held to encourage student awareness of the sport. Members of the wrestling team who participated were Jim Hamilton, Dennis White, Dick Sterry and Doug Willer. The boys demonstrated wrestling holds such as the half nelson, cradle and single and double leg take-downs. This assembly and its demonstration prompted unprecedented publicity for meets and the recognition of wrestling as an enjoyable spectator sport.

The gold star record of the Bears was due to the skill of all the team members. However, several boys deserve added recognition. Juniors Bruce Haas, Brian Smith and Gary Twomey displayed outstanding talent during the season and can be expected to return next year as state finalist material. Seniors Dennis White and Doug Willer skillfully kept up each family's tradition. Dennis's brother Jerry was State Champion in 1960, and Dennis placed third in his division in the Oakland County Tournament. Doug's brother Jim was all-state in 1967; Doug was potential state champion this year as he won the Oakland County Tournament Championship in the 127 pound division. Grit, determination and talent such as displayed by these boys were characteristic of the whole team as they reduced opponent's threats and established themselves as excellent grapplers.

Finnish exchange student Jarmo Vuorinen shared his skiing talents with Berkley High and lead the ski team to four victories. Jarmo was the highlight of a rather mediocre season as he was the fastest skier among the first six starting racers. The other starters were Andy Borin, Rick Rosenahus, Ken Levine, Dean Clarke, and Bruce Etkin. Alternates were Doug Victor and Alan Edelson.

Mt. Holly was the site of the team's practices and meets. Under the supervision and guidance of sponsors Miss Sally Eckwall and Mr. Charles Jarvis, Berkley's "schussers" finished the season with a 4-5 meet record. Because of the weather and poor skiing conditions the team was unable to improve its record when cancellations shortened the normal length of the season.

Berkley Kegglers Roll Their Way Past Rival Bowlers

The 1968-1969 season of Berkley's bowling team marked the seventh year for the team in the South Oakland County High School League. Competing teams meet each week during the eighteen week season which begins October and lasts until April. At the end of the season in April, a banquet is held at which awards are given to the team scoring the most points, to the team with the highest game score, to the team with the highest scores for two games, and to individuals who score the highest single and series game points. Membership in this league also allows the bowlers to participate in the Junior Bowling Congress Tournaments. Individual averages in the league run from 105 to 180 points and the handicap is determined by 75% of the averages between competing teams.

For the Bears, Ron Cain and Pat Maher led their teammates in game point averages with Ron averaging 160 points a game and Pat averaging 150 points. Junior Tom Drahek held the high game mark for the Bears as 212 points. The all-league high was 225 points.

Exhibits Poise and Finesse Against Rival SMA Linksters

The golf team completed the season second in the SMA last spring and gave an outstanding performance in regional competition. The Bears held a 5-6 overall record for the year, but they lost two of their conference meets by only two strokes or less.

Under the supervision of Coach James Brown, the team played and practiced at the tough Franklin Hills layout. This well manicured course was a good test for the opposition and proved to be a slight advantage for our team when they played at home.

Junior Dave Seyburn became number one man on the squad and showed great improvement during his second year. Seyburn paced the team with a 78 in the State Regionals as Gary Schwartz and Jim Blugerman added 80's to give Berkley a second place finish.

The low men on the team were Norm Newton and Gary Schwartz who averaged about 40 for nine holes. Seyburn averaged slightly under 40 for the season as he continually lead the team and became one of the area's best players. Jim Blugerman, Bob Ervasti, and Jerry Becker rounded out the team as they vied for the number four and five positions.

The team is looking forward to another successful season with many returning and experienced lettermen to lead the way in the spring of 1969.

Sandlotter's Consistent and Solid Performances Provide

Berkley's fair showing in the SMA last spring was sparked by the performance of several key players. Although only a few players were officially honored, the whole team deserves recognition for their combined efforts. Coach Don Leshner's Bears placed fourth in the league and carried an overall 7-12 win-loss record for the season.

The team included all conference players Ken Tye and Roy Downie, and Honorable Mention winner, Jim Rhodes. Ken Tye proved to be the team's Most Valuable Player as his brilliant pitching accounted for five of the team's seven victories. Captain Roy Downie was also named all SMA for his position as catcher. Outfielder Jim Rhodes paced the offensive hitting attack, as he batted .320 for the year. His efforts earned him an Honorable Mention.

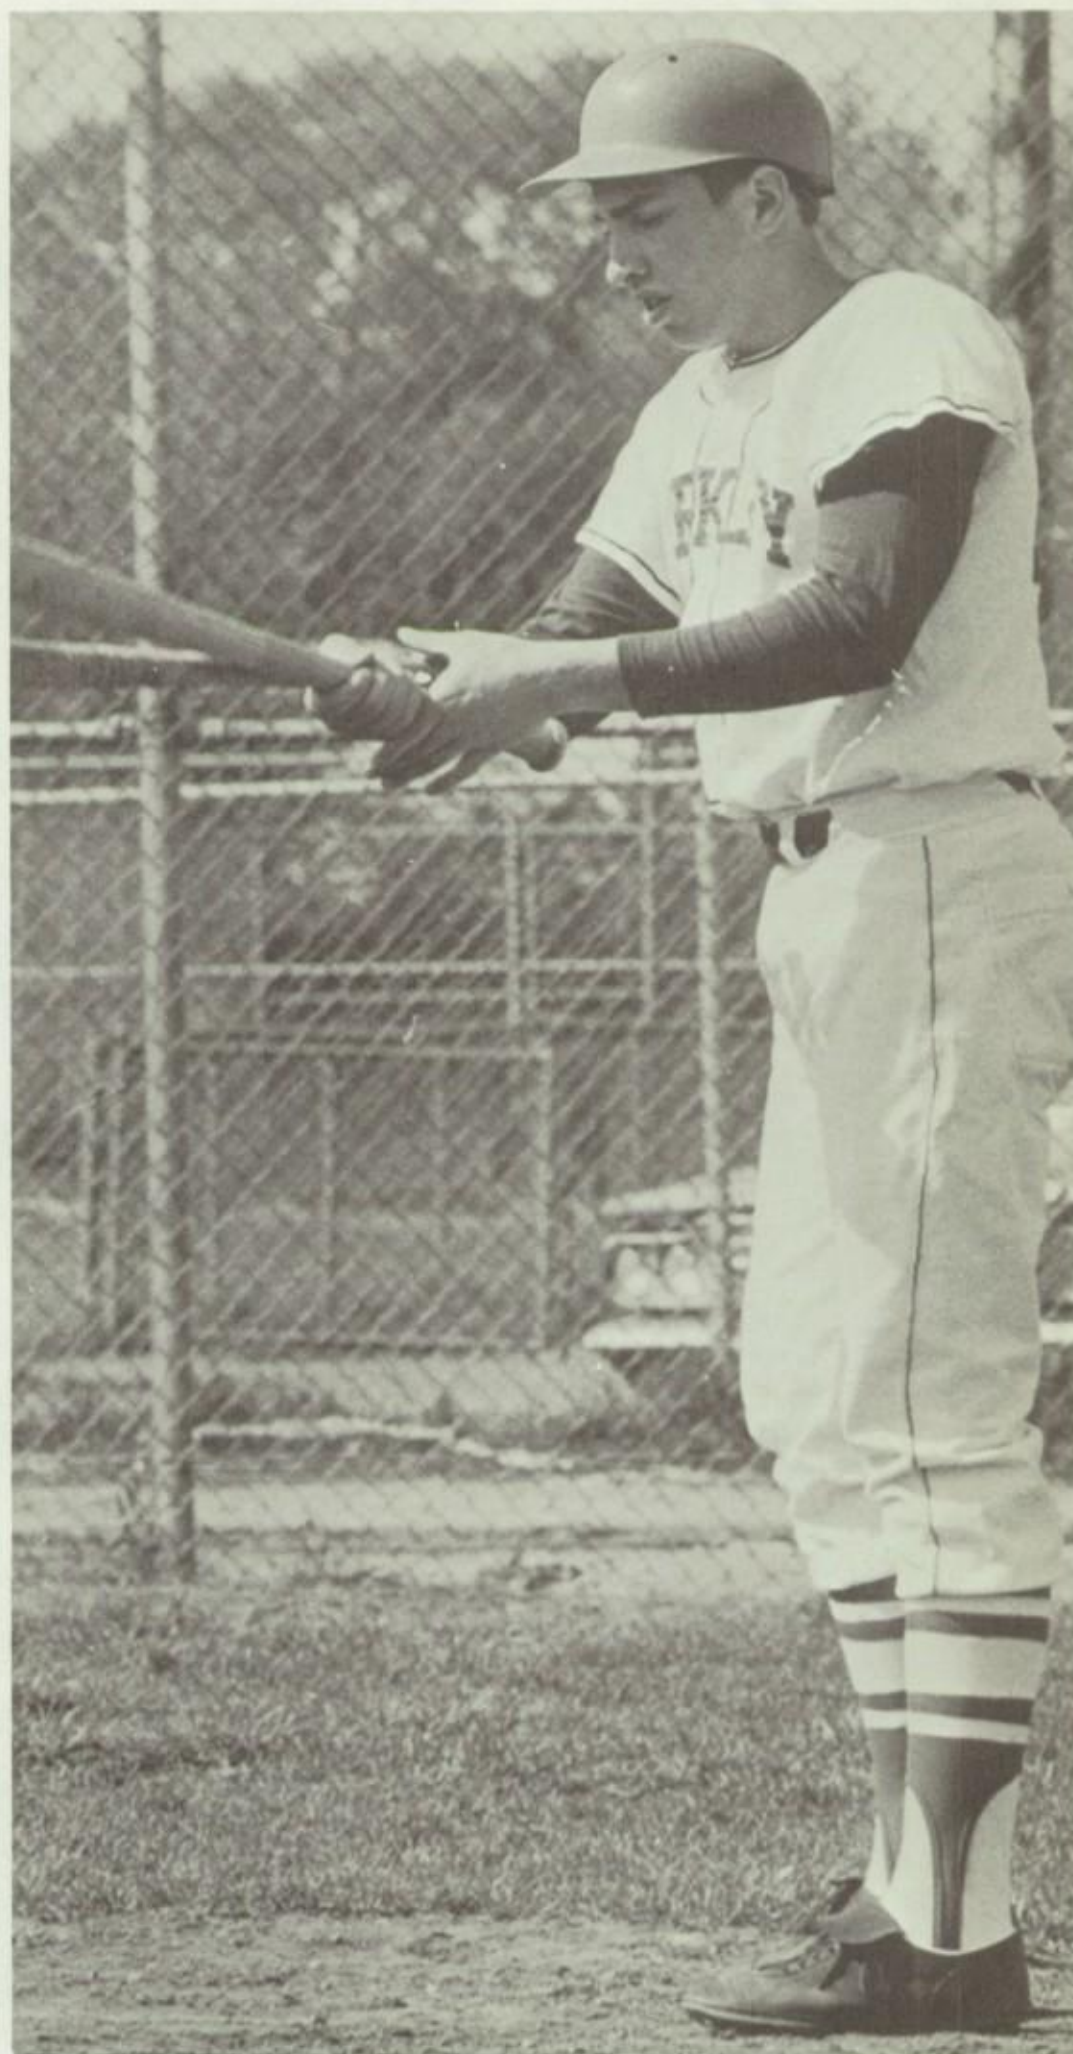

Coach Leshner commended third baseman Greg Clugston and first baseman John Parker for their valuable and consistent playing. The team awarded varsity letters to fourteen players. Four of these letter winners, Tom Conlan, Vince Harrington, Ken Tye, and Bill Duncan, will be returning in 1969 to add their experience to the squad.

Although Berkley did not place as well as predicted in the SMA standings, the team produced some star players and some aspiring underclassmen. Returning juniors plus recruits from a strong Junior Varsity team, should bring BHS a winning future season.

Berkley's Champion Racketeers "Bring Home the Bacon"

Five returning lettermen promised another championship tennis season for Berkley in 1968. Junior Tim Marks, in the singles division, and the Bear's doubles team of Captain Robbie Roth and Bob Johnson were top-seeds in the SMA. Number two singles Paul Moore, number three singles Mark Pollick and number three doubles Harv Mallin were all pre-established Varsity team participants when practice for the spring season began. However, a combination of one part bad performance and nine parts utter surprise knocked our netmen out of their annual first place seat.

Despite its semi-defeat, Berkley gained a second in the conference standings and a first in the State Regionals Tournament. In the post-season Conference Meet, seniors Roth and Johnson captured a first in doubles while Marks charged to first in the Regionals.

The team looks forward to a more productive season in '69 with sophomores Morley Witus and Jim Simon returning for Varsity duty as the number two doubles team. '69 Captain Joel Hirshman also returns along with Bob Levitt and Loui Milgrom, all members on the '68 team. These veterans and several promising freshmen provide Berkley with definite hope for the upcoming season.

Tracksters Awe Spectators With Aerial Acrobatics and Lightning Bolts to Victory

The BHS cindermen of 1968 completed one of their most disappointing seasons ever, with an overall record of two wins and five losses. Though there were some bright spots for the Bears, a last place finish in both the Conference Meet and standings tells the story of the year.

Nevertheless, the coaching of Mr. Neil Jordan did produce many fine results shown through the performances of the team members. Senior Jim Crosby whizzed to several sub-two minute half miles, while teammate Dennis Schade also turned on his speed and turned in many great sprints. Both high jumper Calvin Butterworth and pole vaulter Roger Reynolds were excellent in the field events. Seniors Barry Mendelsohn and Greg Miller teamed up with sophomore standout Gary Twomey and Reynolds in the new shot put relay to capture Berkley's lone first place honor in the SMA Relays at Kimball.

The work of last spring's tracksters was certainly whole-hearted and often exceptional. However, their determination did not appear in the record books. The statistics showed only the poor results, not the great efforts.

In Memoriam

"Death did not first strike Adam, the first sinful man, nor Cain, the first hypocrite, but Abel, the innocent and righteous. — The first soul that met death overcame death; the first soul parted from earth went to Heaven. — Death argues not displeasure, because he whom God loved best dies first."
